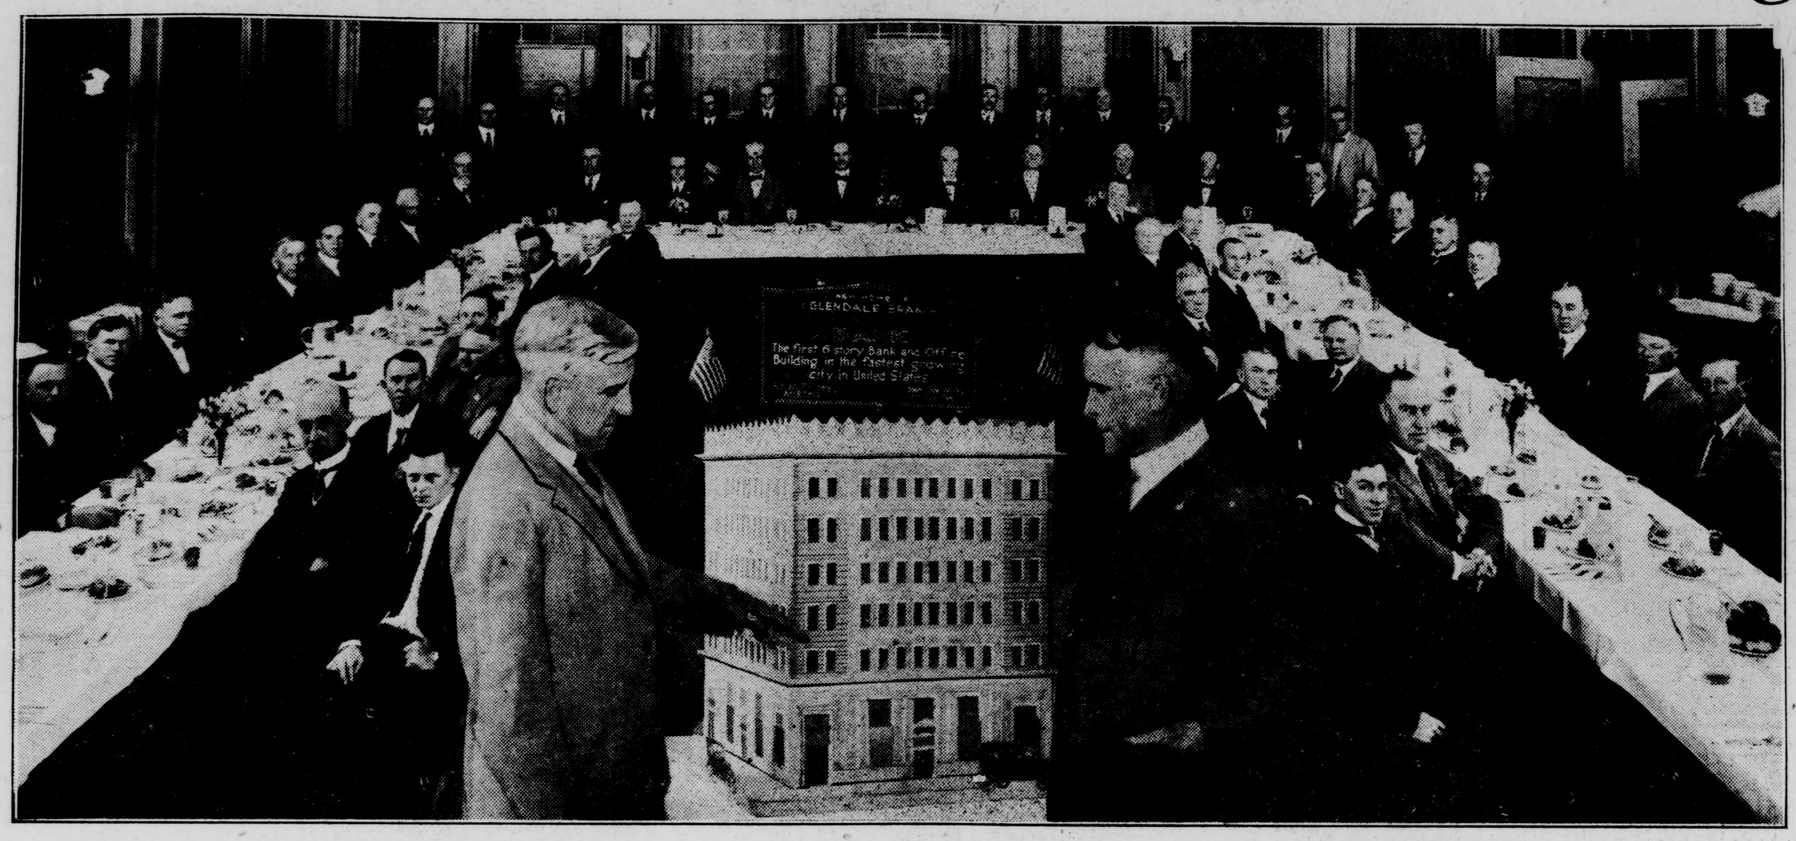
MERCHANTS' EXPOSITION OPENS TONIGHT

Celebrate Start On 6-Story Bank, Office Building



PHOTOGRAPHS BY DOLBERG'S STUDIO

The larger picture shows guests and officials of the Baker Iron Works, hosts at the banquet held last night in the auditorium of the Citizens' building, to commemorate the award to this firm of the contract for the structural steel to be used in the new six story Glendale branch, Security Trust & Savings Bank building, now being erected at the northeast corner of Brand and Broadway. The guests include officers of the Security Trust & Savings Bank, representatives of the Glendale City Council, together with officers of the local Chamber of Commerce and heads of other leading civic organizations, assembled in honor of an outstanding event in Glendale's history. The picture in the foreground shows R. F. Kitterman, vice president and manager of the Glendale branch, the Security Trust & Savings Bank, and Secretary E. F. Sanders, of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, inspecting a miniature replica of the new six story bank building now under construction.

PROGRESS OF CITY TOPIC AT C. OF C. BANQUET

Representative Citizens at Gathering in Honor of Big Improvement

AN outstanding milestone in Glendale's rapid commercial and civic development was marked last night by a banquet held in the auditorium of the Citizens' building, under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce, with the Baker Iron Works of Los Angeles as hosts, in celebration of the completion of plans for the erection, at the northeast corner of Brand and Broadway, of the first six-story steel bank and office building in this city.

The sixty-five guests seated around the large U-shaped table included officers of the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles, for whom the new structure is being built, together with officers and directors of such representative Glendale institutions as the Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Rotary, Kiwanis and Exchange Clubs, and other organizations and individuals prominent in civic, municipal and commercial affairs.

A feature of the occasion was a replica in miniature of the Glendale branch of the Security Trust & Savings Bank, as it will look when completed, at the corner, where work is now actively under way. This model, which was centered inside the U-shaped table, was illuminated from within, and presented a very striking appearance.

Open Program

After an excellent meal served shortly after 7 o'clock, the Glen Inn as caterers; music by Kelly's Shrine band. Vice-President Harry S. Hitchcock, of the Baker Iron Words, acting as toastmaster, opened the program by stating that the Security's Glendale branch, now going up, is a structure that will be a credit, not only to Glendale, but to Los Angeles.

Councilman W. A. Horn delivered the "Address of Welcome," in place of Mayor Spencer Robinson, whom illness prevented from being present.

City Beautiful

"We are trying to build a beautiful city," said Mr. Horn. "We are lining our streets and dotting our hillsides with attractive homes, improving our business sections, building magnificent churches, schools and other public edifices.

"We are glad to welcome the officers of the Baker Iron Works and of the Security Trust & Savings bank. I don't know what the mayor did with the keys to the city, but I don't think we need them, anyway, for Glendale is a wide-open town. Instead of keys, we are like a bank—we have a combination that opens things up and it is—W-E-L-C-O-M-E."

Milo A. Baker, vice president and general manager of the Baker Iron Works, gave the "Response" to the above address, chatting in humorous vein, full of most delightful reminiscences of the Glendale of an earlier day.

AIRPLANE ATTACK AGAINST BANDITS

New Effort Will Be Made to Dislodge Brigands From Their Stronghold.

By EDNA LEE BOOKER
For International News Service

SHANGHAI, May 25.—An appeal for airplanes with which to dislodge the Shantung bandits from their Paot-Zuku mountain stronghold was made today by Tsao-Kun, military overlord, by Tuchun Tien of Shantung.

Tien carried his appeal personally to the war lord at his headquarters in Paoting-Fu, urging that a prompt military campaign be launched to suppress the bandits in his province. Tien has 15,000 troops surrounding the mountain stronghold of the bandits and sought permission to use four airplanes from Peking in his attack.

Tsao-Kun is hesitating to order such an attack fearing it will mean the sacrifice of the lives of the foreign prisoners. Peking is reported to favor a drastic military move.

Latest Terms

The latest terms of the bandits sent out through J. B. Powell, American newspaper man, provide for the enlistment of 10,000 men in the national army with six months' pay in advance and six months back pay.

"Things are getting worse instead of better," Lee Solomon, San Francisco captive, wrote in his diary under date of May 24, a copy of which reached here today.

"The bandits are losing faith in the promises of the foreigners to bring about a settlement. The bandit chiefs held a conference last night and today they sent Majors Allen and Pinger and my-

CREAMERY PLANT PURCHASES LAND

Plans to Spend $130,000 at Once; Total Expenditures To Reach Half Million

Involving an initial consideration of $130,000 and a building program calling for an expenditure of $500,000, a new industrial corporation today closed a deal for a location in Glendale, which, it was said, assured that more than 3500 employes will be added to the city's population.

The firm, which is invading local territory, is the Crescent Creamery Company, now operating in Los Angeles and other Southern California cities, and the location selected here for its plant is the southeast corner of Harvard street and San Fernando boulevard.

Purchase Real Estate

Initial purchases of real estate in that vicinity include three and one-half acres and twelve lots, the deal having been consummated by B. F. Bourne, representing the Elsa Jane Real Estate Company.

Specifically, the land formerly was the property of Roy Kent, Fox Woodson and Wernette and Sawyer. Several large warehouses

MAY USE FORCE AGAINST CHINESE BANDITS

PEKING, May 25.—There were strong indications today that the patience of the foreign diplomatic body has become exhausted at the delays and duplicity of Chinese officialdom and that stronger measures than have heretofore been used are under consideration to secure the release of the foreigners held captive by the Shantung bandits. The departure within a day or so of a foreign military mission to make a complete survey of the bandit infested regions of Shantung is looked upon here today as the first step in the direction of using stronger means.

BIG ARMY PLANE ON RETURN TRIP

Takes Off From San Diego En Route to Washington For Shrine Meet

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 25.—Lieutenants Mac Ready and Kelly took off from Rockwell Field here at 8:48 o'clock this morning in the T-2 en route to Washington, D. C., where the famous army monoplane will be an attraction at the National Shriners convention.

The 750-gallon capacity gasoline tanks in the T-2's wings were only about half filled today so that the big monoplane rose easily from the ground before half the runway had been taxied.

The return flight of the monoplane is to partake of the nature of a triumphal tour. The route will be along the traversed when the T-2 made her world's record flight of 2600 miles from New York to San Diego without a stop three weeks ago. This time, however, stops will be made at various cities—El Paso, St. Louis, Dayton and probably others. The presence of the T-2 in those cities is expected to be made the occasion of much celebration by the citizens.

Miss Mary Watson was at Rockwell Field this morning to wave goodbye to her fiance, Lieut. Oakley G. Kelly, and the young bride of Lieut. John A. MacReady, together with his parents, showered him with good wishes.

MURDERER NEAR CAPTURE, BELIEF

Two Men Who Accompanied Slayer in His Flight Under Arrest

The capture of Ted Spencer, who shot George Herman at the camp in Sycamore Canyon on Wednesday night, is being expected momentarily in the vicinity of Riverside.

Joe Todd and Henry Birmingham, who were forced at the point of a revolver to accompany him on the escape from Glendale, were arrested late last night at Colton. Joe Todd stated that he had been forced to drive and that the party had gone first to San Diego and then had doubled back over the inland route. Near Riverside their Ford roadster broke down. Spencer is alleged to have ordered his companions to go into Riverside for a supply of tobacco and return, while he remained in the car.

Upon arriving in Riverside they decided to abandon their companion and took a Pacific Electric car for Colton. They were arrested while walking the streets. They are being held in custody while their story is investigated. It is regarded by the police as possible that they may have left Spencer in San Diego and come to Colton merely to throw pursuers off the track.

Inquest On Monday

The inquest into the murder of Herman, blacksmith at the camp of Contractor Charles V. Stansbury in Sycamore Canyon, will be opened Monday morning in the office of L. G. Scovern.

The case is being investigated by Detective Sergeant W. J. Royle

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—The Japanese birth rate in California in 1922 exceeded the white birth rate by nearly 200 per cent, according to final tabulations of L. E. Ross, head of the state bureau of vital statistics, announced today.

Japanese births numbered 317 in 1922 for every thousand Japanese women of child-bearing age, while white births were 125 per thousand women of child-bearing age. Ross announced his reports indicate one-third of the Japanese in California are children under 10 years of age.

The total births for all races was 73,321—an increase of 883 over 1921. By races the births were as follows: White 66,477, Japanese 5,066, Chinese 777, negroes 790 and Indians 174.

The birth rate failed by 2 per cent to keep up with the state's gain in population, Ross' statistics showed.

Work Day and Night to Break Railroad Deadlock

REDDING, Cal., May 25. — Tunnel No. 1 on the Southern Pacific Shasta route was still burning today and it has been impossible as yet to even begin the work of clearing it for traffic. The Southern Pacific's crew of 500 men and ten steam shovels are centering all their efforts on the completion of a "shoo fly" track around the tunnel. Electric lights have been installed and the work is going forward night and day. It will probably be four days longer before this track can be completed.

Twelve more automobile stages arrived at Redding today by special train from Sacramento, breaking a strike of drivers of eleven rubberneck wagons from San Francisco. They refused yesterday afternoon to make the third trip of the day to Pollock around the burning tunnel near Coran.

The strike was declared off this morning and there are now twenty-three transferring passengers over the portage of thirty miles.

TUJUNGA

FIRE THREATENS TUJUNGA HOMES

Lighted Match Thrown in Weeds Menaces Property ---Catholic Ceremony

A fire of dangerous proportions started Wednesday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock and threatened for a short time to sweep everything before it, including some half-dozen small houses in the path of it, when one of two men who were laying out the foundation for a house on the property near the corner of Pine and Summit avenue lighted a cigarette and carelessly threw the match down in the brush without troubling to see that it was out.

The brush and weeds are like tinder at this time of the year, and it was only a matter of seconds before several acres were ablaze and threatening the entire neighborhoood. A stiff breeze was blowing from the south and directly toward the hills beyond, and the prospects were good for a disastrous fire. Fortunately there is a narrow road at one side of the property, and this prevented the fire from spreading to the west.

Leo Lang, fire warden, had a gang of men on the scene very soon after the alarm was sounded, and they were augmented by volunteers from all directions in a few minutes. With shovels and hoes they concentrated on the northern side, toward which the wind was blowing, and soon had the blaze under control.

Flames Threaten

The fire started on property adjoining the Haines Canyon Water Company's reservoir, and would have swept to the hills back of town but for the quick work of the volunteers. Fires in these districts are taken very seriously, and no efforts are spared to control them, even on the smallest ones. With limited fire protection the communities of the hills are now endeavoring to get additional fire protection that is very much needed.

The Catholics of the Verdugo Hills will celebrate the investiture of the pastor of the Catholic chapel, Father Joseph Tonello, on Sunday, May 27. There will be a special service and mass at the chapel on Manzanita drive at 10 o'clock that morning.

Father Tonello will bear the title hereafter of Monsignor, as a Knight Chaplain of Honor of the Sacred Military Order of St. George, which has been bestowed upon him by the pope of Rome.

Regalia From Rome

Robes and regalia for the ceremony have arrived from Rome, and there will be artists and entertainers from Los Angeles to take part in the celebration at the chapel and in the Manzanita park following the services.

The picnic will be held after the services at Manzanita park, starting at 11 o'clock, and there will be something doing until 5 p. m. There will be several acts from the current Orpheum bill, and "Bull" Montana has promised to attend. Jackie Coogan has also been invited and several other celebrities are expected to be present.

Races will be held for all classes and later a ball game between the Mission Tigers and Loyola College of Los Angeles. Some surprises have been hinted at also. Coffee will be served, and everyone is invited.

William Pond, Robert and Edward E. O'Shannessy and Jack Maxwell have returned from their fishing trip to Lyons Springs, in Ventura county. They report limits cauhgt every day.

DEATHS---FUNERALS

MINA JEVNE BRALY

Funeral services were held at 10:30 o'clock this morning for Mrs. Mina Jevne Braly, wife of Arthur Braly, oldest son of John Hyde Braly of 505 North Brand boulevard. The services took place at the Braly home at 551 South Catalina avenue, Los Angeles, where Mrs. Braly's death occurred on Wednesday.

Mrs. Braly was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jevne, pioneer residents of Los Angeles.

She had been suffering from ill health for some time, and about two months ago she was taken to Honolulu with the hopes that the change would be beneficial. When it was found that her health did not improve she was brought back, and as she was leaving the boat at San Francisco, last week, she suffered a nervous collapse from which she did not rally.

BIRTHS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Childs of 404 Ethel street yesterday afternoon, Thursday, May 24, 1923, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

SOCIAL EVENTS

P. E. O. Luncheon

A galaxy of stars at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse! But the stars were the emblems worn above the hearts of a hundred or so members of the P. E. O. sisterhood who held their annual reciprocity luncheon in the beautiful banquet room of the new clubhouse.

The floral decorations and the dainty apparel of the visitors proclaimed that it was spring time and May time and the reception hall and palm room in the half hour preceding the luncheon presented a most brilliant and colorful scene.

Although there was no formal receiving line the guests were given opportunity to greet the reciprocity board and the guests of honor.

In the banquet room the luncheon tables, decorated in the P. E. O. colors, yellow and white, were arranged on three sides of a hollow square.

At the honor table were seated California Grand Chapter officers, members of the Reciprocity board and presidents of visiting chapters; Mrs. Ollie P. Cramer, state president; Mrs. C. M. Hord, second vice-president; Mrs. LaBelle Townsend, organizer; Mrs. Faith Story, treasurer; Mrs. Lola Bennett, past state president; Mrs. Letitia Lusby, chairman of the reciprocity board; Mrs. Genevieve Goss, president of chapter L; Mrs. Fanny Beach, president, and Mrs. Cora Webster, of chapter AH, Mrs. Edith Arnold, president, and Mrs. Beryl Cross, chapter BA, Mrs. Lizzie Hayward, president, and Mrs. Kate Parker, of CJ, Mrs. Clara Bowen, president of chapter U, Burbank, and Mrs. I. O. Kemble, president of DA, Eagle Rock.

The guests were members of chapters U, Burbank; DA, Eagle Rock; L, AH, BA and CJ, Glendale.

Following the luncheon, each of the local chapters sponsored a number for the entertainment of the visitors. Chapter BA contributed two songs "Annie Laurie" and "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny" by the Nevin quartet, composed of Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, Mrs. Edith Arnold, Mrs. Albert Draper and Mrs. Chas. A. Parker; chapter CJ, a reading by Mrs. J. T. Crampton, "The Old Darkey's Sermon on the Prodigal Son," in costume; chapter L, a group of poems by Joyce Kilmer, "Trees," "Roofs" and "Main Street" by Foley; chapter AH, three songs by Elizabeth Straith-Miller, accompanied by Eva Kurtz Ghrist, "The Spirit Flower" (Campbell-Tipton), "Happiness" (Hageman), and "The Cuckoo" (Lizt-Lehman).

The chairman, Mrs. Lusby, introduced the guests of honor who responded most graciously with appreciative and congratulatory words.

As the state officers responded, Mrs. Hayward, president of chapter CJ, presented each with flowers with fitting words for each one.

Mrs. Dan Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club in a few words of greeting invited the guests to inspect the clubhouse at the close of the program. Mrs. Madeline Kelly, of chapter BA, who is leaving soon for a visit to her old home in Australia, responded to the kindly wishes expressed by the chairman.

An interesting incident was the introduction of Mrs. H. W. Gleason, a guest from Eagle Rock, who is a member of Original D of Oskaloosa, Iowa, of which chapter she has been a member for fifty years.

Other visitors were Mrs. E. N. McKee of Enid, Okla., and Mrs. Kennedy and daughter. Mrs. Kennedy is from Iowa Falls, Iowa.

The delicious luncheon was served by the Non-section members of the Tuesday Afternoon club, under the management of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president and chairman of ways and means committee.

Luncheon Honor

Mrs. L. C. Wolfe of 535 Spencer Place, was hostess yesterday at a bridge luncheon and farewell party, complimenting Mrs. Clarence A. Redmond, who leaves soon for an extensive tour of Europe.

The rooms were artistically decorated with a profusion of pink and white flowers and greenery. The luncheon table appointments were also carried out in the same color scheme.

Following the luncheon which was served at 1 o'clock, the afternoon was devoted to the playing of Bridge. Mrs. C. A. Young was awarded the prize for high score. At this time Mrs. Redmond was presented with a lovely gift by those present.

Kiddies' Program

Little kids and big kids are to frolic tomorrow afternoon and night at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 330 East Lomita avenue. In the afternoon the real kiddies are to be entertained from 2 till 4 o'clock at an early summer time party.

There will be a dog and monkey show to start the program off. Besides, there will be dancing, singing and piano playing by Glendale children. The Dotson sisters will give piano numbers and the Kelleher girls songs and dances, and Betty Heustis will sing. There will also be several surprise numbers.

In the evening all the grownups are asked to don juvenile attire and journey to the clubhouse at about 8:30 o'clock for a dancing program.

Meet at School

The members of the Glendale Avenue Intermediate Parent-Teachers' association held their regular business meeting yesterday afternoon at the school house.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. C. Wattles, with the salute to the flag and the singing of one verse of America. This was followed by two numbers, "Dancing Dolls" and "Azure Sky," by the school orchestra, of which Miss Brennan is director.

During the business meeting reports were given by the officers and the chairman of committees relative to the past year's work, and an interesting history of the association by the historian, Miss Natalie McKay. Mrs. Harry Bogen also gave an interesting account of the work of the Congress of Mothers, which was greatly enjoyed.

Announcement was made by two of the pupils, Howard Retberg and Melville Walker, relative to the program and variety show which the pupils of the eighth grade will present Saturday night, May 26, at the school thouse for the purpose of raising sufficient funds to purchase a gift for the school.

The courtesy chairman, Mrs. J. C. Fox, announced that, instead of the next regular business meeting, the association would attend the federation picnic, June 13, at Brookside park.

At this time the regular election of officers took place with the following officers elected: Mrs. Stradeling, president; Mrs. Martinez, vice-president; Mrs. Crizer, secretary; Mrs. N. C. Newton, treasurer; Mrs. F. S. Strong, historian; Mrs. Morgan auditor. This was followed by a lovely talk by the past president, Mrs. W. C. Wattles, when she presented the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Stradeling. Mrs. H. W. Bogen then presented Mrs. Wattles with a lovely vase of flowers in behalf of the association as a token of their appreciation of the work Mrs. Wattles has accomplished during the past year. Mr. Norman Wytock, principal of the school, then congratulated the members of the association for their interest and help during the school year, which was greatly appreciated. He also made an announcement, stating that, on Monday night, May 28, a night session would be held in order that the parents might have an opportunity to visit the school and see how the classes were being conducted.

Raymond B. Dunlap, superintendent of the Los Angeles schools, was the speaker of the afternoon, giving an instructive address on "Child Welfare." He also gave several of his original poems, which were greatly enjoyed.

Complete Booth

Whenever there is a civic feature under way Glendale is always very much aware of the enthusiasm and ability of the women of the War Mothers' organization and the Auxiliary of the local Legio npost.

These two organizations are in charge of a booth at the Industrial Exposition and it will be of wide interest to all exposition visitors.

Through the efficient help of George Grist, a member of the local Legion post, the War Mothers and Auxiliary have arranged and fitted their booth and the women wish to thank Mr. Grist for his help.

Mesdames Eno, Stevenson and N. S. Hyer of the War Mothers, and Mrs. C. A. Perry of the Auxiliary form the booth committee.

There will be all sorts of attractive things in the booth, including many articles made by ex-service men. The money realized on these will go directly to the men.

The hope chest which the members of the American Legion Auxiliary have so carefully and beautifully equipped is causing considerable comment and the coupons are going unusually fast. Three more lovely contributions have been added to the already well filled cedar chest by Mrs. Esther Pierce, Mrs. C. B. Guthrie, and Mrs. A. G. Wheelon, announces Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, chairman of the chest committee.

The proceeds of the sale of the coupons will go toward the Auxiliary's contribution to the Legion building fund.

The chest is to be awarded to the holder of the lucky coupon on the final day of the exposition.

AIRPLANE ATTACK AGAINST BANDITS

New Effort Will Be Made to Dislodge Brigands From Their Stronghold

self to the top of the mountain.

"We climbed from the old temple in which we had been quartered, 600 feet into the clouds, then some distance by a ladder cut in the sheer face of the stone cliff, then 600 feet more on a steep slope. We had to be pulled part of the way by ropes. It was worse than striving to scale the Woolworth building.

Terrible Conditions

"On top we found a fortress two acres in size. Inside a second stone wall are dugouts where we are living amid a stench and filth that is terrible.

"We found fifty Chinese captives who have been held a year. The bandits have plenty of supplies up here. Trenches cut in the granite mountain top catch rain water and 3000 gallons are held in reserve reservoirs.

"From the actions and talk of the chiefs, we believe it will only be a short time before we will go one by one as they can't take us any higher.

"The only alternative, they feel, is to shoot or throw us over the cliff.

"I am well as are the rest and we are striving to keep up hope and not to lose our grip."

SYRACUSE HOST FOR TENNIS TILT

State Championships There Again This Year Beginning July 16

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 25.—The New York State Tennis Championships will be held in Syracuse again this year. The tournament will be staged the week of July 16, it is announced.

Herbert Bowman, of New York, who won the singles title last year by defeating Fred C. Anderson, of Brooklyn, in the finals, will compete.

Fred C. and Frank R. Anderson, brothers, will probably oppose Vanderbilt Ward and Bowman in a doubles exhibition the second day of the tourney.

The doubles were not completed last year, and the principals will start where they left off. It will be merely an exhibition, though, and will not conflict with the 1923 doubles.

A. R. Acheson, coach of the Syracuse University Tennis team, is chairman of the tournament committee. E. F. Torrey, of Clinton, will be the official referee.

The entry list this year is expected to be much greater than last year.

TULLY EXONERATED

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Richard Walton Tully, the playwright, arrested several days ago on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, was exonerated of the charge by the district attorney's office today and the complaint against him dismissed by Justice Scott.

THEATRES

"The Fourteenth Lover," a Harry Beaumont production, featuring Viola Dana and released by Metro, is now showing at the Glendale Theatre. It is a merry little comedy, concerned with the reckless adventures of a daring young debutante who is unable to decide among her thirteen suitors, and falls in love with the gardener on her father's estate, as the fourteenth lover.

The fact that the gardener doesn't want her drives her to try and win his affections, and her path to happiness bumps along in breathlessly exhilarating fashion until the last scene.

Supporting Miss Dana in an excellent cast are Jack Mulhall, Kate Lester, Theodore von Eltz and many other prominent players.

BUILDERS GIVEN PLEDGE OF HELP

City Official Tells Members Department Is Ready to Co-operate

The Golden Spanish Cafe at 111 South Orange street presented a colorful setting last night for the regular weekly meeting of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale.

H. C. Yale, president, presided over the after-dinner hour, introducing as the first speaker, H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the city building department, and honorary member of the exchange. Mr. Vandewater's talk closed with the assurance, "The department that I represent, realizing the importance of the stand taken by the association of you men, into an association such as is evidenced by your code of ethics, pledges its active co-operation."

The next speaker was Brook Hawkins of the Winter Construction company of Los Angeles. Co-operation was again emphasized. "Your men have got to co-operate," said the speaker. "Co-operate with your architects and see that they co-operate with you. From the practical side of the business you know more than they do. Take your troubles to them—they are human and you will find that they will meet you half way." He stated that the Winter people have but one job in Glendale and that is the new Gateway theatre.

Of interest to the exchange members was the introduction of J. B. Richards, a recent arrival in Glendale, and formerly city architect for the city of Calgary, Alberta, Canada. He emphasized the need and value of co-operation between the building department, architect and builder. He said: "There is need to cultivate in every citizen a sense of responsibility, of personal concern for the operation of the city's building operations."

Secretary and manager, Henry Molz, was heartily congratulated for the success of the meeting.

Petition Council to Condemn Old Barn

The City Council last night received a petition requesting that the livery stable at 120 North Glendale avenue be condemned as a public nuisance.

This barn was characterized as a "disgrace and a detriment to the community as well as a menace to public health and a dangerous fire hazard."

The subject was referred to Building Inspector H. C. Vandewater for investigation.

The petition was signed by the following nearby residents: Mrs. M. L. Tight, Charles E. Stanley, P. J. Hayselden, H. L. Finlay, William Sapir, Dr. A. J. Stevens, E. D. Stevens, W. C. Fraley, C. J. Newcomb, Rev. C. R. Norton, Mrs. W. E. Wilbur, Mrs. Mary V. Turner, Mrs. E. H. Marlatt, Mrs. S. E. Logie, Henry Johnston, Fred W. McIntyre, Mrs. W. B. C. McIntyre and Mrs. Nettie B. McIntyre.

Shot, Sees His Grave Being Dug, Escapes

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Shot three times and almost fatally wounded during a quarrel with his partner, Alexander McCosky of Lancaster, lay almost helpless in a pile of brush today while he watched his assailant dig a grave for him, and then by a supreme effort managed to escape the vigilance of the grave digger and crawled to safety at a ranch house, a quarter of a mile away.

Several hours later C. H. Converse, 50, of Los Angeles, was arrested by deputy sheriffs near the grave and brought to this city.

MAY REFUSE WORK

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Orders to striking radicals in the longshoremen's strike to return to work at Los Angeles, given during a meeting at Liberty Hill, near San Pedro, were expected to be met with sharp refusal today by ship owners and operators to reinstatae the workers.

SPEAKERS TELL CITY'S PROGRESS

Representatives of Varied Interests Gather to Pay Their Tribute

lived here for the first one and one-half years thereafter. Earlier, he stated, when the company was conducting a series of experiments on agricultural implements, the site of the present Glendale, then the Thom ranch, was used as a plowing ground.

Mr. Baker told then how the boom had hit Glendale, along in the 80s, and how great tracts of sage brush were staked out by optimists and bought by still greater optimists.

"Why, the stakes were so thick," said Mr. Baker, "that the jackrabbits rubbed all the hair off their backs, trying to dodge them!"

The program was interspersed at this point with a vocal solo by Walter Paul of Pasadena, who took the place of Mrs. John R. Case, unable by reason of illness to be present. Mr. Paul was accompanied on the piano by Miss Eva Kurtz Ghrist.

Spirit of Progress

Mattison B. Jones gave a talk on "Glendale's Spirit of Progress," pointing out that location, climate and the high type of citizens here have been among the important causes contributory to the rapid growth enjoyed by this city.

Miss Ghrist rendered a piano solo at this point, after which R. F. Kitterman, vice president of the Security Trust & Savings bank, and manager of the Glendale branch, talked on "The New Bank," pointing out briefly some of the features to be embodied in the structure.

"We are keeping pace with Glendale in putting up such a building here," said Mr. Kitterman, "and we feel that this is but the first of many similar buildings."

Mr. Kitterman brought out that the new structure will contain over 53,000 square feet of floor space, will occupy 89 by 86 feet of ground space, on a site fronting 109 feet on Brand and 86 feet on Broadway.

On Co-operation

Following this address, Mr. Paul again favored the guests with a vocal solo, whereafter City Manager William H. Reeves talked on the "Co-operation of the Two Cities," pointing out where Glendale had won most of its major advantages by utilizing the spirit of co-operation. He told those present that this spirit is now being utilized in obtaining for this city connection with the Los Angeles outfall sewer.

In conclusion, Mr. Reeves urged the officials of the Baker Iron Works and of the Security Trust & Savings bank to be present at the meeting of the Los Angeles City Council, next Monday morning, May 28, at 10 o'clock, when this matter of a sewer connection for Glendale is to come up.

Miss Ghrist rendered another piano solo, after which Jesse E. Smith, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, delivered an address on "Chamber of Commerce and City Building," in which he stated that next to the administration of a city, the Chamber of Commerce is its most important civic body.

Plea For Budget

Mr. Smith made a strong plea for an adequate budget back of the Chamber of Commerce, so that broadcast advertising of Glendale might be spread over the United States.

"Let us not be followers but leaders!" was the keynote of Mr. Smith's earnest remarks.

The program was concluded by an eloquent address of thanks to the hosts and guests, for the delightful and inspiring evening enjoyed, delivered by E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

The Baker Iron Works were represented by Milo A. Baker, vice-president and general manager; and Harry S. Hitchcock, vice-president and treasurer.

The Security Trust & Savings bank representation was as follows: C. H. Toll, vice-president; J. E. Shelton, vice-president; John T. Cooper, vice-president; R. F. Kitterman, vice-president, manager of the Glendale branch; F. W. Cowlin and L. A. Winston, cashiers; and B. R. Creer, trust officer. Of these men, Messrs. Toll, Kitterman, Cowlin and Creer are residents of Glendale, while Mr. Cooper is a former resident of this city, having lived here from 1909 to 1915.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce was represented by its officers, as follows: Jesse E. Smith, president; W. E. Hewitt, first vice-president; C. D. Lusby, second vice-president; A. R. Eastman, treasurer; and E. F. Sanders, secretary.

The Rotary club was represented by George B. Karr, president; the Kiwanis club by A. L. Ferguson, president; the Exchange club by D. Ripley Jackson, president; the City Council by Messrs. Horn and Kimlin.

The balance of the sixty-five guests present comprised representatives of many other important civic and commercial bodies.

PRICES SLASHED IN MOVING SALE

H. S. Webb Co. Clearing Out Huge Stocks Prior to Opening New Store

For long time residents in Glendale today and tomorrow hold a special significance, marking as they do the closing of the big sale at the H. S. Webb company in anticipation of the removal of the pioneer business house to the new home in the Webb-Emery building on North Brand boulevard. Sharing in the interest of old time Glendalians are recent comers to the city, who have found in their shopping experiences that the Webb store is a place of certain satisfaction.

Hundreds of people have taken advantage of the sales at the Webb store this past week. There have been attractive offerings in all departments and lines, things of quality and value being sacrificed to avoid moving and to make room for new stock to be installed in the new store.

Pronounced Values

The shoppers have given a unanimous verdict that never before have they attended a sale where the values were so pronounced and the quality so high. The basic reason is that Webb's own quality merchandise was placed on sale.

For today and tomorrow, the final days, new items and lowered prices are being featured. Extra specials are being offered in the linen and wash goods department and in the underwear line. There are also some new offerings in the wash dress department and on the silk counter. Of interest to men is the announcement that all suits are reduced.

Other bargains are in leather bags, French ivory and in the entire stock of jewelry.

INJURED IN CRASH

BRYAN, Ohio, May 25.—Art Smith, pilot of a mail plane bound from Cleveland to Chicago, was injured and his plane wrecked while making a landing here today. The machine overturned when a tire on the landing carriage burst. Smith was extricated from the wreckage and taken to the hospital.

and other buildings now dot the site of the creamery's future home. These are to be occupied temporarily, it was stated, as a distribution center for the company's product. Later they will be razed to make way for a large modern creamery plant.

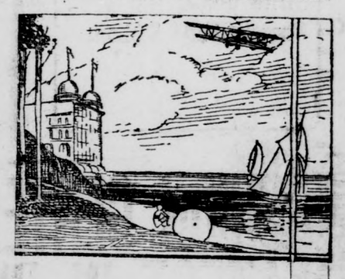
The sum invested in real estate, it was stated, amounted to $130,000. Buildings and other equipment, now planned, are to total $500,000. It was rumored that the area may be increased by additional purchases, if need for expansion is foreseen by the creamery.

Search for Homes

Homesites for employes now are being sought. The Elsa Jane Company is seeking fifteen nearby residences for officials of the company. It also was the opinion of local realtors that the corporation will establish colonies for its employes in adjacent foothill sections.

In view of the strategic location afforded by Glendale, it was reported that the general executive offices of the company for Southern California eventually will be located here. While it was stated this latest invader of Glendale territory will open for distribution on June 1, with a small force of attaches, the force gradually will be increased until it numbers 3500 executives and workmen.

The plant, to cost $500,000, is expected to be completed within two years.



TAKE CITY HALL IN FILM FEATURE

Old Fashioned Court House Used by Goldwyn in Moving Picture

The city hall was the center of excitement this morning while moving pictures were being taken under the direction of Todd Browning by a Goldwyn "outfit" from Culver City.

"The Day of Fate" was the name of the feature being filmed. It was commenced two weeks ago and will not be completed for some time.

Among the principal stars on location today were Eleanor Boardmann, Ford Sterling, Ray Griffith, Winter Hall and Edwin Martindale. They were accompanied by a large number of actors and actresses and property men.

Glendale was selected for the filming of this morning's scenes because it was reported to be the only city in Southern California where the company could find a suitable "old fashioned" court house.

Several hundred miles of railroads in England are to be electrified at once.

FASHION CENTER SHOWS LATEST IN DRESSWEAR

Sixteen Living Models Will Parade Tonight With Latest California Creations As Well As New York Manufacturer's New Line

GLENDALE'S FASHION CENTER, 202 South Brand boulevard, will present an advance showing of late summer and fall ready-to-wear, including dresses, capes, coats, jacquettes and skirts, under the personal direction of Messrs. McKinnon and Dines, at the Glendale Industrial Exposition.

Sixteen living models will be used in this fashion show to be presented by the Fashion Center on the big stage tonight, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 9:30 o'clock. Other exhibitors and entertainment will feature the program at other times.

The knitted goods are strictly California creations while the coats for fall and sports wear are from one of the biggest New York manufacturer's lines sent here especially for the exposition. The styles pictured herewith are only an intimation of that which is in store for the followers of Dame Fashion.

There are many more exquisite models to be displayed, splashing in the newest sports colors. One of the most striking effects to be found in the display, which the camera was unable to catch, is a silk and mohair jacquette in Fiesta red with white silk trimmings. This is attractively combined with a canton crepe skirt and a white sport hat, trimmed to match.

Indeed you could name dozens of new combinations which are worthy of mention, but to see them displayed on living mannikins will be much more satisfactory. All of the models are seasonable and saleable. There will be sixty-five new styles included in the several performances given by the Fashion Center's bevy of beauties.

A net for the fugitive has been spread over Southern California. Telegrams have been sent to law enforcement officers in every community within a radius of several hundred miles. Both federal and county officers at the border have been warned to be on the lookout. Notice of the escape has been sent also to stations along the railroads crossing Arizona and New Mexico, so that the fugitive may be captured if he attempts to leave the state upon either freight or passenger trains.

AUTOS COLLIDE

The left side of the automobile belonging to Thomas F. Osborn of Los Angeles was damaged about 5:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon when it was struck by a machine piloted by T. R. Crotinger of 509 Lincoln avenue. The collision occurred at the intersection of Glendale avenue and Broadway.

CITY PLUNGE TO OPEN ON JUNE 1

Low Admission Charges in Effect Encouragement To Local Swimmers

The municipal swimming pool in Patterson park will be opened for the summer the first of June.

William Wendt, manager of the establishment, this morning called attention to the following rates:

Children under 12 years of age —Use of plunge, 5 cents; use of towel, 5 cents; use of bathing suit, 5 cents.

Persons over 12 years of age —Use of plunge, 15 cents; use of towel, 5 cents; use of bathing suit. 5 cents.

City Manager W. H. Reeves called attention to the fact that youngsters, who have their own suits and are content to shake themselves dry, may have a swim for a nickel.

"There is no use in any kid going dirty now," he laughed. "That is the cheapest rate, so far as we know, in any city in Southern California."

Until further notice, the plunge will be open weekdays between 10 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. Youngsters coming in the morning, however, will not be obliged to remain the full seven and a half hours.

YALE WILL HAVE NURSING COURSE

Present Apprentice System Takes Up Time, Leaving Little for Education

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 25. —Future Yale commencement processions that wing across ancient New Haven Green should be enlivened by a new graduating costume of nurse's cap and uniform. For President James R. Angell announces that Yale University is to start the first university undergraduate school of nursing in the United States from funds supplied by the Rockefeller Foundation. The school will have its own dean, faculty, buildings and budget, and the course will be completed in twenty-eight months, according to present reckoning.

Dr. Angell explains the new school, saying: "In its curriculum the Yale school will break away from the present apprentice system of nurse training. That system, subject as it is to the labor demands and exigencies of hospital needs and now abandoned in other professional fields, no longer provides satisfactory preparation for the nursing profession. It absorbs the time of the student, endangers her health and leaves too little time for educational activities."

PLAN LIGHTING SYSTEM FOR GLENDALE AVENUE

Advancement Association Discusses Various Designs; Efforts to Be Made to Turn Thoroughfare Into 'White Way'

ORNAMENTAL street lighting for Glendale avenue was the principal topic of discussion yesterday noon at 201 East Harvard street at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Advancement Association. The Union Metal Company's type of ornamental lights was explained by Charles H. Pendleton of 376 Myrtle street, representative of the Pacific States Electric Company.

Illustrations shown by Mr. Pendleton depicted metal posts about seventeen feet high supporting two 250 candle power lights. He stated that they should be placed about 100 feet apart in business districts and 125 feet apart in residential districts but opposite each other. He called attention to the fact that 65 per cent of the cost of installation lay in the underground cables. He stated that bids would be received for the installation of this type of light, the same as for any other type. He estimated that the total cost would be between $2.75 and $2.90 a front foot.

S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard, chairman of the lighting committee, introduced Mr. Pendleton and asked several questions in regard to the utility of this type of light.

In regard to the question as to whether it would be possible to remove the top of the present lighting posts on East Broadway and substitute a new top which would be uniform with additional lights to be installed, Mr. Pendleton replied that it would be possible but that he was not sure whether or not it would be practical. He estimated that the cost would be about $1.25 a front foot.

The ease with which this type of standard can be repaired was emphasized by Mr. Pendleton. The fact that the post is a combination of several different parts in his opinion makes its repair for any cause a very slight expense.

A billboard poster is expected to withstand the weather for a month.

GLENDALE MUSIC CLUB CONCERT GREAT SUCCESS

High Tribute to Miss Hazel Linkogel, Who Seeks Scholarship; Artists Happy to Assist In Furthering Her Talent

THE vivacious ambitions of youth, the helpful appreciation and encouragement of more mature years and the inspiration of the divine touch of the artist will be happy memories that Miss Hazel Linkogel, young violinist, and her friends and admirers will cherish in future years of the concert given last night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse to establish a scholarship fund for the Glendale Music Club, which has adopted Miss Linkogel as a beneficiary and will assist her in going to Chicago to compete for a scholarship under Leopold Auer, master violin instructor.

It is the plan of the Music club under the leadership of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president, to give an annual benefit program to assist some deserving young artist, and to Miss Linkogel goes the honor of being the first beneficiary.

Miss Linkogel's talent, and the ambitions of the Music club and Glendale for her, has attracted wide attention, and when the date was set for the first scholarship fund program, it was such artists as Charles Wakefield Cadman, pianist-composer: Margaret Messer Morris, soprano, and Carl Gantvoort, baritone, who offered their services gratis.

In accord with this fine spirit was the enthusiasm of Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, Mrs. Charles A. Parker, instructors in the music department, and their students of the Glendale High school, and members of the Glendale Junior Music club, all of whom took pleasure and pride in taking part in the affair last night.

Many Friends Attend

The friends of Miss Linkogel in Glendale were joined by others from Los Angeles, Hollywood, Pasadena, Alhambra and other Southern California cities, and all present, accorded the solo artists a hearty reception, and were unanimous in their praise of the work of the junior high school musicians and their instructors.

It was Carl Gantvoort's broad smile, pleasing personality and rich baritone voice that first greeted the company. He was not scheduled to appear until later on the program, but a concert engagement tonight in San Francisco necessitated his taking a train north last night, so he hurried to Glendale to keep his engagement here. Glendale loves to hear Carl Gantvoort sing and last night he responded to the greeting of his many friends with wonderful renditions of "Roadways" (Densmore), "Goin' Home" (Herman Gantvoort), "Requiescat" (Cadman), and as an encore "Memories" (Cadman). Mr. Cadman accompanied him.

Inspiring Reception

Miss Morris, soprano, the other vocal artist, received an equally inspiring reception. Her singing of Cadman's compositions is perfect and with Mr. Cadman himself accompanying her, her group of songs charmed her hearers. She sang "I, a Nightingale," "The Moon-Heaven," "Spring Song of the Robin Woman" and as an encore "At Dawning." It was the first time "The Moon-Heaven" has been heard in Glendale.

The beauty of this group by artist singer and composer was sustained in the next group, which was Mr. Cadman's playing of selections from his "Prairie Sketches." Mr. Cadman's gracious, unassuming personality, divine talent and accomplishments have showered him with world-wide honor, and made him one of America's premier pianists and composers, and Glendale was complimented by his appearance last night. He played "Dawn," "Legend of the Plains" and "Sounds of Night" from the "Prairie Sketches" and as an encore, "The Desert's Dusty Face" from his Omar Khayyam suite.

Miss Linkogel's two violin groups were keenly anticipated by the audience and she may well be pleased and inspired by the praise and predictions for future successes from her hearers. She played "Legende" (Wieniawski), "Sonata No. 6" (Bach), "Deep River" (Coleridge-Taylor), "Caprice Viennois" (Kreisler), "Concerto" (De Beriot), and as a farewell number, "The Rosary" (Nevin). She was ably accompanied by Henry Grace, also a member of the Glendale Music club's junior organization.

Others Taking Part

Other junior musicians taking part in the program were members of the high school orchestra, led by Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, members of the high school girls' glee club, led by Mrs. Charles A. Parker, and the mixed quartet of the Glendale Junior Music club, Gertrude Heideman, Winifred Parker, Claude Whitfield and Ervin Carver. All of these young people did admirably and demonstrated Glendale's wealth of promising musical talent and how it is being skillfully trained.

Officers of the Senior Music club received and members of the Junior club served as ushers.

During the intermission Mrs. Jones on behalf of the Music club spoke of the plans for the establishment of a permanent scholarship fund and of the pleasure of the club in assisting Miss Linkogel. She also mentioned the club's annual dinner to be held Friday night, June 29. There will be special speakers, music, and the awarding of the membership trophy.

A gratifying start for the pre-summer membership drive was the announcement made by Mrs. Jones that ten patron members had been enrolled without solicitation. They are Mesdames Daniel Campbell, Helen Campbell, Warren Roberts, Nathan Rigdon, Frank Arnold, Percey Priaulx, Dora L. Gibson, Alexander Mitchell, Mattison B. Jones and Miss Myrtle Baldwin.

It is the hope to increase this list of patron members and secure a record general membership by the time of the annual banquet Club officers hope to sell as many memberships as there are seats in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse auditorium. This will insure a wonderful program of both eastern and western artists.

NEW PIANO FIRM LOCATES IN CITY

Clearing House Opens for Business Here at 112 West Broadway

The business man of today is out of date tomorrow, unless he is alert and progressive. In the large cities of the country there has appeared what is known as The Piano Exchange or better known as a Piano Clearing House. One of the heads of this movement states that it answers a long-felt need, the music trade has become one of the largest factors in the commercial world, it enters every home in the land and interests every member of the family, indeed being a large factor in the harmony of every well-ordered home.

The Piano Exchange has a two-fold duty toward this home. A musical instrument, piano, player piano, grand piano or a phonograph has been purchased and becomes the center attraction or chief entertainer in the home. But something happens—this is an age of brevity or sudden changes! Through a sudden business change the head of the house finds that in order to serve his best interest, he must move to another city, usually a long trip back east; their holdings must be disposed of quickly, as it will not pay to move heavy furniture, and especially a piano, any great distance.

Offer Large Choice

The Piano Exchange enters here, offering its services. In the city of Los Angeles alone from five to twenty pianos a day are offered to the exchange, or clearing house of that city, for liquidation. This great assortment of instruments including all makes, ages and conditions, come from all classes of homes, from estates, from retiring dealers and scores of other sources and emergency conditions.

Glendale can now boast of a piano clearing house where hundreds of the best makes of instruments gathered up from all parts of southern California will be offered to its citizens. The local house is a branch of the large organization operating up and down the coast. They have acquired a long lease on the premises formerly occupied by the Southern California Gas company at 112 West Broadway. The officers of the Exchange are already large property owners in Glendale and may later occupy their own building. They state that they are here to stay and the buying public will soon feel their presence.

Slayer of Officer Is Granted Reprieve

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 25.—Governor Charles R. Mabey late yesterday evening granted a reprieve to George Gardner, slayer of Deputy Sheriff Gordon A. Stuart and Joseph W. Irvine, at the Gardner ranch, April 15, 1922, and who was sentenced to be shot this morning, until a sanity board could make a report on his condition. The board, consisting of Dr. T. B. Beatty, state health commissioner; Dr. George F. Stoddy, professor of psychology at the University of Utah, and Doctors J. T Curtis and B. W. Black, local physicians, examined Gardner at the state prison yesterday, but were unable to reach a decision up to a late hour last night.

Should the board decide that Gardner is insane, his death sentence will probably be reduced to life imprisonment with an assignment to a mental hospital.

DINNER PLANNED FOR DELEGATIONS

Visitors From Los Angeles And Santa Monica to Be Entertained

Last- minute plans today for Glendale's reception to delegations from Los Angeles and Santa Monica provided for L. H. Wilson, head of the Chamber of Commerce entertainment committee, meeting these parties at 6:30 p. m., and conducting them to a local restaurant for dinner.

Both delegations are expected to be of pretentious proportions. The visitors from Santa Monica will include not only the mayor, but that city's municipal band as well.

The Los Angeles party ies to include Raymond I. Turney, representing Mayor Cryer of that city; John D. Fredericks, congressman-elect, and President Arnold and Secretary Wiggins of the larger city's Chamber of Commerce, who will be accompanied by numerous other chamber members.

Victor Colburn Wins In Debating Contest

In the first annual Freshman competitive debate held at the University of Southern California yesterday Victor Colburn of this city was awarded first place and the accompanying silver loving cup. The affair was held in the chapel of the university, with the entire student body in attendance.

The question debated by the winner was, "Resolved that President Harding Should Be the Next Republican Nominee for President." The feature of the contest was the fact that each of the four entrants was required to represent both the affirmative and the negative side of the question. Colburn led the field in both sides, being picked as the winner with little deliberation.

Colburn, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Colburn of 458 Hawthorne street, is a graduate of the Glendale high school, where he distinguished himself as a debater and public speaker. He is studying a law course at the university.

Spooning Parlor for Church Is Advocated

SANTA ANA, May 25.—Santa Ana is likely to have the first church "spooning parlor" in the country, if the plans of the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial M. E. church, South, are successful.

In an appeal at a men's Bible class dinner for funds to enlarge the church and parish house, the Rev. Rhodes said:

"I would like to include in the new building a parlor where young lovers—and old ones, too.—could come and do their love-making. I would have it as home-like as possible, with a number of settees built for two and secluded by screens. I would have soft lights and draperies. It seems to me that lovemaking within church walls would be much better than spooning in dark places and in automobiles."

Members of the congregation are said to have given the minister's suggestion hearty approval.

No sunsets are seen in Hammerfest, Norway, from May 13 to July 29.

OFFERS TEST FOR IRONING BOARDS

Legless Product Appeals to Women as Means to Save Space

An open invitation for fat women to swing all their weight on patented, legless ironing boards at the Glendale Industrial Exposition was a high light of preliminary exposition announcements today.

The invitation was issued by W. H. Alkire, controller of patent rights to Dexter's ironing boards. Mr. Alkire declares he will offer 18 ironing boards, each supported only by a hinge on the wall, as representatives of the line he now is manufacturing in Glendale.

Specially constructed hinges, the manufacturer says, will enable the boards to support the weight of any woman, with the exception of two reputedly fat women of the exposition side show.

The exhibit, in itself, will prove attractive to women, it was pointed out, as the legless feature of the ironing boards is a unique and popular invention. By doing away with the legs, space is conserved and one less non-essential detail, it was said had been eliminated.

In appearance, the spick and span white pine and vertical grain Oregon pine boards are expected to win the hearts of many women, who do their own washing and ironing. As a special conceit, several mahogany ironing boards are to be included in the exhibition.

SUSPEND MEETINGS

Suspension of meetings for the summer months has been announced by the Theosophical society, which has been meeting on Thursday nights at 311 Oak street. Activities of the organization will be resumed in September.

MINOR OPERATION

A minor operation was performed upon Mrs. Carl Myren of 415 Patterson avenue this morning at the Glendale Research Hospital.

Rum Ships and Coast Guards in Contests

NORFOLK, Va., May 25.—The game of hide and seek between the rum ships and the coast guard cutters Mascoutin and Manning off the Virginia capes goes merrily on. After disappearing at sea for twenty-four hours, the steam yacht Istar, "flagship" of the fleet, returned early today and tried to slip by the coast guard and come through the capes. She failed in her attempt.

The master of one rum ship, it was reliably stated, was in this city and openly boasted that he had disposed of his cargo and "flashed" drafts on two Norfolk banks as proof of payment for his goods.

Prospects for landing any of the cargo within the next twenty-four hours is slight as a heavy sea is running, due to a high northwest gale and all small boats have put back to port.

Girls Land in Cell On Dry Law Charges

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Ousted from their home in South Bonnie Brae street by a suspicious landlady, then seized as they left the place by prohibition officers and placed in a dingy cell, was the "hard luck" today of Beatrice Murdock and Alys Carlton, two pretty young women.

"We're not in the liquor business, so we haven't any money," Miss Carlton said as they were held in lieu of $1,000 bail each.

Six quarts of gin and four quarts of Scotch whiskey were said to have been found in their possession.

U. S. MISSIONARY METHODS POOR?

Tokio Educator Is Opposed To Cramming of New Ideas Into Youth

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service

TOKIO, May 25.—Criticism of the foreign missionaries who have striven "too fast" to introduce foreign religion, foreign education and foreign principles generally into the life of the Japanese people formed a prominent part of an interview recently by Mr. Tsunezo Morioka, minister of education. Mr. Morioka's chief discussion was on the subject of co-education in Japan, but he took occasion to blame foreign missionaries for their part in "cramming" the young Japanese mind with too many ideas now in use in other countries.

Doubts Co-education

Every thoughtful educator in Japan, says Mr. Morioka, is considering the subject of co-education and attempting to decide whether or not it will be a good thing for the people of Japan if carried too far at the present time. Universities and primary schools, Mr. Morioka pointed out, have adopted the idea of co-education, but he expressed the opinion that there was some doubt as to the wisdom of putting it into the middle schools for the time being.

Customs and national traits of Japanese being vastly different from those of the Americans, there is a difference in the way that foreign institutions may be taken up bodily and made a part of life here, the Japanese minister of education points out. The Japanese mental attitude, he said, has been such in the past that the people here have been over eager to adopt foreign ideas and in the wholesale adoption of such methods have failed to digest them and make them a real and vital part of their national life.

Use Poor Method

The chief reason for the slow progress of Christianity in Japan, said Mr. Morioka, is the manner in which the American missionary has introduced his belief. If the American teacher really believes Christianity to be the universal religion that religion ought to be adapted to the country and preached in a way that is consistent with the condition and circumstances of the country into which it is introduced. At the same time, he said the Japanese people themselves are partly to blame, because they lack initiative to adjust and put this religion into their daily life.

"Cramming" the Japanese people with foreign ideas, said the Minister in conclusion, is one of the chief methods of failure to make good, solid progress with modern education here. Thinkers of capacity are needed in Japan, he said, and not people who are merely "well informed." He predicted that new methods of education will be introduced into the higher schools in the very near future.

CAUSES ROW IN BULGAR CHURCH

U. S. Senator's Suit Results In Closing of Country's One Unitarian Church

By CONSTANTINE STEPHANOVE
For International News Service

SOFIA, May 26.—When former Senator H. F. Hollis of New Hampshire obtained a divorce in Doubnitsa, Bulgaria, several months ago, he brought about a crisis that has recently resulted in the closing of the only Unitarian church in Bulgaria.

Senator Hollis, it will be recalled, obtained a divorce in Bulgara last October. The divorce was granted, under the Bulgarian laws, by the pastor of the Unitarian church at Doubnitsa.

Both the Bulgarian National church and the Established Protestant or Evangelical church organizations are very strict about divorce matters, and the issuing of the divorce decree to Senator Hollis caused indignation in church circles that extended even to political circles. The Rev. Toplisky Doubnitsa, was arrested.

Gets United States' Support

The arrest of Pastor Toplisky revealed that his church had no charter from the government, but was an independent church supported largely by funds obtained in America. It was learned that the minister had complied with the laws necessary, before a church in Bulgaria is empowered to grant a divorce, by publishing in the state journal a notice citing Mrs. Hollis to appear in Doubnitsa within a fotnight of publication of the notice.

Obviously it would have been impossible for Mrs. Hollis to have made the journey from America in so short a time, even if the notice ever had come to her attention, which is doubtful. When she failed to addear the divorce decree was granted the former senator, and he departed for Rome, where he later remarried.

Probe Is Ordered

Although Senator Hollis obtained his decree the Bulgarian authorities were not satisfied with the procedure that had been followed. An exhaustive inquiry was undertaken and proceedings instituted before the Court of Cassation, which deals with religious affairs.

By a decree which the court has recently handed down, the Unitarian church at Doubnitsa, which is the only one in Bulgaria, has been ordered permanently closed. Pastor Toplisky, through befriending the former United States senator, has lost his job.

ESCAPES INJURIES

Ralph Quackenbush of 732 South Adams street was knocked off his bicycle yesterday afternoon but was uninjured.

"I had backed out from the curb on the west side of Brand between Harvard and Colorado and was in low gear, remarked C. J. Cannon of Santa Monica. "I was just starting south when a boy on a bicycle struck the outside end of rear bumper, throwing him to the ground. The boy wanted to go right home so I took him there."

Real American Dairy Lunch Now in Paris

PARIS, May 25.—A real American dairy lunchroom, with one-armed chairs n'everything, is an innovation at the New York Art School of Applied Arts in the picturesque old Place de Vosges.

In Paris, and in fact all over France, shops close and business stops for two hours, from midday till 2 o'clock. This is the sacred hour of the "dejeuner," one of the most important hours of the day.

A good French dinner is a work of art in itself, but the director of the New York Art School thinks that it is a stone in the path of those who are trying to attain the higher heights. Light meals are hard to find in Paris and too much time is lost in getting through the many courses of the usual French meal.

"Besides," says the director, "after eating too heavily at midday a student's mental and physical alertness is impaired and he gets much less out of the afternoon classes."

The student will be given one hour for lunch and will find nourishing food in a clean lunchroom. Sandwiches and milk will replace heavy meats and vegetables.

Means will have to be devised to make domesticated birds use their wings to prevent their becoming steadily smaller breasted and so furnishing less meat, it is claimed.

An unexpected reward is but a just compensation for past deeds.

KIWANIS CLUBS TO CONVENE SOON

Seventh Annual International Convention to Have Full Program

ATLANTA, Ga., May 25.—Probably the busiest convention ever entertained in the South, from the rapid succession of business and pleasure, will be the seventh annual convention of International Kiwanis Clubs, to begin in Atlanta on May 28 and continue four days. The only period in which something is not set down on the official programme is from 2 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. daily.

The business sessions will start every day the first thing after breakfast and be resumed after lunch. When they are over there will be motor tours and Georgia barbecues and special vaudeville shows, and every night there will be three dances, from 10:30 to 2 a. m.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 delegates and visitors, including an exceptionally large proportion of wives and daughters of Kiwanians are expected, the advance reservations having passed 4,500 two weeks before the convention dates. International Kiwanis now includes more than 1,000 clubs and nearly 100,000 members in the United States and Canada.

First Memorial Day

One of the features which is attracting nation-wide comment following its announcement will be the first official observance of national Memorial Day, May 30, in Atlanta. The Southern States observe their own Confederate Memorial Day, April 21, but through courtesy to the visitors from all over the country Atlanta has arranged for a ceremonial on a large scale, when tributes will be paid to the memory of veterans of all wars in which the United States engaged. George H. Ross, of Toronto, international president of Kiwanis, will deliver an address, and "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King" will be played by the combined bands of the convention, which will include many visiting musical organizations.

Opens May 28

The convention opens officially on Monday, May 28, with addresses by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick and Mayor Walter A. Sims. The visiting clubs will engage in a glee club singing contest. On Tuesday night the auditorium will be transformed into a scene before the Civil War, the calendar being set back 60 years to give the visitors a glimpse of the old South as contrasted with the new. A log cabin nearly 100 years old, brought from a Georgia plantation's "negro quarters," will be transferred to the auditorium, to be occupied by an ante-bellum darkey couple, their hounds and 'possum dogs and several live 'possums. On the stage will be presented a picture of "Plantation Days," with a big chorus of negro voices heard in old-fashioned camp-meeting hymns.

Real "Georgia Barbecue."

On Wednesday, May 30, the visitors will be guests at a Georgia barbecue, at which 8,000 persons will be served, a famous darkey cook having been brought from a hundred miles away to prepare the feast in the olden style. This will be followed by a Venetian water carnival and interpretative dances, in which prominent Atlanta society girls will take part. All the visitors, too, will be taken for a trip to Stone Mountain, where the million-dollar Confederate memorial is being carved on the face of the 700-foot granite cliff.

The thousand or more women visitors will be entertained, while their husbands are attending business sessions, by a woman's committee drawn from the Atlanta Woman's Club, which recently was host to the mid-biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's Clubs. The Rotary, Civitan, Lions and other civic organizations each have arranged a special entertainment for one day, and the Presidents' Club, composed of the heads of seventy-five civic bodies, will give a formal dinner on the night of May 26 to the international officers and other distinguished guests.

Baptists Will Meet In Sweden in July

LONDON, May 25.—American and British Baptist organizations have found it necessary to charter special ships to convey their delegates to the great pilgrimage which is to mark the opening of the Third Baptist Congress in Stockholm, Sweden, in July.

Thousands of delegates are expected from all over the world. The special ship going from Britain is expected to accommodate 500 delegates and that coming from America 1,000.

The Rev. J. H. Shakespeare, one of the congress secretaries, said that after the congress the majority of the American delegates will go on a hurried tour through Europe, while the British delegates will make a tour of the Norwegian fjords.

For the Sunday during the meeting a unique open-air religious pageant is being arranged. It will embrace the services of Baptists of various races and colors, and Red Indian Baptists are taking part.

The general subject before the congress is the task of Baptists for the future. Questions to be discussed include those affecting the negro, the continent of Europe and world peace.

English will be the main language spoken, but papers will also be reproduced in Swedish and German for the convenience of other delegates.

Despite its mountainous character, 77.6 per cent of the total area of Switzerland is productive.

Mozart's Grave May Be Effaced, Belief

VIENNA, May 25.—Unless the plans of city officials are soon changed the famous Cemetery of St. Marcus, known to thousands of American tourists as the last resting place of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, will be removed as a block to progress. And, with the cemetery, the remains of the immortal composer will vanish into eternal obscurity.

Mozart, who died in abject poverty, was buried in an unmarked grave at St. Marcus in December, 1791. His widow, Constance, did not attend the funeral, and when she visited the grave for the first time seventeen years later the old grave-digger who had buried her gifted husband was dead. And as no records had been kept the secret of Mozart's grave was lost.

Now, with the removal of all remains from the cemetery, even his burial place will be unidentifiable. The Vienna Mozart Society is demanding that the city erect a tablet on the cemetery site commemorating the fact that Mozart was once buried there.

A Razzberry Cure

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

Willie Blinn, recruit shortstop for the Bears, was nervous. The opening day crowd, the band and the ceremonies were bad enough, but this was his first game in big company.

"I wonder if it means anything that he put me in first?" the young player asked himself. "Does he think I'm better than Jones, or is he saving him?"

Jones and Blinn were rivals for the shortstop position and between theme there was little friendship. Blinn had tried to let the other fellow know he was without personal feeling in the contest, but Jones regarded rivalry and enmity as one. It had been a close race, and now Willie had been placed in the line-up on opening day. He wondered if he had won. The lad trembled with the strain of his responsibility and sought to appear as stolid and assured as the rest.

Joe Harvey, first base, pawed the ground with his cleats and spoke to the youngster.

"This is the big test, isn't it? If you make good you stick, and if you fizzle, out you go. You'll have to be very careful." The tall man grinned and walked away. On the bench the manager was eyeing the young shortstop curiously and the lad caught the gaze.

"He's wondering, I guess, if he hasn't made a mistake. Darn Joe Harvey!" For the first baseman's words had added to the strain.

"It's hitting the old man wants," Joe said as they trotted onto the field. "If you don't get a hit you're gone."

In the first inning the shortstop accepted a chance and threw to first without realizing how he did it. The older man's words, the unaccustomed crowds, and the great chance which beckoned if he made good, thrust him over that fine edge upon which the trained ball player rests. He was nervous and he knew he was nervous. As he tried to concentrate his mind upon the game the knowledge persisted. "It was just luck," he told himself, "I pegged that fellow out."

At bat the over-anxious lad hit on a slow ball, swung violently, and recovered his position to hear the ball thud against the glove. There was a derisive shout in the stands. At the next two he put his faith in luck with no greater success. Joe Harvey smiled sadly and shook his head. Jones, on the bench, was grinning.

"Of course, you know," it was the manager who spoke, and casually, "Harvey is Jones' cousin."

Willie turned quickly, but the manager had his eyes on the plate and the man at bat.

"That was the reason!" the recruit was growing angry. "Old Joe was plugging for his cousin. Trying out the razzberry on one of his own teammates. Think he could pull some deep stuff, did he; Get me rattled Well, I'm wise now, and just by luck." Again he looked at the manager, whose whole attention was on the game.

Willie Blinn went back to his position seeing red. Double-crossing a teammate, even for a cousin, was something outside his training. It was a downright dirty trick. He rushed up on an ugly bounding grounder, snatched it on the jump and sent it whizzing to first so fast that Joe Harvey felt it through his glove.

The boy was playing the game, holding his rage and showing them what he thought of underhanded schemes. No first baseman in the United States was going to get his goat!

Next time Willie Blinn came to bat someone in the stand groaned at the memory of his first appearance. The pitcher smiled, went through violent contortions, halted his swing at the last and sent a tantalizing floater toward the place. Willie's chin was out and his eyes narrowed, but he waited. The ball seemed hours in the air as he held the waiting pose. Then he swung.

Followed the sweetest music that ever falls on a ballplayer's ear, the hearty, emphatic smack which guarantees a hit, and Willie was racing for first. They were still chasing the ball and he kept on around the circuit. He crossed the plate head up, well ahead of any need to slide, and when he sat down on the bench the recruit was a ballplayer and he knew it.

"Fine work, son," said Joe Harvey, after the game. "Guess that hit and your fielding has landed you the job. Shake!"

"I thought," said Willie, doubting the other's sincerity, "you were plugging Jones, your cousin."

Harvey's response was a blank look. "Plugging? Jones? He's not my cousin. I was just trying to encourage you. I'll be darned!"

On the bench the stony-faced manager indulged in a self-satisfied smile.

JUST DAINTILY CUNNING AND SMART

Take two yards of plain blue chambray and one yard of blue-and-white check gingham, and you have the "makings" of a lovely little model which combines dress and bloomers in one. The deep tuck across the garment gives the effect of a dress. The lower edges of the bloomers are gathered and finished with straight bands to which a few fancy stitches have been added. To keep pockets free of miscellaneous accumulations, a fine idea is to fill them with bouquets of applique flowers.

Cotton print of colorful design is used for the second bloomer dress, which closes at the back. Turn-back cuffs with a picot edge to match the collar finish the kimono sleeves, while the lower edges of the bloomers are gathered into narrow bands. Medium size requires 1⅞ yard 36-inch material.

First Model: Pictorial Review Dress No. 1594. Sizes, 1 to 5 years. Price 25 cents.

Second Model: Dress No. 1592. Sizes, 1 to 5 years. Price 25 cents.

YOUR WAIST LINE

A great many women worry about the measurement of their waistlines. As a matter of fact, since the long ago period when a laced-in waist was the fashion the actual number of inches makes little difference. As a general thing the waist should be 10 inches less than the hips. If it is 12 inches less it is still in good proportion. Any greater difference than that is apt to make the waist ridiculously small or the hips too heavily large.

The classic Greek proportions for the ideally perfect woman are as follows: (These are based on a great number of life-sized statues.) Height, five feet five, with arms extended she should measure her height from the tip of one middle finger to the other. The length of her hand is a tenth of her height, her foot one-seventh, from the elbow to the middle finger the same as from the elbow to the middle of the chest, from the top of the head to the chin the same length as the foot. With this height the waist should be 27 and the bust 34, the upper arm 13 inches in circumference, the calf of the leg 14½, the ankle 8, the weight 138 or under.

I fancy there are few women five feet five who would conform to these proportions. They are not much of a guide anyway. As a race we are too much mixed in blood to conform to the Greek ideal. The Italian face is long and oval, the French figure has long arms and a small bust, the German woman a large waist and broad hips, the English woman is apt to be flat, loosely knit and with an exceedingly attractive awkwardness. Most of us are a mixture of all these races, and combine the characteristics of each. Out of them we are forming a type which can be recognized at a glance in any foreign city.

So if you don't conform to the Greek measurements don't worry. Some day somebody will publish the ideal measurements for American women. In youth she is apt to be slim and boyish, but too apt to grow stout as she matures.

Anxious and Miss T. M.—A girl of 17, five feet five inches, will be normal at 118 pounds.

Worried—Your scalp must be in need of stimulation if your hair has stopped growing. The cutting had nothing to do with it. Massage the scalp every day until it glows all over. This treatment will improve the circulation and may be all that is necessary to start your hair growing again.

Lillian—At 105 pounds you are 15 pounds underweight, so if you build yourself up your legs and bust will be improved also. I will send you the formula for blackheads on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

What are your measurements?

Marion—There is no way of making the hair gray any faster than through the natural processes.

Tomorrow—A Complaint.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

This is the season when the thrifty housekeeper has cleaned out her preserve closet and assembled all her canning equipment—ready to store up row upon row of delicious home-canned vegetables and fruits for next winter's use. Only the woman who has had such a supply to draw on in past winters knows what an economy it is to put up the surplus produce from her garden.

Asparagus is one of the first vegetables to can. In giving the following directions, I assume that the housewife is using her wash-boiler as a canner, and that the altitude of her location is below 1,000 feet. For altitudes above 1,000 feet, the time of "processing" which is given below should be increased at the rate of ten per cent for each additional 500 feet.

How to Can Asparagus: Select young stalks, grade as to size, and wash well. Tie the stalks into bundles and place the lower ends of these in boiling water for three minutes, then submerge the entire bunch in this water for two min? utes longer (this is called "blanching"). Now plunge the bunch into cold water (this is called "cold-dipping") for an instant, remove, and cut the string that bound the bundle.

Have in readiness quart-size glass jars which you have "sterilized" as follows: Wash the jar and place it on its side in a deep pan; cover it with cold water and bring to a boil, allowing it to boil for fifteen minutes. Drain and keep out of a draught (or it may crack). It is now ready to be filled with the blanched and cold-dipped asparagus stalks. Pour into the filled jar a hot brine made by combining four ounces of salt and one gallon of water; this brine should cover the tips of the asparagus and come to within one-half inch of the jar top. Put a clean, new rubber on the jar and "partially seal" (that is, put on the glass jar top and raise the top wire, but do not press down the side wire). Place the jar on a wire rack in the bottom of your wash-boiler in hot water that covers the top of the jar, and bring this water to the boiling point. Let the water continue to boil around the jar for one hour, then remove it from the boiler and let it stand for twenty-four hours in ordinary room temperature. Again put it in hot water in the boiler, bring to a boil and continue to boil for one hour, and again let it stand for twenty-four hours. On the third day repeat the process (that is, boiling it still another hour in the wash-boiler).

Completely seal the jar at the end of the first period of processing ("processing" is boiling the jar in the canner), but raise the side wire before placing the jar in the canner for the second processing—and do the same in the second and third processing. Cool and store.

Tomorrow—The Housekeeper's "Blind Alley."

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I: I, MYSELF, I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME
Or the Confessions of a Baby

CHAPTER LXI
Vomiting

Sometimes I vomit a little after I nurse. It really is not vomiting. I just spit up a little. It does not mean anything except that I am a little greedy and get more than I need. Mama does not worry about it now since Doctor told her it meant nothing.

Doctor called attention to the fact that I was gaining my five to eight ounces every week and that I was having my normal two or three bowel movements a day, that I slept pretty nearly twenty hours out of the twenty-four (I am not six months old yet, you know, and normal babies sleep very much of the time until they are six months old), that I did not cry too much and that in every way I was a happy baby. Then mama realized that the little spitting up of milk did not mean anything.

About my crying, I do cry some every day although I am happy, but somehow I just can't help crying a little. Doctor says I do it just to exercise my lungs and that a little husky crying is good for me. I really don't do it to be disagreeable, you understand.

I have told you how I stopped crying just because I wanted to be taken up or did not want to be put in my crib out of my lovely mama's arms. I found that it did not work. Now about the vomiting. Doctor wants me to tell you a little bit about vomiting and some of the things you can do to prevent it, because many of you mamas have written her about it.

The acute vomiting which may accompany the infectious diseases, acute indigestion, obstruction, drugs and poisons must have the personal supervision of a competent physician, mamas, but some of the habitual vomitings are due to simple causes and you can stop them yourselves.

Habitual Vomiting

Habitual vomiting may be due to the following things:

(a) Feeding too much, whether too great a quantity at a time or too frequently.

(b) Too rapid or too slow feeding.

(c) Feeding the baby in a lying down position, and not taking it up once or twice before the feeding is finished to let the swallowed air come up.

(d) If the baby is bottle fed holding the bottle so that air is swallowed. Letting the baby take the bottle alone.

(e) Too long a nipple. It gags the baby.

(f) Thumb or finger, or pacifier sucking. These may also gag the baby.

(g) Tossing the baby or handling it too soon after feeding.

(h) Tight adbominal band and clothing.

Now all of these things you can correct yourselves, mamas. If your baby is breast fed and your milk comes too rapidly, you can express an ounce of it before the baby nurses. That will help. If the baby is bottle fed and seems to vomit from too great a quantity of food, you can dilute his formula a little less so a smaller quantity is taken, though the food value remains the same.

Sometimes the formula is too strong. Most often when it produces vomiting it is too strong in fat or sugar. You can tell somewhat, mamas, from the type of the vomit. If the formula is too fat the vomit is liable to be creamy and yellow and have a rancid smell. If it is due to the sugar or starch, it is liable to be watery and sour.

If you have been doing any of these things that I have told you, and you correct them, and your baby still continues to vomit, you must see your physician, mamas. We mustn't let our babies get thin and weak in our own effort to correct, must we?

Au revoir.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

THEY TIE MY HANDS

I am thinking today, as I do about once in so often, of the many people who must have it in for me.

I am referring to the people who ask me to write on some subject that is not of general interest, or on which I don't feel that I have anything worth while to say, tell me they will eagerly await my reply in the column, and do not sign their names.

That ties my hands. I don't feel justified in using up the whole column on some subject that is of interest only to an individual or a small class.

On the other hand, I cannot write to the person and explain my silence as I would if he did me the courtesy to sign his name.

A Man Who Beats Up His Daughter

For instance, one letter friend wants me to write about the family difficulty between herself, a disagreeable husband who got mad at his daughter and beat her up because she stayed out late and who habitually sulks when anything doesn't suit him in the house, and a daughter who, though a perfectly good girl, uses rouge and powder and an eye pencil. The daughter evidently has no great fondness for her home (strange as it may seem!), and the mother fears that if she makes too much protest the girl will go away. One sympathizes deeply with the harassed mother, but one can hardly feel that cases just like that are common enough to make a text.

Borrows Money at 100 Per Cent

Nor yet does it seem as if I could write anything not already glaringly obvious about the case of a man who buys farms and makes small monthly payments and borrows money at the rate of 100 per cent. "And in his home is dire poverty. His wife hunted railroad tracks to get a few lumps of coal to burn last winter. She went to rummage sales to buy herself and the child shoes."

A man who habitually borrows money at such a rate is a fool. What good to try to reach his case by writing an article? How could he possibly have brains enough to benefit by it? And what would it mean to the general run of people to warn them against a folly that not one man in ten thousand would think of committing?

Marriage Without Love

Another woman wants to know whether I think it would be better for her to marry a man she does not love for the sake of home and children, of which latter she is very fond. She gives me several details about herself, her position and the man, which make it an individual matter rather than one which could be dealt with in my column.

I hope these people whom I have spoken of will recognize themselves and understand why they have waited eagerly in vain.

And I hope many others of whom I have not spoken specifically, but who have asked me to write on similar personal and individual subjects, will likewise understand and forgive.

Truly I am glad to do what I can to help you solve your problems, if I can reach you personally. But when you keep your name a secret, you tie my hands.

Kellogg's Bran is prepared to do one thing—AND DO IT WELL!

Kellogg's Bran will permanently relieve constipation, mild or chronic. It is scientifically prepared for that purpose. It is ALL BRAN, therefore it has the necessary bulk to assure results. Foods with a small bran content cannot afford permanent relief.

When your physician or friends advise you to eat Kellogg's Bran, you follow-on for the purpose of eliminating a dangerous clogging-up and toxic condition of your system. You can't afford to take half-way measures! Think of the lost time and the dangers of illness you are daily dodging!

What you must have is real bran—KELLOGG'S BRAN, and if you will eat it regularly each day you will become a different person within a week or so. Kellogg's Bran, with its natural bulk, sweeps, cleanses and purifies. It not only gives relief, but it regulates the bowels. Every member of your family should eat it—every day—at least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Try Kellogg's Bran mixed with a hot cereal, or cook it with hot cereals, adding two tablespoonfuls of Bran for each person. Other popular ways are to sprinkle Kellogg's Bran on hot or cold cereals or to eat it as a cereal with hot milk. You can make delicious bakery products with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is not only nationally sold in grocery stores, but can be had in individual packages in first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant. Be certain to eat Kellogg's Bran daily for health's sake!

Cost—

One of the fundamental ideas underlying our policy is the matter of cost.

There are certain physical items that determine our charges. They are all selective—the purchaser decides what is desired—and thus actually dictates the cost of service.

But, aside from these items, the service rendered doesn't vary with the price—the technical skill is always the same. The character of attention, thoroughness, and conscientious ethical service is unchanging, whether the amount involved is one hundred dollars or several thousand.

FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION?

M'Adoo And Underwood May Enter Contest

According to reports from Washington, United States Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, will toss his hat into the ring for the Democratic nomination for the presidency when he returns from his European tour, some time next month. It is declared he has already sounded out the political leaders in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Illinois. His chief opponent for the nomination, it is reported, will be William Gibbs McAdoo, now of California, son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson.

EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK ALL UNDER L. A. NOW

Various City Departments in Control; Gala Day at Central School

Practically every department of Eagle Rock's municipal government has now been taken over by the city of Los Angeles, including the fire, police, clerical and electrical departmens. Water, sewers, garbage and one or two other departments will in all probability be taken over by the end of the week.

By June 1, it is expected that the Eagle Rock section will be functioning smoothly as an integral cog in the great machinery of the metropolis of the southland; and by June 5, the date of the city election, this section will cast its first vote under the new regime.

B. B. Martsolf, former city clerk of Eagle Rock Ccity, has been made a deputy city clerk of the city of Los Angeles and will continue along a line of duties similar to those to which he has devoted himself heretofore.

Sgt. G. D. Cornwall, of the Los Angeles police department, has been put in charge of the Eagle Rock police department during the day watch, and the present force will be retained until they have had an opportunity to take the civil service examinations required of Los Angeles policemen.

In every department taken over, the officials of the city of Los Angeles have maintained a policy of retaining every employe they possibly could, with the result that scarcely any changes have been occasioned in local personnel.

Gala Day at Central

Gala Day, an annual event at the Central school, has been in progress today, since early morning, when a series of aesthetic and folk dances, out under the trees, marked the opening of the series of festive events planned by Miss Londergan, Miss Miller, Ernest Belcher and others.

Miss Evelyn Nair, one of Mr. Belcher's pupils, danced several solo numbers. This young lady is well known for her acrobatic dancing and is a favorite of her schoolmates, participating in many volunteer performances.

Miss Nancy Grant, another talented young dancer, appeared on the morning program.

A feature of the afternoon program will be a one-act humorous play, put on in the auditorium, under the supervision of Miss Helen Miller.

In addition, the Girls' Glee club will appear on the auditorium program; a pageant is scheduled; a number of local boys will stage an acrobatic act, and there will be sleight-of-hand and cartoon artists, and numerous other features, all volunteer amateur acts by school students.

The celebration will last until late afternoon and is one of the feature events of the year at Central.

Annual Free Treat

The P.-T. A. of the Central school furnished their annual free treat to the children, in the form of a picture show, Saturday afternoon, May 19. All Central school pupils were their guests.

PERIL OF FOREST FIRE UNCHECKED

Yale Devoting Much Time And Effort to Providing Men Trained for Work

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 25.—Even with the Federal Government administering 160 million acres of forest lands and with twenty-eight states taking care of timber growing within their borders the fire problem on that woodland has not yet been mastered, says Henry S. Graves, former Chief of the United States Forestry School.

Dean Graves has just pointed out that the amount of timber used and destroyed every year in the country is four times as much as that produced, and if this condition persists the effects on industry are bound to be serious. There are now over two hundred million acres of forest lands without protection from fire.

Incidentally, Dean Graves points out, nineteen schools of collegiate grade are turning out men to take charge of these forests. Yale's Forestry School will, in June, occupy Sage Hall, probably the largest building in the United States devoted to such work; and the school has three school forests well located, stocked with timber and covering some 3,000 acres; its endowment is nearing $1,000,000, and it has six full-time professors.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty of Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean, like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

College Men Rescue Many From Drowning

CHICAGO, May 25.—More than 3000 lives have been saved by students of Northwestern University in the last ten years, as the result of swimming and life-saving instruction, according to an estimate given out by Coach Tom, Robinson. Fifty members of the university's life-saving classes made more than 500 rescues last Summer, Coach Robinson declared. Most of these took place in the Great Lakes region.

Ninety per cent of last summer's rescues were made within twenty yards of the shore, and in most cases only a few yards were separating the drowning persons from shallow water. Very few of those rescued were college people, because most colleges and universities require students to be able to swim at least 25 yards before being graduated, the coach said.

One student's feat was especially noteworthy. He dived to an automobile covered by six feet of water and rescued a boy who been securely caught.

TAKE IT EASY, IS TIP FOR BRITISH

Short and Hitherto 'Snappy' Lloyd George Converted To Leisure Plan

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, May 25.—Slow up; put on the brakes; keep inside the speed limit; do more resting and less running; more thinking and less talking.

Without subscribing too enthusiastically to a policy of doing as little hurrying as possible, a great many English people seem to have become imbued recently with the idea that haste is one of the world's greatest evils. One noted English publicist has declared that if people were lazier the world would be happier. There seems to be a general opinion that hustling is more of a vice than a virtue.

And now comes David Lloyd George, who for six years during the heat and passion of the World War gave Britain and the world an example of how to get things done in a hurry, and yearns for the good old days when people were more deliberate. The short but hitherto snappy ex-premier appears to have concluded that this business of "stepping on the gas" all the time is more detrimental than beneficial.

Read Books Too Fast

Lloyd George has not as yet gone so far as to say that folks work too hard physically. His conversion to the policy of taking things easier thus far has extended only to the mental phase of human activities. He believes that people should show less speed in dashing through books from cover to cover, but should pause as they peruse the pages and give their mental machinery a chance to masticate the ideas the books convey.

Speaking to a convention of the National Sunday School Union, Lloyd George praised the literature of Sunday schools and the knowledge that is to be acquired by attendance thereon. He said there was no national literature in the world like that which is studied in Sunday schools. The trouble is, he pointed out, that folks do not give enough time to it.

Urges "Slowing Up"

"Most reading nowadays is slipshod," the former premier declared. "We are in a hurry, whether we travel along railroads or along any other paths. The speed limit has gone, and it has gone in literature. We push through books at sixty miles an hour.

"In the old days when there were few books or when people could not buy books they studied books. They were better readers. They knew more with their three or four books than those who read about two hundred or three hundread a year."

Leaving the subject of haste, Lloyd George turned to his inevitable topic of politics and told his audience that he did not know of "a better training for politics than a Sunday school training—that is, a thorough search of the Scriptures.

"I would rather trust the destiny of a people to a nation that has 7,000,000 of its citizens trained in Sunday schools than I would to a nation that has them not," he said. "The Sunday school movement is a great movement—one of the great molding movements of the world."

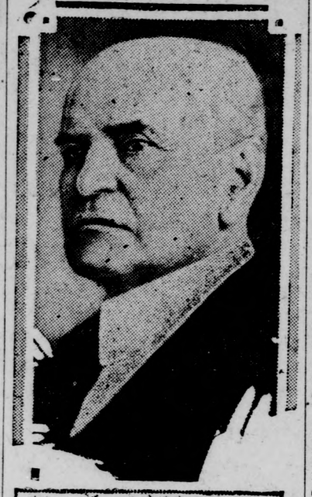
'Asbestos King' Caught In Trap



Charles O. Manville

Following the arrest of Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes, modiste and milliner, of many cities, charged with forging the names of Charles M. Schwab to huge notes, C. B. Manville, New York "asbestos king" and aged founder of the H. W. Johns-Manville Company, a multi-millionaire, came forward with the statement that a coterie of shrewd women has "milked" him of hundreds of thousands in similar transactions and had caught others for millions by illegal use of his name. The 89-year-old man's son said his aged father had been the unfortunate dupe of women in oil deals.

Renegade Wolf Shot To Death by Trapper

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 25.—Old Snowdrift, an immense white wolf, is lonely, and he has been raising wild, piercing cries in the hills near here recently because his constant companion, Lady Snowdrift, has been shot and killed.

Lady Snowdrift was the mother of Lady Silver, a wolf playing on the silver screen with the famous Strongheart. She was shot and killed by Don Stevens, government trapper, who trailed her to a den near Highwood.

For years Lady Snowdrift had ravaged cattle and sheep ranches in northern Montana. According to official records of government rangers, the female wolf and Old Snowdrift together have killed twenty-one head of cattle this spring.

Both wolves had successfully eluded crafty trappers for more than ten years. Many times have they been caught in steel jaws, but always these night prowlers, murderers of young cows and lambs, have escaped. Once Lady Snowdrift left two toes in a steel trap as evidence of the closest call she ever had at the hands of the government trappers previous to meeting "Wolfer" Stevens. Although she had just given birth to nine pups, which were also captured, Lady Snowdrift weighed sixty-seven pounds, said by rangers to be unusually heavy for a female wolf.

Indians' Mouths Water as They Look Forward to Invasion of Moths

By CHESTER B. BAHN
For International News Service

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 25.—The bee's knees, the humming bird's hips, the oyster's elbow and all other anatomical complexities of the comic strip artist's imagination—save, possibly, the well-known cat's pajamas—are to be conformed to esculent facts, according to a bulletin from the State College of Forestry at Syracuse University.

Choice dishes composed of carefully cooked worms, bugs or caterpillars may become a necessary part of every properly appointed meal in the near future, the Syracuse educators forecast.

The time is near, they say, when the connoisseurs will demand bark beetle a lo Newburgh, gypsy moth flier, white pine weevil ragout and Pandora moth roast, with pupae filling.

Regular Lifesavers

"Foresters, new and old, and daring and curious scientists have been known to relist insect morsels in limited quantities and prepared by various styles of cooking," the college bulletin declares further. "Castaways on desert islands have found insects regular lifesavers. Word has come from United States foresters on the west coast that Indians of the Klamath reservation, Oregon, are gloating with eager anticipation over the visitation of the Colorado Pandora moth, which has been observed flitting in great numbers in the forests of the Fort Klamath country, and are now laying their eggs on the yellow pine needles.

"The caterpillars, which will hatch this summer from eggs, will be very destructive to the foliage of the pine trees and, in the natural life cycle of the moth, will become nice, tender pupae in 1924. The Indians are already looking forward to the feast and general powwow. If the Indians eat the pupae the pupae cannot hatch moths—no moths, no caterpillars; no caterpillars, no damage to trees."

Expert Says Indian Was First American

CHICAGO, May 25.—In a lecture before the student body on "South American Indians, Past and Present," Prof. William H. Haas, of Northwestern University, asserted that there was no race on the North American continent preceding the so-called American Indian. Professor Haas also discredited the reported find in South America of a skull purporting to be from the early tertiary period, claiming that the so-called American Indian came too late for us to think of him as a fossil.

"It never occurred to the white man when he first came to this continent that here was a civilization that had risen without the use of minerals and without beasts of burden, and that here was a culture that had far surpassed his own social organization. Had the history we read been written by the red man, the story would be a different one."

BALKAN INFLUX IS BIG PROBLEM

Macedonians, Armenians And Russ Anti-Reds Are Flocking in

By CONSTANTINE STEPHANOVE
For International News Service

SOFIA, May 25.—Bulgarian officials are facing an increasingly serious problem as the result of an influx of refugees from Balkan districts where political and economic conditions are disturbed. The question of caring for the refugees is causing the government great concern.

It is estimated that there are approximately 1,000,000 people in Bulgaria at present who have come from other countries. Since the population of Bulgaria is only about 5,000,000 it can readily be seen that the addition of a number of refugees equal to one-fifth the total population of the country constitute a burden sufficient to tax the resources of the nation.

Political Refugees

The refugee population is somewhat diversified. It is estimated that more than 500,000 Macedonians have flocked into Bulgaria from Debrudja, from Eastern and Western Thrace and from the Tsaribrod district. Thousands of Armenians driven from Asia Minor by the Graeco-Turkish conflict and added thousands of the Wrangel followers from Russia have swelled the number. Large numbers who were separated from the homeland by the terms of the peace treaty which realigned the Balkan states also have drifted back within the Bulgarian borders.

These refugees, in many cases, have been compelled to flee hurriedly before a military invasion. Almost none of them have any means of self-support. They are a penniless, destitute horde that must be fed and clothed. The task of providing them with even the most meagre subsistence has become a monumental one.

Protest to Entente.

A more pressing aspect has now been given the problem, according to Bulgarian officials, by the influx of refugees that has begun from Greek Thrace. The Bulgarians charge that the Greek Government is driving out all non-Greek inhabitants in order to make room for Greek colonies it contemplates establishing. It is claimed that several villages whose population was almost entirely Bulgarian have been virtually depopulated through deportation activities of the Greeks.

The Bulgarian government has sent a strong note of protest to the Entente powers against the alleged mistreatment by the Greeks of the Thracian Bulgars. "Bulgaria has become a veritable refugee camp," the note declares, "and the powers should take steps to put a stop to this inhuman treatment of the original Thracian population."

No reply has as yet been received from the Allied powers to the Bulgarian protest. Meantime refugees continue to flock in and the Bulgarian authorities are becoming increasingly alarmed over the difficulties presented by the situation.

SEEK GOLD ON SIBERIA COAST

Mining Engineer Predicts New El Dorado in Icy Regions of Okhotsk Sea

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—The ancient lure of the frozen north, with its ice, valuable furs, raging seas and gold, has again reached Los Angeles.

With countless thousands of miles of virgin Siberian gold fields as their goal and with the furs and the hazards of ice thrown in as spice for their man-sized adventure, some forty men, recruited from all over the country will leave Los Angeles June 1 with their hearts set on invading the frozen north and—its gold!

"We'll find it, too!" exclaimed S. L. McGirk in announcing virtual completion of all arrangements for the trip. McGirk, an experienced mining engineer, is confident the Okhotsk Sea district, whither the prospectors are bound, is the richest gold area on earth—even wealthier than the Klondike in its prime.

Questioned as to the authenticity of the reports of fabulous wealth in the Okhotsk field, which is in northeastern Siberia, McGirk said that over 100 men went into the region last year on their own initiative. Three of them came out with $160,000 and two others brought away over $300,000 between them, he claimed. Mining engineers, McGirk said, have long known of the field, but it was only recently they were able to work it on a paying basis.

Open to Foreigners

"Before the war the Czar controlled that particular part of Siberia with an iron rule," McGirk explained. "He had it patrolled with Cossacks to keep the exiles in Siberia from escaping to the sea and also to keep outsiders from tapping the gold deposits. After the war the White Army, battling with the soviets, held control over it. The Japanese have also had something to do with it. However, last year the soviet government threw the coast open to foreigners and are now offering tempting inducements to have claims staked out there. The gold is there without a doubt, and I believe that within a year it will be a second Alaska—only richer. As soon as the news has been spread there will be a stampede."

The party plans to touch first at Okhtosk, where the majority of them will land with a year's provisions, while the remainder of the party will continue, with McGirk, further north, beyond the Arctic and around Cape North, where they hope to get supplies to L. S. McGirk, the party leader's brother, and Ed Black, another mining engineer, who have braved the frozen wastes since 1919. Mc Girk has been visiting them late each summer to take new supplies.

Few people agree with another's convictions but insist that others agree with theirs.

What's Overloading Courts
Surest Cure For Crime
Best Dressed Women Here
'The Business Situation'

By Gil A. Cowan

"THE average criminal does not feel hostile toward the man who prosecutes him," according to a Los Angeles county district attorney, speaking before a club here.

That is, the criminal holds no rancor if justice has been duly meted him, for he is playing a game, evidently, the same as a gambler.

The existence of a crime wave was denied by this authority, but the lure of high wages, the use of narcotics and an increased disrespect for the law has tended to overload the courts.

All of which has encouraged crime, no doubt, and Southern California may feel glad that already the work of the Los Angeles Crime commission is becoming effective.

Organized effort to combat crime by means of legislation and corrective channels prior to the commission of overt acts will have a more telling effect than increased police protection, for, after all, the policeman is not a preventive agency. He is simply an effective means of apprehension and a silent guardian on watch for criminals.

The fact that old offenders know the courts will not be merciful in the matter of probation is one of the surest cures put on the statute books of this state. The fact that burglary or robbery in which a deadly weapon is used will insure the criminal getting no less than five years is going to be a decided deterrent.

And the speeding up of trials by the elimination of preliminary hearings in cases where guilt is well established means more expeditious court procedure.

With the knowledge that justice will be quick and sure and substantial crime will decrease to the minimum, the writer believes.

Southern California, film capital of the world, is fast becoming the fashion center of the whole world. Indeed, it is right in the specialty shops of Los Angeles, Glendale, Hollywood and Pasadena that the latest creations are now seen.

It is not an idle boast to say the best-dressed women in the United States will be found in the southland. All of the European visitors to our sunny clime simply rave about the models, just as though this were the land of mannikins.

The equable climate, perhaps the best in the world, offers freedom of action here which tends to develop the utmost in figure. Heavy, binding wraps are not necessary in winter while the summer's sun tends to reduce that superfluity of flesh which all of us abhor.

And the constant parade of the film stars and wealthy women whose almost sole purpose in life seems to be centered in their sartorial appearance, gives the incentive to others to dress as daughters of the king.

Speaking of fashions we note that King Tut bathing suits are all the rage this year. But where do they get the original models? So far as is known no bathing suits were worn in the jolly days when Tut-Anhk-Amen lolled around the sandy shores of the Nile.

Censorious Chicago, with its best families migrating to the coast, has thrown away its bathing beach rules regarding stockings, bloomers, etc. One piece bathing suits will be the style.

There is something satisfying to Glendale and Southern California in the following editorial reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor, discussing "The Business Situation:"

"Notwithstanding the temporary check in industrial activity, the present volume of production throughout the American continent is still close to maximum. The leading steel interest is operating at about 97 per cent of capacity. Taking into consideration the plant expansion that has taken place in the last few years, steel output at present is on an enormous scale. As the steel industry long has been considered an accurate barometer of general trade, it must be seen that general business is good and promises to continue along present lines for an indefinite period.

"One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the apparent effort that is being put forth in all departments of commerce and industry for a continuance of present prosperity along rational lines and without inflationary accompaniment. Men of affairs who are regarded as leaders in their respective realms have not been the least disturbed by the recent decline in commodity prices and the accompanying slackening in business activity. They regard this development as a natural one and very much to be desired. They consider that price inflation has been thwarted, and that prosperity will be prolonged as a result. Stabilizing of prices is necessary to normal, steady business.

"An indication of the vast resources in the United States available for investment is the fact that subscriptions to the recent offering of $400,000,000 Treasury notes exceeded $1,000,000,000, including cash and Victory notes offered in exchange. Money conditions are sound and rates are working easier, affording a very satisfactory outlook for commercial activities for an indefinite period. There is little if any, unemployment, wages are high, and the buying power of the people is great. This is shown by the growth of business of the chain and retail stores and mail order houses, some of which are doing a larger business than ever before. There has been some reaction here and there, due mostly to seasonal or local conditions, but, as a rule, the volume of retail business is enormous.

"If further proof were necessary to show the soundness of general business conditions, it is to be found in the decreasing number of business failures throughout the United States. In the first four months of 1923, according to one commercial agency, the decrease in business mortality was 21.7 per cent in number and 38.8 per cent in total liabilities as compared with the corresponding period last year."

JAP EXPERTS TO STUDY U. S. JURY

Delegation to Spend a Year In America and Europe Viewing Law Process

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service

TOKIO, May 25.—Six leading jurists of Japan will leave this city for the United States some time this month for one year in the United States and Europe, during which time they will make an intensive study of the jury systems in those countries visited. The six jurists have been named as a result of the passage in the last session of the Imperial Diet of a bill which is designed to give to Japanese a jury system something like that of the United States.

The jurists, who will sail soon, represent Tokio, Osaka, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kyoto and Kobe, and are well known throughout the empire of Japan. It is the hope of the Department of Justice officials who named these men that their studies abroad will make possible installation of a western jury system in Japan by 1927.

Money For Expense

The government this year appropriated 96,000 yen ($48,000) for expenses in investigating other jury systems and installation of the system which will be worked out for Japan.

The men, who will first visit the United States in their search for jury system ideas, are: Mr. Kozaburo Akiyama, councillor for the Department of Justice; Mr. Sheitsu Kanayama, a procurator of the Yokohama district court; Judge Y. Chouno and Mr. Shimayasu of the Tokio district court; Judge Hidenda Suzuki, head of the Osaka district court, and Mr. Saburo Hamano of the Department of Justice. The Japanese jurist party will study the general plans of court buildings, dormitories for jurymen and the practical operation of the jury system.

During the year 1922 over 600,000 Bell-owned stations were added to the Bell System. This was a larger increase than in any preceding year.

BURBANK

C. OF C. IS HOST AT BIG BANQUET

Get Acquainted Affair at Presbyterian Church on Thursday Night

"An epoch-making event for Burbank!"—that is the way last night's banquet at the Presbyterian church was characterized.

The affair was held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, and brought forth an overwhelming crowd. It was called an Old-comers' and New-comers' banquet," and is said to be the first such affair ever held in the city.

A fine program of short, snappy talks was given, arranged by Directors W. J. Riley, J. C. Isbell, Dr. F. C. Tillson, J. D. Radcliffe, M. E. Gilbert and Secretary Colburn, of the Chamber of Commerce.

The result of this banquet was to get the older and younger residents of the city better acquainted, and so successful was the affair that it is believed there will be at least one such banquet each year, from now on.

Music Week Events

The Progressive School of Music held a demonstration of the children's work, Tuesday night, May 22, at the Luther Burbank school.

This department, under the capable direction of Miss Vera Morrow, put on a performance which made the event outstanding from a musical viewpoint, and demonstrated some of the things children are learning in classes such as this.

Those who witnessed the performance are easily able to understand the reason for the surprising growth of the school.

Tonight, Friday, May 25, Miss Morrow will give a student recital at Inglewood, with the following pupils of Burbank's schools on the program:

Pauline Cox, Ethel Mayworth, Wilfred Haflinger, Eulalia Haflinger, Alice Gratrix, Gwendolyn Padget, Myrtle Newhall, Annabelle Evans and Janet Pruett.

Violin numbers and trios will be among the offerings of these pupils.

A number of home recitals are being held this week, in Burbank, among the homes so opened being those of Mesdames Blabon, Roe, Haflinger, Sterner, Pendell, Hayworth and Jenkins.

At a concert to be given in Lynwood, Friday night, Miss Marion Shaley will give two piano numbers and Mrs. Lovejoy will render two violin groups.

And last, but not least, the radio in Burbank is working the air overtime during Music Week.

Cole Morgan, a local composer, will come prominently before the public Saturday night, May 26, when his Elks' song, "Under the Spreading Antlers," will be given by the Hollywood Melody String Quartette, over the Times radio, and on the same evening will be sung by the glee club of Elks' lodge No. 99, at the Ambassador Theatre, Los Angeles, upon the occasion of a farewell banquet to Admiral Eberle of the United States navy.

Beginning next week, it is understood that the song will be popularized further to the public, when it will be put on at the T. D. & L. Theatre, Mr. Morgan singing the number himself.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

TODAY—Three Unique Restaurants, "Upper, Middle and Lowest."

TOMORROW—"Wait Until Spring" (in Paris, Chicago, New York), the French Weather Alibi, by Harry Flory, Paris correspondent.

By ROLAND KREBS
For International News Service

CHICAGO, May 25.—There are three Chicago restaurants, each in a class to itself. The one is very aristocratic. The second is a rendezvous for the "upper middle class," while the third was intended for "river rats," but draws much of its patronage from fat purses that love atmosphere.

Since life is largely a matter of beginning at the bottom and working one's way up, it may relieve the monotony somewhat in this case to begin at the top and sink lower.

The first and blue-blooded restaurant is not at all anxious to advertise itself because it has such a clientele in such small quarters now that it scarce can provide for them. It has an English name and is situated in a tall studio building on Michigan boulevard, overlooking the lake.

At the luncheon hour it is thronged with painters, etchers, sculptors, students of voice, the piano and violin. The air is vibrant with talk of mediums, leit motif, texture, shading, overtones, timbre, Chinese white and phrases which to "the man in the street" mean nothing at all.

The food is good, the tables are small, the chairs even more so and vastly uncomfortable. This dining room is the rim around a court-yard, with glass doors from floor to ceiling that open into the court. In the court striped, varicolored mushroom umbrellas cast discs of shade over daintily set tables out in the open.

It is a favorite gathering place for the smart daughters of the rich, who can do nothing very well except spend. There they come in expensive frocks and hats, each believing herself the exotic flower of a money-grubbing family, and they soak up culture. They smoke many cigarettes while ordering, while waiting and while eating. Now and then one chokes and coughs over it. The others all smile and hope they won't appear so unhardened. The black cigarette with gold tip is having quite a rogue here just now, by the way. This is Bohemia in its bib and tucker.

On the other hand, there is a surprising lack of atmosphere in this famous middle-class restaurant on Randolph street, the theatre thoroughfare of Chicago. It advertises boldly that there is no orchestral din to drive its diners mad.

The food is exceptionally good and the prices are starchy stiff.

It is well known to visiting actors, who manage to eat at fewest one meal a day there. They rather enjoy attracting the attention of other guests who lead less colorful lives.

One hears quite a bit here about Lee and Lake and Flo and Marilyn and Lowell and Georgie. Strange, but no actor eats there unless he has stopped the show somewhere.

The odd part of it is that a few years ago this restaurant was less pretentious. It had china-topped tables and china-throated waitresses. Much of it was given over to a bakery. Now its head waiters on various floors wear dinner clothes. There is something suspiciously like "tone" to everything. Tone seems to pay well, for as late as 7:30 in the evening patient, hungry, people sit on the rows of cushioned chairs provided for waiting and long for a table to be cleared for them.

And now for the low brows. Their restaurant is called "Hester's fish joint." That describes it well, too. Little excepting fish is sold there.

It is a dark dent in the wall on the Chicago river front just below the Dearborn street bridge. One must pick a precarious way down narrow, uneven steps from the bridge to a shelf-like quay reeking with tar, refuse, oil and the other smelly things found about the docks. Barrels, coops, crates and boxes litter the path.

Hester's joint is down dark steps into a damp, cellarish sort of place just a bit above the water level. In the dark you step on the tails of several squealing cats —where there is fish there are cats.

SCIENCE and INVENTION

MENACE OF THE FARM AND RANGE

A menace to agriculture much more serious than the prairie dog is the ground squirrel, which is one of the most abundant animals in this country, being found by millions over a vast extent of territory. Immense tracts are literally honeycombed with its burrows.

Ground Squirrel And Its Worst Foe, The Fox

Tunneling underground, these rodents eat the roots of grasses, as well as other plants, and are thus exceedingly destructive on the ranges of the West. They throw up mounds which smother vegetation. But this is by no means all. As grain begins to develop soon after blossoming, the ground squirrels cut down the stalks and eat them; and, later on, when the grain is hard, they carry quantities of it into their holes, for storage. They dig up squash, melon, and other seeds; and another little trick of theirs is to cut holes in nearly ripe muskmelons and watermelons, to get the seeds.

Away back in 1867, a pair of ground squirrels, which had been trapped somewhere out West, escaped from a cage near Tuckerton, N. J. They bred, and, as a result, notwithstanding unremitting war waged against them by men, boys and dogs, the species has since spread over most of the southern part of the State.

Wholesale poisoning has been in some measure effective as a means of keeping down their numbers; but they breed with such enormous fecundity that the problem is one of utmost difficulty. Grain soaked in a solution of strychnine gives satisfactory results, and multitudes of the little animals are suffocated to death by stuffing rags saturated with bisulphide of carbon into the mouths of their burrows. The fumes of the bisulphide, being heavier than air, descend into the burrows, smothering the occupants.

There are about thirty-five species of ground squirrels, and one of the most destructive of them, the "striped spermophile," has a special trick of digging up newly-planted corn. In this way large fields of corn are often destroyed by them, and have to be planted over several times. One reason why the plague is so serious is that farmers have made the great mistake of destroying the enemies of the ground squirrels, such as foxes, hawks, owls, badgers, and harmless snakes, thus enabling them to breed without the checks which nature was thoughtful enough to provide.

It is estimated that ground squirrels in an infested district will levy an average tax of 10 per cent on all crops.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

UNCLE WIGGILY AND NELLIE JIGGLES

Mrs. Cheer Up, the robin lady stepped to the door of her nest house in the tree and looked down. There was a worried ruffle to her feathers and she seemed anxious about something. Then along came flying Nellie Chip Chip, the sparrow girl.

"Oh, Nellie," sang Mrs. Cheer Up, "will you please go to the store for me?"

"Indeed, I will," chirped Nellie, fluttering her tail up and down, and a bit sideways. "What do you want me to get, Mrs. Cheer Up?"

"Some bird gravel," answered the robin lady. "Mr. Cheer Up has a little indigestion. What he eats doesn't seem to agree with him, and I think if he had some coarse gravel to swallow, it would be just the thing for him. He is lying down in the nest, and I can't leave, but if you'll go to the store—"

"Why, of course, I will—most gladly," said Nellie, politely. "I'll get you a package of bird gravel."

"And you'll be careful not to jiggle it; won't you, Nellie, my dear?" asked Mrs. Cheer Up.

"Jiggle it?" repeated Nellie.

"I mean jiggle it so much that you spill the gravel out of the package," explained the robin lady.

"Oh, I'll be careful not to jiggle the gravel," promised Nellie. Then she flew through the air to the drug store of Dr. Possum, where she bought a package of bird gravel.

"I hope it will do Mr. Cheer Up good," said Dr. Possum.

"I think it will," chirped Nellie.

The little sparrow girl flew back over the forest trees, carrying under one wing the package of bird gravel. She was looking down at the ground, the same as when you do if you go up in an airship—for a bird is like an airship you know—when, all of a sudden, down on the grown below, Nellie saw a sight that made her little heart beat very fast.

What Nellie saw was Uncle Wiggily, the rabbit gentleman, held fast by the Fuzzy Fox, who was dressed like a tramp with a patched shirt and a big, loose, ragged coat.

"Oh, my gracious goodness, my sakes alive!" gasped Nellie, catching her breath as she fluttered in the air. "The Fox has caught Uncle Wiggily at last and will nibble his ears! Oh, I wonder if I can do anything to help? At least I can fly down and perch in a tree over poor Uncle Wiggily's head. I won't make any noise and the Fox can't hear me. Maybe I can think of a way to help the poor bunny rabbit gentleman. But I must be careful not to jiggle the bird gravel for Mr. Cheer Up."

Down Nellie flew into the tree, under which the Fox had caught Uncle Wiggily. The sparrow girl made no sound. But as she alighted on the limb of the tree a sharp branch poked a hole in the package of bird gravel, and a little sprinkled out to the ground below.

"Oh, my goodness!" whispered Nellie. "There's a hole in it! I must be specially careful not to do any jiggling or I'll spill the gravel all out."

Nellie looked below her. She saw where some of the coarse, gritty gravel had sprinkled on the ground near the Fox. The Fox, just then, was growling:

"At last I have caught you, Uncle Wiggily, and I'm going to nibble your ears!"

"Yes, I suppose so," sadly said the bunny. The Fox got ready to nibble and, just then, Nellie had a bright idea.

"I know what I'll do!" thought the little sparrow girl. "I'll jiggle a lot of bird gravel down the back of the Fox, inside his coat. It will tickle him, he'll want to scratch his back and to do that he will have to let go of Uncle Wiggily. Then Uncle Wiggily can hop away."

No sooner said than done. Nellie tipped the package of bird gravel upside down, so the hole in it was right over the Fox. Then she jiggled it to spill the gravel out.

"Uncle Williigly can buy more for Mr. Cheer Up," thought the little sparrow girl. Down the back of the Fox sifted the bird gravel, scratching him.

"Oh, how tickled I am: Woozie wow! I've got to scratch!" howled the Fox. "Oh, I never was so itchie and tickled in my life!"

Then he let go of Uncle Wiggily, the Fox did, to scratch his back, and Nellie, up in the tree, cried:

"Hop away, Uncle Wiggily! Hop!" And the bunny hopped safely away from the Fox so his ears weren't nibbled, and there was plenty of bird gravel left for Mr. Cheer Up, whose indigestion was soon all better.

They all said Nellie was very smart to think of jiggling the gravel down the back of the Fox. And if the bread and butter don't take a key from the piano to unlock the jam closet, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the postage stamps.

THE RIGHT VARIABLE CONDENSER TO CHOOSE

The counters are flooded with various types of variable condensers, each claiming to be "the best." A little advice on this little written about subject is about due. There are numerous makes of condensers (in a recent count I found ninety-eight different people making them for sale). Some of the types examined would absolutely put a good receiving set out of commission, their losses were so great. The best variable condenser, in my opinion, is one having air as the dielectric (that which separates the plates). Some use paper, others bakelite and still others mica.

Points to watch for are uniform spacing between plates, connections between movable plates and lead to other circuits, the material supporting the fixed plates and condenser itself, the material the plates are made of.

If you will carefully look at some condensers you will find the space between plates is not uniform. This is not desirable. In others there is no bearing for the movable plates shaft, other than a hole bored in the material supporting the fixed plates. This may work very well at first, but there is bound to be wear in a short time which allows the plate to come nearer and nearer the fixed plates, eventually short-circuiting the condenser. Some types have a piece of metal resting against the shaft of the rotating plates which can be adjusted by a set screw which controls the spacing of the rotating plates with respect to the fixed plates. This spacing feature in itself is all right, but it is not the best contact between movable plates leading to the other circuits. The correct contact is that of a pigtail connection which is soldered to the shaft, thereby giving a permanent and proper connection.

It is the opinion of most fans and amateurs, too, that bakelite is about the best thing you can buy for your set, but recent test at the A. R. R. L. (American Radio Relay League) headquarters has shown the fallacy of this for high frequency (radio) work. In their tests it was shown that this material was not as good as dry wood and not anywhere near (I think it was one-thirtieth) as good as hard rubber, if kept dry.

From the foregoing it will be seen that cheap condensers cannot be good ones, good from a radio viewpoint. In choosing your condencers don't make it a hit and miss affair. First determine what hookup you are going to use and then ascertain what capacity of condenser is best suited to it, then buy them and buy the very best your pocketbook will afford. You may have read where so and so bought a lot of junk and heard stations a couple of thousand miles away on a detector alone. Maybe they did, but it was a freak, and freak work is not what you want. You want to be able to invite a friend up and get results most any night, and you can do it with junk.

Some buy a large condenser and then a three-plate vernier. It is much better to buy one that has a vernier of its own rather than to get two distinct variable condensers.

Some people have trouble in tuning, and when they take their hand from the primary condenser the signal goes with it. Here is a test you can make: Tune in some signal and touch your aerial and then remove your hand from it and touch the ground. In most cases no change is made when you touch the ground, but there is when you touch the aerial. If this same thing happens when tuning with your condenser, that is, when you remove your hand the signal disappears, connect the movable plate to the ground side and the fixed to the aerial side of the set. The condenser should come before the primary coil.

A .0005 variable condenser in series with your aerial will cut down the natural wave length of that circuit more than a condenser of .001 microfarad capacity and will not allow you to tune as high as the lattle type; the same when shunted across the secondary. The .001 will respond to a higher band of wave lengths than the .0005 condenser. To further increase the wave length a variable condenser can be connected in parallel to other variable or fixed condensers without adding inductance (wire) to the coil.

Pointers

When buying variable condensers be sure and ask the dealer the exact capacity. While they may look alike, their capacity may vary.

An A battery is connected in series with the filament, B battery in series with the pate, and C battery between the filament and secondary of the transformer leading to the grid.

In connecting up your loose coupler bear in mind there is no electrical connection between the primary and secondary coils.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

by ALBERT L. CLOUGH

Copyright, 1923, by the International Syndicate.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

WHY CARBURETORS NEED OCCASIONAL "TINKERING"
Understand Your Carburetor Fully Before Attempting Adjustments

The advice is frequently given: Do not tamper with the carburetor, as it has been correctly adjusted at the factory, and doubtless this admonition is intended in the very best spirit, for it is a fact that, when once properly set, a carburetor will go on performing satisfactorily as long as conditions do not change, so that altering its adjustments unintelligently or needlessly, will do more harm than good. The reason why this advice should not be literally followed is that carburetor and carburation conditions are subject to change and it is foolish to assert that a factory adjustment can be either infallibly perfect or prove permanently right. Among the factors that make carburetor adjustment occasionally necessary are the following: Changes of gasoline quality, involving differences in its viscisity or "body," that alter the rate of fuel flow through the fuel spraying nozzle. The "heavier" the gasoline used, the less will pass through a certain aperture, under a certain pressure. Changes in atmospheric density, as between low and high altitudes, less oxygen being contained in a cubic foot of air at a high elevation than, for instance, at sea level. The same adjustment that is correct at Denver will not necessarily be so at New York. Change in the action of carburetor parts with time, due to the weakening of the springs controlling the air supply and the alteration through wear, of links that inter-connect different portions of the mechanism. Changes in the operative temperature of the intake system and cylinder walls, as between the extremes of summer and of winter weather. When no means are taken to overcome the effects of such atmospheric differences, a more liberal gasoline adjustment must be maintained in cold weather, because so much of the fuel supplied fails to vaporize and burn properly. Differences in the carburation requirements sought: Some operators wish a mixture rich enough to produce maximum acceleration and power, even at some sacrifice in economy, while others, in order to save gasoline, are willing to use a slightly leaner mixture. A motorist should avoid changing his carburetor setting, unless it is known to require it, but should not hesitate to do so when it is advisable. Instructions, minutely explaining the correct method of adjustment, are obtained from the manufacturer of every make of carburetor, and every motorist should familiarize himself with the directions applicable to his particular instrument.

VALVE TIMING

F. D. asks: Please explain in detail the proper way to time valves and ignition in the case of any engine. Is the timing the same for the greatest power and the greatest speed?

Answer: Almost every make of engine has its own method of timing, and the exact setting for the timing gears is given in the manual accompanying each make of engine. In general, the timing of all engines is somewhere near the same, but the different manufacturers have slight differences in practice. The timing used is somewhat a compromise between maximum speed and maximum pulling power, designed to give the best all-around results. Hand regulation of the spark enables extra speed to be obtained, but the valve timing, as we say above, is rather a compromise.

BRACING FOR CHASSIS

F. W. T. asks: Does the chassis of any automobile have diagonal bracing? If not, what is the reason?

Answer: Several makes of cars use a diagonal brace at each axle, the braces forming a "V" starting at each end of the axle, and uniting at one of the frame members in the center of the car. The most commonly used car of all makes use of this construction. It is not, however, a very common practice, and is not really necessary in making the chassis rigid. Diagonal bracing is somewhat in the way, and all braces of any kind are likely to cause some rattling.

F. D. asks: Should both the gas and ignition levers be turned off when the engine is used as a brake?

Answer: Yes.

The bone of contention is always dug out to feed the interest will be found a seething fire.

JIMMY O'CONNELL
WEST COAST ROOKIE WHO HAS BROKEN INTO THE LINE-UP OF THE WORLD CHAMPIONS NEW YORK GIANTS
SOME THING'S WRONG WITH ME T'DAY, I CAN ONLY GET 70 YARDS WITH MY LEFT FOOT
JIMMY WAS A GREAT FOOT BALL PLAYER AND KICKER WHILE AT COLLEGE AT SANTA CLARA, CALIFORNIA
THESE FLIES IN THE EAST ARE JUST THE SAME AS WE GOT OUT WEST ONLY A LITTLE LONGER
HE'S GOTTA REACH LIKE A CRANE
JIM PLAYS IN THE FIELD FOR THE N.Y. GIANTS
O'CONNELL IS FAST AS A STREAK ON THE BASES

Jimmy O'Connell has done what few rookies could ever hope to accomplish—that is, break into a world champion club's regular line-up the first trip into the big league.

Jimmy is known as the Giants' $75,000 beauty. He was born in Sacramento, Calif., twenty-two years ago. He is Irish with hazel eyes that flash black at times, and an engaging smile that reveals several gold teeth, set into an aggressive jaw. He must weigh around 190 and stands about six feet one inch.

Jimmy began his baseball career with the Sacramento high school, then made quite a "rep" as a football player at the Jesuit College at Santa Clara, Calif., where he played at fullback; he also made the basketball team, which proved him to be a fine all-around athlete. Then he took up surveying, but six months later gave it up and joined the San Francisco Seals, at the age of nineteen. That year he was used in the outfield. The next season found him playing first and hitting the pill at a great clip. The Giants bought him in 1921 for 1923 delivery.

Jimmy is very fast and a good fielder, covers acres of ground, hits the ball hard and true and is very fast on the bases. He is a left-handed thrower and batter and hit for an average of .387 in 170 games last season. O'Connell's wing is good and he knows what to do with the ball when he gets his hand on it.

This fellow is far from a Cobb or an Eddie Roush but he has the time to find himself in his new surroundings.

It takes a heavyweight prize fight, and one that isn't much schucks at that, to bring a one-horse town out of oblivion. Honestly, did you ever hear of Shelby, Montana, before a few days ago?

Jess Willard never will fight again. He has said so. That's what they've all said.

Joe Stecher wants to know if Strangler Ed Lewis is afraid to give him another crack at the heavyweight wrestling crown. The answer can be given in just one of two very small words.

Sports writers evidently think there are two sides to the Paddock controversy in connection with his defiance of the A. A. U by competing in France. It is probable, however, that the majority believe that it would have been the best policy not to go contra to the request of the athletic governing body. At all events it is not likely to help Paddock any.

Few baseball veterans have been accorded more signal honor than that accorded to Harry Volverton, manager of the Seattle club and, for many years a credit to the national sport on the Pacific coast. Men of all walks in life, and up and down the social scale joined to do him honor. A popular subscription of not over twenty-five cents per person was taken to buy him a gift. There were more than 3000 individual subscribers.

The elimination of the Pacific Coast golfers in the British amateur championship at Deal was, naturally, a disappointment to that particular neck of the woods, but it is not likely that there were many who seriously considered that the Californians and the northwesterner climbed up the latter to a point that was eminently satisfactory to most hands. They staid in well toward the finals.

Already there are many of Babe Ruth's admirers who have thrown up their hands and admitted that he now has no chance ever of catching up on his program in order to match is home run record. With his elimination as a champion four-base clouter. Ruth merely becomes an outfielder whose part performance will be referred to from time to time.

LUST WARS UPON SOUL, IS CLAIM

John Roach Straton, Talking To Ohioans, Condemns Darwin Influence

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 25.—"The impulses of animalism and the lusts of the eyes and the flesh are warring more on the soul today than ever before," said Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York City, addressing a local audience.

"There is a reason for this wave of immorality," continued Rev. Dr. Straton. "There is a reason for man's craving to dance in a hugging match, immoral fashion. Even our magazines are being corrupted and are dripping with sex suggestion and sensualism We see the sex question emphasized in the drama of the day. High society, which is the lowest thing in America, is spreading the fashions of Paris, baring necks and shoulders, backs and fronts. Art, which certainly should be a holy thing, is reflecting forms of paganism.

Denounces Darwinism

"And it all comes from the false theory that man is a monkey. He is actually beginning to believe that he is an animal instead of a child of God. Darwinism alone is behind the new theology of the day.

"We see nothing but the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye and the vainglory of life manifesting itself in the activity of the devil. We are even living in an age when our supposed scholars are nothing but vain, self-assertive, half-baked professors who have simply absorbed the knowledge in somebody else's books.

Condemns Dancing

"American youth is being corrupted through modern dances, with animal names, that are percolating into society until they are in the schools, the homes and the churches of the land.

"In New York there are men who claim to be Christians and ministers of God sanctioning this animalism. On church calendars I read of dances, smokers and plays given in the name of religion. One of the best-known ministers in New York, who sponsored the dance and the theatre, found himself with a scandal in his choir that resulted from a dancing party. That man resigned from the ministry and is selling automobile tires. I wish every one of the men of his type would get out of the pulpits of Jesus Christ," said Rev. D. Straton.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25. — The east combined under a common cause today at the annual championship games of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. forgetting personal rivalries in the menace of another territorial invasion by the University of California, team champions of the association these last two years. A third victory at the present meeting will give the Bears permanent possession of the trophy, and the east, not exactly pleased with the prospect, will muster its strongest front in an effort to frustrate a California monopoly.

The latter, however, ruled a strong favorite to repeat at the opening of the two-day meeting this afternoon. It has come on to the games with a first-class array, featuring "Brick" Muller, football ace and all-around trackman, whose performances at the intercollegiates have been instrumental in swinging the verdict westward during the last two years.

Muller is down as a competitor in the high jump, broad jump and discus throw. He is an almost certain point-getter in all three, with the possibility imminent that he will score a first place in at least one of them.

He, however, is only one of several California stars in the field events. In fact, the Bears have massed much of their strength in the jumps and weights, just as was the case in former years. They have in Morris, the present champion, a prospective winner of the pole vault and in Sorenti a man who will do 190 feet or better with the javelin.

Pennsylvania, with Temple in the pole vault, Rose in the broad jump, Lever in the sprints and McLane in the mile, figured to furnish much of California's competition. So did Yale, with Cummins and Rusnak in the sprints, Campbell in the half mile, Douglas in the mile, Van der Pyl in the two mile and Hulman in the hurdles. Princeton, also, had a representative team, but Cornell for once seems to have gone to seed. Neither the Ithacans nor Harvard was a dangerous factor.

Only heats and trials were down on today's programme. The heats were run in both sprints, the 440 and the 880-yard runs and the high and low hurdles; the trials were held in the high and broad jumps, the shotput, the javelin, discus and pole vault. Semi-final and final events will be conducted tomorrow.

An effort will be made to improve the size of the purses at the Reno race meet which starts a twenty-five-day schedule on June 1. While it is unable to compete with some of the middle western purses, the management expects that no purse will be less than $350, which is an average of $50 betfer per race than any previous offerings.

A little later along in the summer there will be a considerable revival of those who want to swim across the English channel. A number of long distance swimmers have announced they would make the attempt and several already are in training on the ground. To the average layman one wonders what is to be gained. The feat has already been accomplished a couple of times. However, there isn't a whole lot of sense in dancing continuously for more than 100 hours, but they do it just the same.

The navy eight-oared crew at Annapolis has shown that it is little less formidable than the crews of the last two years, and it is likely to be the favorite again at the Poughkeepsie regatta. The University of Washington crew earlier in the season figured the midshipmen would be easier than in 1922 and 1921 and thus would give them a better opportunity to gain first honors. Just now it looks as if the Washingtonians would have their hands full. Or is it the middies?

Strange to relate, there have been no stories of wonderful finds emanate as yet from the various spring football preliminary training camps. It usually is the vogue for readers of the sports pages to learn of marvelous kickers of 100-yard punts and guards and tackles who would make Sandow look like a babe in the cradle as far as strength is concerned. Perhaps it still is a little too early.

Bill Johnston, the tennis player, now over in France, is making a late start, as usual, getting into form, so his friends are not worried about how he will end up when the crucial tests come about. Last season Johnston got into his stride probably sooner than at any time in his career on the courts. Whether or not his long trip will affect him remains to be seen. It did not make Tilden's game suffer to any appreciable extent when he played in Europe a couple of years ago, but Johnston has not the strength of Tilden.

British Heavyweight Joins Dempsey Staff

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 25. Harry Drake, English heavyweight, who knocked out Joe McCann at the Milk Fund show in New York, went up against Champion Jack Dempsey for the first time Thursday at the training camp in Great Falls park. Dempsey also took on Jack Burke, the Pittsburgh, heavyweight, and George Godfrey, husky negro. All three were ready to cry quits after the first round, but they were forced to undergo a severe mauling for two rounds each.

The "free gate" at the training quarters here is being taken advantage of by hundreds daily, who watch Dempsey in his preliminary workouts at rope skipping, shadow boxing and mixing with his sparring partners.

Dempsey declared he was in fine fettle and expected to lay off boxing next week, as he did not want to go stale before the big battle at Shelby on July 4.

Manager Kearns arrived back in Great Falls from Shelby with the announcement that if eastern arrangements for a Dempsey-Wills fight on Labor day were not satisfactory, such a bout might be held in Montana, possibly at the Great Falls baseball park. Dan Tracy, Great Falls mining man and chairman of the Cascade county boxing commission, said today he would make Mike Collins an offer to promote a Wills-Dempsey fight here.

Bill Hart Cleared of Blame in Woman's Suit

"I would like to say something," Hart said, "but the matter is entirely in the hands of my lawyer, James H. Scarborough."

Hart said he planned to see his attorney as soon as possible..

"Then I hope to be able to say something," he added.

MEXICO SEEKS FRIENDS CONSUL TELLS ROTARY

80,000 Schools Established in Rural Districts By Obregon Regime, Local Club Learns; Committee Reports Heard

"MEXICO may need the iron hand—maybe not so much as in Herrin county, Illinois.

"We may need money, but not so much as France or Germany.

"We may need schools, but we have established 80,000 in the last three years in our rural districts.

"And some may think Mexico needs religion—possibly as bad as the United States does.

"Yet all we are asking is your friendship. We want to show you we are ready to accept your love, with love."

That in substance was the plea made before Glendale's Rotary club yesterday afternoon by Senor Garza Leal, Mexican consul to Los Angeles, who was the speaner of the day.

People Still Primitive

"We are still primitive in Mexico," the speaker added, "for we do not pretend to love our enemies. But we do love our friends even unto death."

It has been Senor Leal's life doctrine that the United States and Mexico should be friends. He pointed out how the United States had sent a statue to the Brazilian exposition assuring the Latin American countries of this nation's friendship. This he followed by an analogy that it is more easy to be friendly with people twenty blocks away than with your next door neighbor. Such is the United States position with Mexico at times.

Senor Leal was sure everyone knows Mexico's faults, so he spoke of only the good things. He desires that the great middle class of the two countries consider each other as friends and develop friendly relations. His appeal was characterized as a true Rotary speech by President George Karr of the local club.

W. E. Hewitt introduced the visitor and recounted the accomplishments of the Obregon administration. The Glendale Laundry manager was present at the inauguration of the president of the southern republic.

Club to Continue Project

Roy L. Kent, a member of the committee on the Rotary's project for the Boy Scouts in Haynes canyon, announced that the good work of J. G. (Jack) Huntley would be carried to completion while that member recuperates from injuries received while riding horseback in the pretty mountain scene of Rotary activity about a week ago. Approximately $5,000 has been raised for the purchase of the land, valued at $8,000.

Preston Hatch, general manager of the Glendale and Montrose railway lines, was initiated into Rotary, although he has been elected for some weeks. Gil A. Cowan of The Evening News staff was welcomed home.

Dr. C. A. Noble, representing the university in high school inspection, was introduced by Principal George U. Moyse of Glendale Union High, and William A. Howe of The Glendale theatre introduced Mr. Ready, special representative of Harold Lloyd.

Visitors in Attendance

Visiting Rotarians included Bill Kilgore and G. D. Prucer Shimmiri of Los Angeles, Y. Waldrop of Tempe, Ariz., and James Pendleton of San Diego.

Several committee reports were heard, including that by Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, as to how the Rotary club here could help crippled children in getting an education as well as corrective surgery. Great interest was evinced in the latter in view of the wonderful work being done by Rotary all over the world in rehabilitating youngsters who haven't had a chance.

Attempts to Locate Lost Meteorite Fail

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 25.—Efforts to locate the lost meteorite in Meteor Mountain, in Coconino county, 100 miles north of here, have been resumed, according to announcement here by the State Tax commission.

Preparations are being made by the company owning the mining claims surrounding the cavity made by the falling meteor to sink a shaft 500 feet south of the cavity in an attempt to find the mass of metal which is believed to be in the cavity. The date on which the meteor fell is unknown, but it is thought that it fell just about the time that the now famous tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen was opened.

The hole made by the falling meteor is said to be about 4,400 feet in diameter and 700 to 1000 feet deep, and it is believed that several thousand tons of metal containing platinum, nickel and other precious metals remain somewhere near the hole. The composition of the metal in the meteor has been determined by assays made of fragments of the meteor picked up on the side of the hole and scattered on the surface of the ground near the hole.

From a distance the hole cannot be seen, but after one climbs an incline the hole opens abruptly to view. Efforts to find the meteorites have been made at frequent intervals for many years, but drillings made to the bottom of the hole have failed to reveal it.

BIG GRAVEL PITS TO BE DEVELOPED

Eagle Rock Men Secure Property and Plan to Haul Product

Two lots have been sold on the outskirts of Montrose to men who intend to develop them as gravel pits. One was taken by Mr. Bramble of Eagle Rock, and the other was sold to Mercer & McKay, also of Eagle Rock, the latter taking an acre of ground adjoining that of Mr. Bramble's.

Mr. Bramble has a contract with the city of Eagle Rock, now a part of Los Angeles, for considerable gravel hauling, according to Mr. Clark of Green & Clark, who made the sales.

Mercer & McKay are going to purchase trucks for this work and will begin in the near future.

Mr. Clark reports several real estate deals and that there is no dearth of cash for these deals. Mr. Hill of Los Angeles, recently purchased the corner at Glenada and Ocean View and intimated that he intended to build on it soon, but did not state any definite plans.

A building is being completed at the corner of Honolulu and Ocean View for Mr. Sanderson. He will lease part of the building for store rooms and will put in a first class battery service station in one side.

Preparing for Cafe

The counter and seats for the booths are being installed at George's Place, the new location in the Belanger block at Honolulu and Ocean View. The new location will be called the Blue Bird Cafe, and will be ready for business about June 16.

There will be five booths and with the service counter the seating capacity will accommodate about fifty persons.

Belanger's Pharmacy, in the same block, is being finished and will be ready about the same time. The plate glass windows are in place and the interior is being finished, preparatory to installing the fixtures.

There will be a new service station at the corner of Montrose avenue and Sunset Drive for the convenience of commuters, in the near future. The Lowe Building company is erecting a large station on the southeast corner that will carry a full line of oils and greases.

UNDER CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Daughter Of Tammany Ruler Accuses Widow

Mrs. Ethel Croker White, of Cedarhurst, New York, daughter of the late Richard Croker, for many years leader of Tammany Hall in New York, has been permitted by the Irish courts in Dublin to interpose and become party to the suit brought by her brothers and sisters to break the will of their father, leaving several million dollars to his second wife, Beulah Benton Edmondson Croker, and cutting off his children. Croker, whose first wife, Miss Elizabeth Frazier, whom he married in 1873, died, immediately married Miss Edmondson, a Cherokee Indian princess. In her fight to break her father's will, Mrs. White alleges that at the time of her marriage to Croker, Miss Edmondson was the undivorced wife of Guy Morone, of Northport, Massachusetts, and that Croker was ignorant of that fact. Croker spent the last years of his life in Ireland, where he died and was buried. He had long been estranged from all his children.

WOMEN SEEKING TO EXPRESS SELF

Modern Kind Object to Being 'Sex Parasite,' Says Topeka Speaker

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 25.—"Every modern woman objects to being a sex parasite," said Miss Emma D. Partridge, Topeka, Kan., addressing an audience here. "She has a burning desire to find herself. God intended we should marry and have a home, but women in business have become adjusted to circumstances to such an extent they are able to work out self-expression in other lines than wifehood and motherhood.

"There are three kinds of women, classified according to the way in which they play the game of life. Members of one group play with careless abandon, the second with consideration for the audience, and the third with a fair and square desire to help others," continued Miss Partridge.

Good Legislation

"Much good legislation has been accomplished since women have been in business. Women employers have created a better status for girls in business. Men criticize us because we do not have what they call 'honesty of purpose,' quoting as an example the instances in which office girls are absent frequently without excuse. Modern women employers have helped the girls to understand their obligations.

"A 'man's man' is the kind of man we admire, and a 'woman's woman' should be the same kind. It has been said the latter is the woman to whom another can trust her secrets, her powder rag and her husband. A man looks into a woman's eyes and a woman looks into a man's eyes, and they fall in love blindly; but a man looks at a man and a woman looks at a woman with eyes wide open. The woman who has the love of other women is the one who is worthy of it."

The convention will continue for a week, to be known as "Prosperity Week," according to the announcement by those in charge of arrangements.

The convention will be under the auspices of the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce of the United States, with headquarters here. Hundreds of delegates are expected to attend.

Shrunken Sox Starts Domestic Tangle

WORCESTER, Mass., May 25.—The domestic happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Brule was shattered just because hubby's pet cashmere socks shrunk when wifey washed them, according to the story of the wife in asking separate support.

Mrs. Brule declared that after the socks shrunk her husband hit her and called her names in front of their two children. Hubby countered with the charge his wife had been too familiar with a Worcester real estate agent.

The judge found the couple were not living apart for any justifiable cause. But he gave the wife and children an order for the husband to pay $6 a week for their support.

English 'Hero Homes' Are Shy on Parlors

LONDON, May 25.—Great Britain's housing problems are great. Lloyd George toward the close of the war ventured into a campaign of national home building and promised to build government homes "fit for heroes to live in."

The promise has been difficult to fulfill. The government is building homes, but they don't suit the heroes.

First the heroes' wives protested because there were no parlors in the homes. The government conceded parlors, but now all over England one hears this popular refrain:

"Will you come into my parlor?"
Said the spider to the fly.
"I ain'ts no blinking acrobat,"
Was her indignant reply.

ENGLAND TESTS OUT NEW PLANE

Experimental Machines Are Near Completion; to Be Tried at Early Date

By F. A. WRAY
For International News Service

LONDON, May 25.—The British air ministry is experimenting with a new type of postal aircraft for high-speed mail carrying over long distances.

Two purely experimental machines are now about complete and awaiting tests. These machines differ from previous types by having the engine housed in a central engine room, built into the fuselage, with room for attendant engineers to repair the engines in the course of a flight.

The first of these machines to be built is a triplane and is known as The Possum. It has a single 450-horsepower Napier Lion engine, driving two air-screws, one on each side of the fuselage. Its tests are in the hands of Norman Macmillan, who is shortly to attempt a round-the-world flight.

Second Machine

The second machine, called the Bidmin, is now being finally erected at Norwich aerdrome. It is on a far more ambitious scale than The Possum.

In its central engine room it has two Napier Lion engines, each driving two air-screws, making four in all. The machine can be kept in flight by either engine, although both are required to take it into the air.

Thus, if trouble occurs to either engine while in flight, the machine can carry on at reduced speed while the other Napier is being repaired.

It is considered that the ideal postal machine will have three engines and will fly normally on two. This type is being investigated for the big trunk mail line from London to India and Australia.

FORCED TO SWIM TO GAIN FREEDOM

Smuggled Aliens Told to Pay Extra Fee for Landing Or 'Take' Water

TAMPA, Fla., May 25.—After having paid $100 to the captain of the schooner Eola to bring them from Cuba to the Florida coast, twenty-three Italian aliens being smuggled into the United States were filled with dismay when they were informed that an extra charge of $10 each would be made against each one if they were to be landed in small boats. This information was given them when they were off the coast near St. Petersburg.

As a result ten of the immigrants swam half a mile to shallow water and waded the remainder of the way. The others accepted the captain's offer and were brought ashore in small boats. All of the aliens fell into the hands of the sheriff and his deputies. Likewise the schooner was captured and seized.

It is said that captains of smuggling craft such as this one frequently bleed their victims by making extra charges for landing, and if the victims refuse to pay the extra charge they are landed at inaccessible points, where they suffer hunger and exposure before they are able to make their way to cities and towns.

SYRACUSE LIFTS BAN ON BATHERS

Sky's Limit for Women or Men; One-Piece Suit O. K. If Desired

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 25.—Decency is the only limit on bathing suits in Syracuse this year.

"Wear what you want to," says Thomas O'Brien, secretary to the Planning Parks and Recreation Commission, which controls all city swimming pools.

Women, and men, too, for that matter, can romp to their hearts content around Syracuse water holes without fear of being molested by over-zealous park policemen, he says.

Stockings or no stockings which ever happens to be pleasing to "milady," will be in order.

Shoes will not be prohibited in the pools either. They can even wear hats if it will give them any pleasure, he says.

More than $185,000,000 was expended in additions to the plant of the Bell System during the year 1922.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEES READY TO GREET GUESTS

Reception at Chamber of Commerce Precedes Parade and Opening Ceremonies at Grounds of Exposition

INVITED guests of Glendale's Industrial Exposition will be treated to a royal reception this evening in the local Chamber of Commerce, where they are to be greeted by approximately fifty citizens of Glendale, each one intent on extending the hospitality of the city.

After welcomes are extended, the visiting notables are to be driven in automobiles, led by a brass band, to the gates of the exposition. There they will be conducted to the speakers' stand in the center of the vast tent, where the formal opening and dedication ceremonies are to be held.

Informality will reign at the reception in the Chamber of Commerce, according to an announcement made today by L. H. Wilson, head of the exposition's reception committee. Mr. Wilson declares that, inasmuch as the event is congratulatory in nature, the true spirit of good fellowship will prevail, with an utter absence of any element which might create an overly dignified or strained atmosphere.

Supporting Mr. Wilson in his work of welcoming the city's guests will be the city council, directors, officers and committeemen of the Chamber of Commerce, and officers and directors of the Glendale Merchants' Association. All have been notified to meet at the Chamber of Commerce hall some minutes before 8 p. m., the hour set for the city's guests to arrive.

Care for Visitors

As each mayor, business organization's representative or other notable arrives, Mr. Wilson will detail one or more of his committeemen to attend that particular guest throughout the balance of the evening.

Gayety will be added to the occasion by a rousing welcome to be blared by the local Elks' band, which is to be detailed at 8 p. m to lead the procession of automobiles from the Chamber of Commerce to the exposition grounds on North Brand boulevard. Should the visitors express a desire to see Glendale's downtown section, it was said by Mr. Wilson that committeemen will conduct them on a tour, before the procession is formed.

Notices were served yesterday on Mr. Wilson's group of committeemen that the time for meeting at the Chamber of Commerce had been switched from 6:30 to 8 p. m. This decision was reached when it was learned that the latter hour would be more suitable for the city's guests, as they would be allowed time to arrive here after closing their offices at the usual hour. It also was pointed out that a larger crowd would have assembled in the exposition tent by 8:30, the hour now set for the formal opening. Gates for general admittance, however, will be opened at 7 p. m.

An increasing realization of the importance of the reception committee's duties dawned today when it became known that scores of city officials and business men had responded to the city's invitation to assist in the dedication of the exposition.

Accordingly, Mr. Wilson declared, it will be imperative for every man on his committee to report promptly on time.

Autos Are Needed

At the same time, he emphasized the need for automobiles. These cars are to be furnished by Chamber of Commerce and Glendale Merchants' Association men. It was said that if all members of the committee arrived in their motor vehicles, there would be no shortage of transportation facilities.

The personnel of the reception committee, as announced by Chamber of Commerce heads, is to be as follows:

Mayor Spencer Robinson and W. A. Horn, Asa Hall, C. E. Kimlin and S. A. Davis of the City Council.

Owen C. Emery, Walter P. Potter, H. M. Butts, H. S. Webb and Frank H. Pilling of the Glendale Merchants' Association.

200 ATTRACTIONS, 1000 WORKERS IN $1,000,000 SHOW

APPROXIMATELY 200 separate attractions in the way of exhibits, shows, demonstrations, etc., will be found at Glendale's Industrial Exposition.

Not less than 1000 people were employed in arranging this great aggregation of education and entertainment. It represents a cash outlay of no less than $50,000 and that is a conservative figure.

Were John Ringling, or some other circus magnate to "buy the show" as it stands it would take a cool million of dollars and include everything from lions to fat ladies.

Indeed, it is a lavish outlay for Glendale—a feat for which this city may well feel proud, according to those who have had a preview of the exposition on the eve of its opening.

H. L. LEAVITT IS GENIUS OF SHOW

Success of Exposition Is Due To Labors of Veteran Showman

Behind every project that is worked out to a successful conclusion there is always some individual who first sees the vision of the final accomplishment, who furnishes the driving power and the executive ability that are essentials to making the project evolve from a vision to a reality, and in the Glendale Industrial Exposition that opens tonight the guiding spirit, the man whose vision and energy have made it possible, is the director general, H. L. Leavitt, who has worked incessantly for the past four months to insure the success of the exposition.

No man acquires the ability or the experience to handle a contract of this size without first going through a training that may be more or less prolonged, that may be beset with difficulties and obstacles, but whose very difficulties are the text books from which he learns the lessons that make

SOUTHLAND CITIES TO SEND BIG DELEGATIONS

Hon. Mattison B. Jones Will Introduce Guests At Formal Opening of Glendale Industrial Exposition

WELL wishes and hearty congratulations of scores of cities, communities and representative groups of southern California business men will be conferred on Glendale in no uncertain terms, at 8:30 tonight, when the Glendale Industrial Exposition formally is launched on its triumphant way. Indicating a spirit of co-operation with an admiration for the city of Glendale, numerous communications were received at exposition headquarters yesterday insuring that the writers will lend their presence to the impressiveness of the event.

These communications were signed by mayors, heads of Chambers of Commerce and business men's associations, and by other prominent persons in Southern California's public life.

With the assurance that Los Angeles will be whole heartedly represented, Mayor George F. Cryer, of that city, has appointed Deputy District Attorney Raymond I. Turney to extend greetings of the greater metropolis.

Jones Will Preside

Mr. Turney and other guests of the exposition will be officially introduced to the throngs under the giant canvas on North Brand boulevard by Hon. Mattison B. Jones, Glendale's Democratic nominee for governor.

The introductions are to take place promptly on time, exposition officials have ruled. Mr. Jones will be introduced and officially appointed to the task of honor by Lt. Col. James W. Everington, executive secretary of the big event.

A ruling of the executive secretary is that the talks shall be "short and snappy." By speeding up the talks, Col. Everington expects that a large number of speakers may be introduced and their remarks enlivened by brevity.

In proof of the interest generated by Col. Everington's invitations to participate in the formal opening, mayors of Santa Monica, San Fernando, Alhambra and many other nearby cities have added their assurances that they will be present in person or by official proxy.

John B. Fredericks, congressman-elect and former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Wiggins, secretary of the same chamber, have sent word they will extend greetings of Los Angeles manufacturers and business men.

So many Southern California dignitaries have indicated their intention of participating in the formal opening, that fear was expressed among exposition directors that it may be impossible to find time to allow all a fair opportunity to be heard.

Horn May Substitute

Glendale's own representative at the opening may be Mayor Spencer Robinson, or it may be Councilman W. A. Horn, who has been asked to appear in that capacity if Mayor Robinson is too ill to attend. Some doubt was expressed at the city hall today as to whether the mayor will recover from a slight illness in time to address the exposition throng.

A reception is to be extended to Glendale's guests at 8 o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce building. These guests will be massed in the chamber's room preparatory for a triumphal entrance to the exposition zone. Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and Glendale Merchants association and heads of committees of the former organization have been appointed as a committee to welcome the out-of-town notables, with L. H. Wilson to act as reception chairman.

The plan to stage the reception in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 8 p. m. instead of 6:30, as previously announced, was arrived at yesterday in a conference between Executive Secretary Everington and Director General H. L Leavitt.

It was pointed out that, as the gates open to the public at 7 o'clock, one hour should be allowed for crowds to assemble before the formal opening is celebrated. By this means, it was explained that a record breaking assemblage may be anticipated when Everington introduces the master of ceremonies.

To announce this alteration of plans Joseph Geisler, assistant to the executive secretary, today telephoned each invited guest. The change met with approval, it was said, as the officials indicated a strong preference for a later hour.

Following the dedication of the exposition, which, it was explained, would consume considerably less than an hour, the regular musical and fashion show, which is to be a twice-a-night feature, will be staged, according to an announcement by the director general.

Auto Dealers Provide Visitors' Rest Room

Plans have been made by the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association to furnish a booth at the exposition where visitors may rest during the day and evening, and where they may make their arrangements to meet their friends. A rest room for ladies has been provided and every convenience for the comfort of the exposition patrons has been made by the association, which has placed Harry Kennedy, sales manager for Geo. T. Smith, Willys-Knight and Overland distributor, in charge of the booth.

Those who desire to loaf for a while, may find here comfortable chairs, with lots of reading matter pertaining to the automobile industry to help while away the time.

The action of the association has been warmly commended by many of those who plan to make an extended stay at the exposition and who will require some place where they may enjoy a brief period of rest.

LARGEST TENT IN WORLD USED BY EXPOSITION HERE

THE Glendale Industrial Exposition is housed in what might be rightfully termed the "largest tent in the world." This is only natural for a show being staged in the "fastest growing city in America."

Sixteen centerpoles carry the canvas over an entire city block's length, the exposition actually occupying two average city blocks. It is located on broad Brand boulevard, the main entrance being close to Lexington drive.

The exposition represents six months of effort on the part of its promoters. Nothing in Los Angeles or San Francisco or eastern centers has been more carefully planned and for a "local affair" it outdoes the fondest hopes and expectations.

Simply stated, "It is some stunt."

RADIO MESSAGES TO BE RECEIVED

Electrical Equipment Will Be Shown in Newton Co.'s Display

Noteworthy for its plans to receive radio messages and melodies at its booth, the J. A. Newton Electric Co., at the Glendale Industrial Exposition, will introduce a wide variety of household helps and modern home electrical equipment.

By means of Radio America Corporation equipment, consisting of amplifier and loud speaker, the best of the music in the air each afternoon and evening will be brought into the giant exposition tent. The radio division of the Newton booth is to be presided over by Pearson Taylor, local expert on wireless subjects.

Other lines from the Newton stock, to be introduced, will be:

Royal vacuum cleaners, Dawn clothes washer which fits within the ordinary washtub, Garland gas ranges and Westinghouse motors. The latter are to range in size from ten horsepower down to one-twelfth horsepower. W. S. Hunter is another salesman from the Newton organization detailed by J. A. Newton to assist in presenting the modern equipment to the public.

COURAGE, VISION SHOWN IN EXPOSITION PROJECT

Reveals Faith in City's Future Held by Commercial Interests Backing Huge Industrial Display

By RALPH A. LYND
Of The Evening News Staff

THUMBING rapidly over the pages of history one finds accounts of various social affairs and celebrations that stand out above the common run of contemporary events and that help to fix the dates that have marked the turning points of the world. Back in ancient Babylon King Belshazzar achieved a reputation as a host that promised to stand unrivaled when he staged his big feast, and everything was rocking along splendidly and in the strictest accordance with established precedent until the ghostly writing appeared on the wall and the guests began making their exits through the windows without waiting to get their wraps from the hat check bandits of that day and age. The sound of revelry that attended the ball on the eve of the battle of Waterloo has echoed down the corridors of time for more than a century, and the Irish still tell, in song and story, of the jubilation that formed a part of The Wake of Tim O'Hara.

But these events will, it is predicted, pale into insignificance alongside the ten days' celebration attendant on Glendale's Industrial Exposition that opens tonight with speeches of welcome, records of Glendale's accomplishments and predictions of the glowing future that lies immediately ahead of the Fastest Growing City in America, when the dignitaries of many neighboring towns assemble to pay their tribute to Glendale's progressive spirit and to enjoy the hospitality of her citizens.

Faith In Future

The Glendale Industrial Exposition is more, much more, than a mere display of merchandise carried by local firms or of the business activities of Glendale's commercial community. It is a concrete expression of the faith that the people of Glendale have in their city, when they undertake to stage an exposition of this nature in the largest tent that has ever been erected in the United States, when a city of 40,000 inhabitants lying close to the metropolis of California, and surrounded on every side by other cities animated by the spirit of progress, many of them the homes of pageants and exhibitions strengthened by years of successful operation, shows the courage and the vision to present to the world a display of civic enterprise such as is embodied in this exposition and to give expression to the ambitions that animate her in the march toward her well-defined goal, not only to the thousands of visitors who will throng the city during the ten days the exposition will last, but also to those of her own citizens who have not yet entirely realized to the full just what Glendale has done and intends to do in the future.

The commercial importance of the exposition to Glendale cannot be overrated, and the merchants who are displaying their wares in the big tent will spread the fame of the city through the various commercial communities of the west and will do their share toward turning a large part of the coming flood of new settlers to this city, so that the first result of the exposition will be, it is predicted, an influx of new citizens here that will materially swell the population of the city and that will still further assist in the development of Southern California.

The Lighter Side

But the serious side of the exposition will not monopolize the attention of either the visitors or the home folks. The amusement features that have been provided are guaranteed to furnish relaxation, entertainment and amusement for the children and the grown folks, and the variety that will be on tap throughout the ten days will give everyone a chance to pick out his or her own particular form of amusement at any hour of the day or night.

SANITARY NEEDS ARE EMPHASIZED

Plumbing Display Is Built to Show Benefits of Modern Methods

The latest ideas in modern sanitary plumbing have been incorporated in the exhibit of the Jewel City Plumbing company, 526 East Broadway, whose display has been built around one central plan, that of showing the important part that the plumbing of a home bears to the maintenance of the health of the occupants. Modern sanitation is a vital need in every city if epidemics are to be avoided, according to F. R. Bruner, a member of the firm, and it is to show the relation of good plumbing to the preservation of the health of the community that the exhibit has been built along the lines that have been followed here.

The firm has installed a modern bathroom, fully equipped with hot and cold water, and with showers, where the latest types of fixtures are being shown, and provisions have been made to carry off the water that has been piped to the booth and that will be running constantly during the exposition. The water in the bathroom is heated by a Federal Thermos storage automatic heater and boiler, and an extra large-sized heater of this type, suitable for use in apartment houses, is also shown as part of the exhibit.

Drinking water for exposition visitors is furnished by the sanitary angle stream drinking fountains that have been installed, and that are constructed in such a manner that it is impossible for drinkers to touch the fountain with their lips, thus avoiding any contamination that might exist by reason of promiscuous drinking by a large number of people.

The Jewel City Plumbing company is building up its steadily growing trade on the basis of quality merchandise and conscientious work, and the three partners, L. A. Richards, F. R. Bruner and G. L. Berryman, have been identified with the business life of Glendale for the past two years, during which time the merits of their work and their materials have grown in favor with those builders who seek to incorporate in their structures the best obtainable in plumbing. The firm carries in stock the famous Mueller brass goods, which are admitted to be the standard of the world, and Mueller fixtures have been used in the model drainboard that has been made a part of the exhibit, with the Mueller double mixing faucet, which permits the temperature of the water to be adjusted to the required degree through a faucet.

The plumbing in the Good Housekeeping booth has been installed by the Jewel City Plumbing company, and literature dealing with modern bathrooms and kitchens is distributed at the Jewel City booth, where a special appeal is made to the housewives of Glendale, showing them how modern fixtures not only insure a higher degree of health but lighten the work of the home.

SHOWS INTERIOR OF STUCCO HOME

Materials Best Adapted to California Buildings Are Demonstrated

Featuring building material said to be adapted particularly for this region, the General Construction Company's exhibit at the Glendale Industrial Exposition promises to be a revelation in the application of stucco and hollow tile.

The exhibit has been designed to reproduce faithfully the interior of a stucco house. Through a window in the dim distance will be seen the exterior of a similar residence, done in old Spanish architecture.

Artists' and architects' sketches of residences, apartment houses office buildings and other edifices recently designed and finished by the construction company will dot the walls of the stucco room.

Throughout the exhibit is to be emphasized the statement of the construction company's officials that stucco and tile are the building materials best adapted to this region. According to Harry C. Yale, secretary and treasurer of the company, these materials are particularly favorable for use here in preference to frame construction, which he declares is most suited to the northeast or heavily timbered sections.

The architects' sketches are by William Bray and other engineers connected with the construction company.

FURNITURE WILL CHALLENGE EAST

Specially Manufactured for Exposition, Will Go To Other Shows

Furniture manufactured in Southern California will be put in direct comparison with that turned out by eastern states, when the New England Furniture Company opens its display at the Glendale Industrial Exposition, according to announcement by representatives of the company.

The Southern California furniture is being especially made for the occasion by a Los Angeles factory. After serving in the exhibit at the Glendale exposition, this same furniture, it is declared, will be put on exhibition in San Francisco and later in Grand Rapids, the eastern furniture manufacturing center.

Representatives of the New England Furniture Company, which but recently has opened its Glendale branch on South Brand boulevard, will meet local householders with a view to introducing their handsome upholstered and wicker lines to this city.

BRICK FIRM HAS STRIKING BOOTH

Largest Plant in World Has Capacity of 750,000 In Days' Run

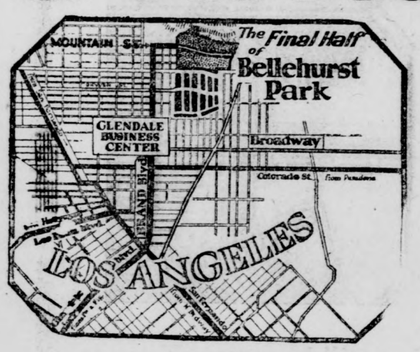
Representative of the progress recently made in brick and tile construction, the Simons Brick Company, of Los Angeles, will have a pretentious display at Glendale's Industrial Exposition.

Particularly emphasized by this firm is the claim that it operates the largest common brick plant in the world. Coupled with this announcement, is the statement that three-quarters of a million brick are manufactured in this plant every day, by a force, the monthly payroll of which averages $70,000.

Various sorts of roofing tile designed and manufactured by the Simons Brick company also will be in the firm's exhibition, while hollow building tile also is to be featured. Personal representatives of the organization will lend their advice to builders and otherwise demonstrate the qualities of the company's output.

Beautiful

Bellehurst Park



Hour by hour—day by day—YOUR OPPORTUNITY to get a choice location in this unique and matchless property is VANISHING AWAY.

And when it is GONE, as it surely will be—and that SOON—where can you find ANYTHING LIKE IT in all Southern California?

Where can you find elevated, level, fertile, at-the-base-of-the-mountains property covered with wonderful old shade trees and 20-year-old orange and olive groves?

Where can you find such property FIVE MINUTES from the center of a 40,000 city like Glendale, growing with wildfire rapidity, doubling in population in TWO YEARS' TIME? Where can you find such NATURAL wonder features COMBINED with carefully worked out protective restrictions—a combination that is destined to make this Southern California's "finest residential park"?

Where can you find a safer and quicker-profit investment than in this edge-of-the-mountains property, CLOSER in time than Hollywood or Beverly; even more beautiful, at ONE-THIRD the price—NOW? (Lots of FLAT land; ONLY A LITTLE elevated land, like this!)

Where can you find any better transportation—any finer surroundings—any more attractive schools, churches, business centers, than RIGHT HERE, all around this wonderful 200-acre old estate in the HEART of Glendale?

Is it surprising, considering the sensational desirability of this property that "it's just melting away"—sales approaching a million and a half—and the rush still on?

Remember, beautiful spacious restricted sites as low as $1800 on easy terms.

This Is the Best Way to Bellehurst Park

BY AUTOMOBILE—Drive to Glendale via Los Feliz Boulevard, Glendale Boulevard, San Fernando Road or Colorado Boulevard until you reach Glendale's principal street, Brand Boulevard. TREAT GARMENTS IN MODEL LAUNDRY

Will Demonstrate Latest Washing Machinery At Exposition

Bring your laundry to the exposition.

That is the invitation issued by Good Housekeeping Shops, which notifies the public that a model laundry will be in operation under its auspices at the Glendale Industrial show.

In addition to the laundry, Housekeeping Shops plans to have a model kitchen demonstrated by Mrs. Virginia O Neill. Dave Larkin is to be in charge of the laundry. He declares that he wants everyone in Glendale to bring not less than one pair of socks—and preferably a much more extensive wash—in order that he may prove the efficiency of the shops' line of model home laundry apparatus.

Another feature of the Housekeeping Shops' contribution to the show will be a drawing in which a $110 gas range will be won by the holder of a lucky number. The award is to be made on the final day of the exhibition.

Al Seiser, another Glendale man, will participate in demonstrations of the shops' products, while Jack Callahan and B. A. Coyle of Los Angeles will expound the merits of electric cooking utensils and kitchen aids.

DEALS DEATH TO DIRT AND VERMIN

Insecticide and Cleanser Made in Glendale Will Be Exhibited

Dirt and insects of varied sorts are hereby warned.

If either venture within the Glendale Industrial Exposition their fates will be disastrous. For the booth of the Mystic Manufacturing Company, makers of Triple X cleanser and Double X insecticide, is ready to declare them legitimate prey.

Both products, which are manufactured in Glendale, are to be displayed in their several containers. Interest attaches itself to the Triple X cleanser for this will be the first time this commodity has been generally introduced to the public.

Decorations in natural greens will be furnished for the cleanser and insecticide booth by the Downing & Cox nursery. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Downing will be in attendance each evening. Mr. Downing is the discoverer of the formula for the cleanser, which he says contains many ingredients used in manufacturing the insect exterminator.

TWELVE UNITS OF TRACT ARE SOLD

Hamlin & Hepburn to Open Three New Tracts in Near Future

Depicting their recent quick sales in several of Glendale's nearby subdivisions, Hamlin & Hepburn, realtors, have prepared a booth at Glendale's Industrial Exposition, which not only shows the speed with which the property was disposed of, but also introduces other tracts which the concern now has on its lists.

According to placards in the Hamlin & Hepburn booth, 12 units of the Fairview tract of 700 lots have been sold to home builders and investors. The 14th unit of Fairview is about to be offered, it is announced, while two other new sub-divisions, Edgemont Park and Castle Heights, are shortly to be opened.

Another tract reecntly sold by Hamlin & Hepburn, according to exposition announcements, was the Sunset Grove area. Salesmen, detailed to the booth, aresaid to be particularly enthusiastic about the rapidity with which this tract was snapped up by the buyers.

A royal reception is to be extended all purchasers of real estate from the Hamlin & Hepburn organization, when these buyers call at the realty concern's display under the exposition tent, it is announced. Hamlin & Hepburn assert that they wish their customers to make the booth a headquarters and rendezvous during the exposition period.

Marie Oliver Is Backed by Host of Friends for Coveted Honor

Enthusiasm of the Shrine Club to elect Miss Marie Oliver queen of Glendale's Industrial Exposition has proven widely contagious among Glendalians, and Miss Oliver is recognized as the most popular candidate for the royal honor. With good friends in all local organizations, Miss Oliver is receiving hearty backing, and her friends predict that she will lead the field by a safe margin when the final count is made.

Miss Oliver is justly deserving of the support of all Glendalians, for she is a young woman of charm and talent, admirably fitted to preside with queenly grace over the big municipal event.

Possessed of brilliant musical talent and dramatic ability, appearing before the public is not a new experience to Miss Oliver. During her attendance at the Glendale Union High school she was a favorite in musical and dramatic events. Since her graduation she has continued her music study at the University of Southern California and her countless friends are congratulating her on her debut into Southern California musical affairs, Friday night, June 22, when her teacher, John Smallman, will present her in a recital at the Los Angeles Ebell Club.

Miss Oliver, in addition to having a wonderfully pleasing soprano voice, is also a promising pianist. Her interests of study lie along these two lines and her devoted study and hours of practice are reflected in her accomplishments.

Personal charm and poise are other attributes of the personality of this popular candidate, who is destined for a record vote before the contest closes.

CREAM IS BASIS OF BUTTERMILK

New Product Cultured from 2 Per Cent Butterfat Milk by Creamery

A special feature of the exhibit that is being shown by the Glendale Creamery Company, 755 West Doran street, is the cream buttermilk that the firm is now delivering to its many customers in and around Glendale. The cream buttermilk differs radically from the usual buttermilk in that it is cultured from two per cent butterfat milk, instead of being churned from skim milk from which all the butterfat has been separated. The demand for this cream buttermilk has leaped to enormous proportions since it was first introduced, and promises to tax the firm's capacity to the utmost.

During the past year the Glendale Creamery Company has won five first prizes for its Ideal Certified Milk, and scores showing the quality of this milk are on exhibition in the booth at the exposition. Pictures of the wagons and the modern dairy equipment in use at the plant complete the display, and visitors to the booth are given a metal cap lifter as an advertisement for the Glendale Creamery Company's products.

Smith MacMullin is in charge of the exhibit and explains fully to the visitors the methods by which milk is prepared for delivery to the firm's many customers, and the manner in which it is kept pure and clean, so as to insure its reaching the user in absolutely perfect condition, as the firm realizes that on the purity of this most important article of human food rests the good health and the well-being of thousands of people.

Fleet Maneuvers Will Cover Immense Area

WASHINGTON, May 25.—War games of the American fleet in the winter of 1925 will be staged off Hawaii, with the attacking squadrons swooping down from Alaska, it was learned at the navy department today. This decision will be in line with the department's policy of alternating its cruising and battle performances between the eastern and western sides of the country. The next winter war games will be staged off Culebra island, fifty miles east of Porto Rico, in the Caribbean sea.

In view of the fact that the navy air service is fast expanding, and the new battle cruisers and submarines will be in commission when the spectacle is presented off Hawaii, the sight should be the most thrilling of its kind ever witnessed.

The games will demonstrate just how vulnerable the islands may be—a test that never has been undertaken.

Jackie Coogan Films Barred From Austria

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Little boys in the movies mustn't throw stones—if they expect their pictures to be shown to other little boys and girls in Austria.

Thus the American film, "The Kid," with Jackie Coogan and Charlie Chaplin, has been barred out of Austria by the censors at a private showing to the Vienna press, and American officials in the Austrian capital discovered young Jackie wielding a wicked wing and manifesting marvelous marksmanship in nefariously heaving ground biscuits through windows.

EXHIBIT SOUNDS NOTE OF BEAUTY

Mausoleum Model Reveals Dignity and Comfort Of Forest Lawn

The exhibit of the Forest Lawn Memorial Park, an exquisite model of the mausoleum that is now in course of construction, bears out the central idea that has directed the laying out of the park since the present association assumed charge of the property. The atmosphere of gloom and sadness that is so frequently associated with departure from this life has been banished and in its stead there reigns an air of beauty and peace that brings to the beholder a note of spiritual comfort and a realization of the dignity that should pervade and plot that has been set aside as God's Acre.

The model of the mausoleum has been constructed by J. T. Edwards and measures six feet by four feet, while the background for the model is made up of plants arranged in a fitting setting to bear out the scheme of solemn beauty that has been the inspiration of landscape artists and architects, and that follows definitely the park plan of cemetery development that has been adopted by the association.

In the arrangement of Forest Lawn it has been the plan of the directors to work out and to follow a system of monuments that falls naturally into one composite whole and that sounds a note of harmony, while the vast mausoleum conveys the impression that was first in the minds of its builders, that it has been built to provide the perpetual care that is the desire of those whose loved ones are laid to rest there.

Francis Gordon will be in charge of the exhibit at the exposition and will furnish illustrated booklets dealing with the plans of the Forest Lawn Memorial Park association in their work of making this the leading and most beautiful cemetery in the country.

ICE CREAM WINS POPULAR FAVOR

Glendale Products' Worth Is Shown by Growth in Volume of Trade

A local product that has leaped into popularity since the start of its manufacture a year and a half ago is that of the Glendale Ice Cream Company, 109 North Glendale avenue, whose exhibit and concession at the Glendale Industrial Exposition is one of the centers round which the crowds are spending a large part of their time when the urge for refreshments strikes them.

The exhibit, which is in charge of Fred H. Roberts, one of the partners in the firm, shows what the Glendale Ice Cream Company is doing in the way of ice cream, ices and fancy catering necessities, all of which show an individual touch and, in all of which its trade is growing by leaps and bounds, as is shown by a comparison of the 40,000 gallon output of last year and its present daily capacity of 500 gallons of the finest ice cream made anywhere.

New machinery that has been installed this year has permitted the firm to reach the 500 gallon daily output without taxing the equipment to its limit, and as the demand grows and the business increases the firm will expand to meet the necessities that confront it. The firm is the only independent ice cream factory in Southern California, making its own way without any alliance with associations of any kind and basing its appeal to popular favor on the merits of its product alone.

EXPERTS TO GIVE BUILDING HINTS

Samples and Finished Work On Products Will Be On Exhibition

Advice to builders, backed by numerous samples and finished applications of the products described, will be a feature of the Gordon & Harrison exhibit of building products at the Glendale Industrial Exposition, it was announced today.

This information will be furnished by experts from the Gordon & Harrison organization, and will apply to use of sand, rock, stucco, metal lath, sil-o-cel, wire for outside plastering and numerous other building materials handled by the company.

Samples of these various construction items will be on display, while alongside will be concrete examples of the product after it has been applied for construction purposes.

The booth will be in charge of R. H. Duncan, manager of the company, it was declared, while W. L. Sisson and numerous other representatives and salesmen will be detailed at various hours to assist.

There were 14,050,565 Bell-owned and connected telephones in the Bell System at the end of the year 1922, an increase of 670,000 during the year. The number of connections made daily was over 50,000,000. Miles of wire connecting the Bell-owned stations increased to over 30,000,000, of which nearly 20,000,000 miles are underground.

PUPILS' DESIGNS OF HOMES SHOWN

Bentley Lumber Co. Contest Winners Are Part of Firm's Display

The opening day of the Glendale Industrial Exposition has been eagerly awaited by a large number of the students in the Glendale Union High school, who have been entered in the contest inaugurated by the Bentley Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz road, in which they submitted designs of five and six room bungalows in the Spanish style of architecture, and for which the prizes are to be announced this evening. The verdict, which is to be rendered by three of the leading architects in the Southland, will mean the granting of a number of valuable prizes, but what is of greater moment, is the fact that the winning designs will be displayed at the exposition for thousands of people to see just what has been accomplished by Glendale boys and girls.

A number of the best designs will be exhibited in addition to those that are adjudged prize winners, and the entire exhibit will be in charge of Donald Gillin, the manager of the Bentley service department, which specializes on furnishing plans and expert advice to prospective builders.

In addition to the display of model homes, the firm will have samples of patent roofing and other materials used in the building of homes, while the floor of the booth is laid in various finishes of hard woods, to show the variety that can be used in the different rooms in a home or an office.

MANY ARCHITECTS TRY FOR PRIZES

Designs for Small Houses Entered in Contest At Exposition

Few contests of recent times have aroused the same amount of interest as has that staged by the Security Housing Corporation, 144-A South Brand boulevard, whose exhibit of the plans that have been submitted by some of the leading architects in California forms one of the centers of attraction for the visitors to the exposition, especially to the hundreds of people who are interested in the building of new homes.

The conditions of the contest called for plans that were adapted to the erection of moderate-priced homes, and the enthusiasm that has been shown by the many contestants, as well as the artistic nature of the plans submitted, shows that the contest struck a chord close to the hearts of Southern Californians.

Many of the plans that have been sent in, and which are to be adjudged on Monday by a committee of three of the leading architects of Los Angeles, are the work of rising young architects, who show a grasp of their subject and of the needs of the home-builders of moderate means that promises to land several of them at the top of their profession in the near future.

Five prizes, totaling $310, are to be given away by the firm, and the prize-winning drawings will become the property of the Security Housing Corporation.

The corporation furnishes expert advice and assistance in the erection of homes, superintending the building operations and advancing up to 70 per cent of the value of the house and lot to the owners of the property, and the fact that the local branch of the organization has been able to attract to this competition over fifty of the architects of the Southland shows that it is filling a real need in the economic life of the state and of its people.

PAINT CO. SHOWS MODERN KITCHEN

New Equipment Designed to Save Housewife to Be Made in Glendale

Modern kitchens, the equipment for which soon will be manufactured in Glendale, and the latest in Patton's sun-proof paints are given a joint showing at the Industrial Exposition in a booth opened by the Stevens Paint Store and the Glendale Sales Company.

These kitchens, it is pointed out, afford such convenience that a housewife may provide a meal by taking only twelve steps in the process. At present, such equipment is being manufactured in Berkeley, but representatives of the Glendale Sales Company have announced an early opening of a local manufacturing branch.

Samples of paints distributed by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Stevens promise to attract hundreds to this unique exhibition. H. D. Charlton and C. H. Brainard are to be in charge of the sales company's section. Wall paper and other means of interior decoration are to be additional high spots of the Stevens Paint Store display.

The investment of the Bell System in plant and equipment, including construction in progress, was shown by the books on December 31, 1922, to be $1,758,000.

BEAUTY GOVERNS RADKE'S EXHIBIT

Artistic Showing of Silver and Cut Glass Wins Marked Attention

A striking display of the silversmith's art is contained in the booth of Ed N. Radke, 109-B South Brand boulevard, in the exposition, where the exhibit has been arranged with a quiet taste that appeals to the lovers of the beautiful as much as does the silverware itself. The studios of Gorham and of Rogers have been drawn upon for specimens, the Hawkes cut-glass is a thing of beauty, and the Stoufer's gold china wins the admiration of every beholder by its chaste richness. Mr. Radke is also showing a complete assortment of the Big Ben watches and clocks, as well as many other articles that have been selected for exposition, some of them from his wide assortment of stocks here in Glendale, and others that have been obtained especially for the exposition.

A feature that he is demonstrating to the exposition visitors is the "Dollar Point" pencil, a pencil that is the latest word in its own field and that is said to be winning its way rapidly to the front in competition with other leading makes along the same lines. The "Dollar Point" is a Los Angeles product, and its demonstration at the exposition is expected to establish it even more strongly in popular favor than it has yet been.

COOKING STOVES TO FORM EXHIBIT

No Bottom in Oven of Range Feature Display of Coker & Taylor

A demonstration of cooking in stoves without oven bottoms will be one of the features of Coker & Taylor's plumbing and fixture exhibit at Glendale's Industrial Exposition.

Another high spot of Coker & Taylor's display will be a public drinking fountain, at which the thirst of exposition crowds can be quenched. Water for this fountain will be drawn from a main, set so far beneath the surface at the exposition grounds that plumbing experts declare it will be nearly as chilled as though it emanated from an ice chest.

The culinary exhibition will be conducted by Mrs. H. Border, cooking expert of the Coker & Taylor organization. In this connection, Mrs. Border will explain various qualities of the stove without an oven bottom. Her advice along this subject will be extended to include practically every phase of home culinary work, it was stated.

Special pride in the exposition is being shown by Coker & Taylor, for the fact that this firm supplied practically without charge the plumbing necessitated by the event. O. G. Merrill arranged the plumbing firm's booth, and personally will be in charge much of the time.

Ill-humor turns its carrier sour.

STEELMAN SHOWS NEW INVENTIONS

Latest Steps In Optical Science Demonstrated By Optometerist

Reproducing a completely and up-to-the-minute refraction room, Dr. C. Stuart Steelman, optometrist, promises to stage an exhibit in Glendale's Industrial Exposition which, if anything, will surpass his display of a year ago, which captured first prize in the "unique" classification.

Glendale residents may view Dr. Steelman's exhibit with satisfaction, for the various recent inventions on display there represent a quota of new equipment to be installed in the Steelman optical shop immediately after the exposition.

Included in the Steelman exhibit will be a complete lens grinding equipment, where instruments, apparently endowed with human thought capacity, will shape eye-glasses and grind them to required refractions in a few minutes of time. A new opthalmometer, which measures astigmatism, and a phorometer, which determines the power of controlling muscles of the eye, both attached to a modern optician's chair, will be included with the other items of interest.

To add zest to his display, Dr. Steelman will have a wax effigy of a beauteous young woman, being examined for her ocular troubles. Dr. Steelman or Mrs. Steelman will be in charge of the booth.

DISPLAY HIKING, CAMPING OUTFIT

Reproduction of Camp Scene Keynote of Exhibit of Army & Navy Store

The center of attraction in the display of the Army & Navy store, 201 South Brand boulevard, at the Glendale Industrial exposition, is the young lady who is demonstrating the hiking outfit, complete in every detail, that has been arranged by W. C. Waring and that is being explained by Jack Huntington to the spectators who pause to admire the manner in which the girl and the clothes set one another off. As a special feature Mr. Waring has arranged a woodland camping scene, with a tent and a camp fire that is so realistic that it starts the veteran outdoors men and women off on a flood of reminiscences. Mr. Waring's one regret is that he wasn't able to borrow a bird dog to include in the camp scene and to lend the last touch of realism to it.

Every possible kind of camping equipment is shown in the Army & Navy Store's exhibit, all of them being on the models that have been found so sturdy and serviceable in the United States army, while a special display of tents is shown in the booth that has been set aside for the exhibit of the Downie Tent & Awning Co. of Los Angeles, whose local representative is the Army & Navy Store.

The firm is booking orders for the goods that are displayed in the exhibit and will deliver them from the immense stocks carried in the South. Brand establishment.

FERBER FASHION SHOW IS PLANNED

Latest Effects Displayed by Living Models at New Store's Booth

A wealth of costumic splendor, of the variety that starts surges of admiration, followed by bursts of envy on the part of feminine onlookers, is scheduled for display at the Glendale Industrial Exposition tomorrow and Wednesday nights when Ferber's new Glendale store supplies wardrobes for the nightly fashion show.

Under direction of Mrs. Edith Farmer, one of Ferber's local representatives, a choice selection of figured, plain and King Tut roshanaras will vie with embroidered flannels and white moire effects. Contrasting in styles will be the more simple canton graduation dress and ivory crepe de chines. An opera or evening wrap of brocaded silk, to be worn over a striking gown of brightest orange, is another of the seasonable novelties promised by Mrs. Farmer, while a green ratine creation is picked by several of the shop's attaches as the more striking.

Six models from the fashion center on each evening will appear draped in the fashionable modes from Ferber's. Augmenting these models on Wednesday night, a number of Glendale's youngsters are expected to participate for the purpose of displaying tots' attire. The personnel of this youthful bevy now is in formation.

Possibility that a surprise of far-reaching effect may be staged by the store as a feature of its Wednesday night's participation was rumored in the downtown section today. Details of the so-called surprise, however, were closely guarded by the store.

Time is unlike a rolling stone as it keeps the moss growing unless we keep pace with it.

PORTRAITS SHOW LOCAL CITIZENS

Dolberg's Display Reveals Latest Strides in Photography

Many of Glendale's best known citizens will see themselves in the exhibit of Glenn R. Dolberg, photographer, when they attend the Glendale Industrial Exposition. Mr. Dolberg plans to include more than fifty portraits, which he considers representative of his best work, and in the main these portraits will reflect the visages of local men, women and children.

Throughout Mr. Dolberg's exhibit will be noticed the effect of his recent innovations in portrait printing. His introduction of special gold and silver tones, in particular, is to be emphasized, while several hand-colored portraits, done in oil, by a new process, known as the "old masters" finish, also are to be given a prominent showing.

With Mr. Dolberg personally in charge of the booth during evenings, and Miss Marie Standley, his assistant, during the afternoons, the various phases of Dolberg's discoveries and advancement in portraiture will be explained in detail.

One purpose of the Dolberg exhibit is to create a desire for and an appreciation of the better in portrait work, it was stated. Portraiture, according to Mr. Dolberg, has made recent rapid strides, which win appreciation whenever properly presented.

State Road Contracts Face Test in Court

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—Legality of attempts by the State Highway commission to halt Stephens' administration road projects totalling approximately $2,000,000, by means of "cash settlements" with contractors, will be tested before the State Supreme Court at Los Angeles, June 11, according to notice served today on State Controller Ray L. Riley.

HOUSE KEEPER'S RIVAL, IS CLAIM

Gelfand's Products Shown In Exposition Reveal Dainty Relishes

Demonstrating the line made famous by the slogan, "The Housewife's Only Competitor," an extensive display of Gelfand's Quality Products is to be staged at the Glendale Industrial Exposition by A. Johnson, California distributor, whose headquarters is maintained at 5447 Hollywood boulevard, Los Angeles.

Tastefully arranged, the exhibition will include Gelfand's mayonnaise, combination relishes and the specially featured olive mayonnaise.

A feature of the exhibit will be a present of two jars of the products to all purchasers of the goods. Mr. Johnson and members of his Southern California staff will be in charge of the booth at all times. They will explain the process of manufacturing their line, from its inception to conclusion.

Stange Sea Monster Caught Near Florida

NORFOLK, Va., May 25.—An unidentified sea monster weighing fifteen tons and with 2400 pounds of food in his stomach was brought here today by the steam yacht, Tamiai. It was caught off the Florida coast and is forty-four feet long and twenty-three feet in girth. It had swallowed an octopus weighing 400 pounds, a blackfish of immense proportions and 1500 pounds of rock coral.

Scientists who have examined the monster say it is of a species dating back to prehistoric times.

The animal—for it is not of the fish family—will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution.

BOOSTING SALES OF REAL ESTATE

Hayward & McCartney Are Showing Subdivision and Service Plans

The advantages of an industrial exposition as a means of boosting the sale of real estate are being demonstrated by Hayward & McCartney, 142 South Brand boulevard, who are featuring their subdivision, Beautiful Bellevue, on the opening day of the exposition. This property, consisting of eighty-four lots, has already been half sold, but there are many of the most attractive lots still left, and the advantages of these will be explained by the pictures and the literature that the firm will have at their booth, which has been artistically decorated. Two houses are now completed at Beautiful Bellevue, and others are in course of construction, gas is already laid on in part of the property, and E. L. Fleming, the contractor, is putting in the street work now.

The construction department maintained by Hayward & McCartney will have the limelight on Saturday night, when plans will be shown of the various styles of houses that the firm has erected here, together with a new design that carries out an Egyptian motif and that will shortly be erected. This is a part of the firm's plan for service to its clients in aiding them in the construction of homes.

Monday's feature will be the Palo Verde Vineyards, for which the firm has the agency in this territory, and which is claimed to be the most productive grape district in California. Water is supplied with every tract in the vineyards, and the arrangement that has been made with the Palo Verde Vineyards Association provides for the care of the land on shares after the first payment has been made, so that, it is claimed, the land pays for itself except for the initial payment.

are Dependable Tires?

Ask any man you meet that is using Western Giant Cords how he likes them, and he will say "The best tires I ever used." That fact is one of the reasons why Western Giants are gaining in popularity in the west faster than any other tire.

"Western Auto" stakes its reputation on the performance of Western Giants, and you can bet your last dollar that the tires are as good as money can buy or a concern of our standing, that has built up its business from one store to seventy stores by treating customers right, could not afford to put its name and a 12,000-mile bona fide guarantee on this tire if it were not as good as can be made.

WESTERN AUTO SALES FORCE MAKES FINE RECORD AGAINST RIVALS

Glendale Branch Threatens To Set New Figure For The 1923 Season In Firm's Competition

BOOTH TO HOLD BUNGALOW CITY

Union High Students Win Honors in Lumber Co.'s Building Contest

Resembling a Lilliputian city constructed on modern principles of architecture, the Bentley Lumber company's exhibit at the Glendale Industrial Exposition will feature 27 model bungalows designed by students of Glendale Union High school in a contest just concluded by the lumber company. Each bungalow is accompanied by a floor plan to reveal how the student architects designed interiors of the pretty little models.

Prize-winning bungalows will be indicated by cards bearing names of prize holders. In the contest first to seventh place respectively was won by Ruth DeLaix, Niel Shuller, Fred Jennings, Marshall Phillippi, Christian Choats, George Russ and J. Hearold Rhodes, with honorable mention being awarded Marguerite Ruselle and D. Blue. The exhibit will be presided over by Donald Gillin, service manager of the lumber company.

Numerous local persons, contemplating bungalow construction, have signified an intention of studying the students' ideas for modern homes. Much interest in the contest has been manifested both by elders and students since it was inaugurated.

While Judges Alfred F. Priest, J. W. Morrison and Charles R. Selkirk rendered their decisions last night, the prizes will be awarded, according to announcement, at some later date in the exposition booth. George Lockwood and A. T. Wilson, instructors of the high school, have been warmly praised for the expertness displayed by their pupils in the bungalow contest.

WILL GIVE AWAY MIRRORED DOOR

Dixon Sash & Door Co. Will Award Handsome Gift At Exposition

A veneered, bevel plate mirrored door, is to be awarded some builder in Glendale.

Every owner of a house and lot, who expects to erect a residence thereon, has been requested by the Dixon Sash & Door Company to register at the company's exhibit at the Glendale Industrial Exposition.

Each registrant is to be awarded a number, and on the final day of the exposition a drawing will be held to determine which number proves to be the lucky one carrying the door as its prize.

The merits and uses of veneered and mirrored doors are to be explained to exposition patrons by F. E. Hoyt, manager of the sash and door company. To substantiate his arguments concretely, Mr. Hoyt will have numerous styles of doors and fittings in the booth. The award of the prize door, it was said, will be made personally by Mr. Hoyt, as one of the concluding events of Glendale's display of manufacturing and sales accomplishments.

ILOILO PLANS

The Philippine city of Iloilo is to have electric lights and a trolley line is planned.

News want ads bring results.

The Glendale branch of the Western Auto Supply Company, under the management of Claude Roudebush, has shown a splendid growth during the past year and is now entering 1923 with the promise of breaking sales records of the entire chain of seventy stores.

It is indeed an interesting sight to visit a "Western Auto" store, for here you will find a veritable department store. In this room is assembled a limitless array of equipment and supplies, everything from a cotter pin to heavier units. The system of selling is similar to that of our cafeterias or groceterias. Counters which are divided into bins hold the equipment, with the prices clearly marked on each bin. The motorist may therefore select at random any article he may choose without calling upon the help of one of the clerks.

Camp Goods Department

The camp goods department is a store within itself. The call of the outdoors fairly shouts at the motorist when he enters this department, for he is apparently transplanted to the "forest primeval" itself. Mr. Roudebush has built a forest within his store, where he may show the camper just how his equipment would look when he uses it on his camping trip. There on your left is an anto camp tent suggesting cool nights and tinkling trout streams. Over here is a camp stove, just the sort needed by the camper for sizzling bacon and eggs to appease his appetite that so seizes him in the mountain clime.

Altogether, the camp equipment display forms an array of enticing charm that makes the auto owner want to crank up his old bus and leave the noisy city far behind.

Crowds Throng Store

According to Mr. Roudebush, this vast assembly of camping equipment and motoring needs is none too much for the demands of the thousands that daily throng his store. "Satisfactorily meeting the needs of car owners for supplies and equipment of quality at minimum prices and the maximum of service is the foundation upon which our business has been built," says Roudebush. "Emphasis is placed upon the personal element because service to the automobile owner is one of the main functions of our company," concluded Mr. Roudebush.

The Western Auto Supply Company has prepared an elaborate booth at the Glendale Industrial Exposition, under the supervision of Mr. Roudebush, and he extends a cordial invitation to each and every motorist to pay him a visit at the exposition.

Guild Worker Burned In Exposition Booth

Mrs. A. A. Bassett, 1327 Valley view road, was severely burned at the exposition grounds yesterday when the gas oven at the booth belonging to St. Mark's Guild caused her dress to become ignited as she was preparing for the food sale at the booth. With rare presence of mind Mrs. Bassett dived through under the wall of the big tent and rolled in the sand in an effort to extinguish the fire.

Miss W. L. Packer, 208½ West Chestnut street, who was with Mrs. Bassett in the booth, rushed to her assistance, together with an attendant at an adjoining booth, and threw sand on Mrs. Bassett until the fire was extinguished, when the victim of the accident was hurried to her home, where her burns were treated.

Mrs. Bassett is severely burned on the breast, arms and face, but her injuries, though painful, are not likely to prove fatal, and her recovery is said to be assured.

SEEKING POWER

The government will investigate the rivers of Portugal with a view to obtaining hydroelectric power for railways, power and lighting.

CUT HUGE PINES TO GET EXHIBIT

Monster Sections of Trees Brought From North For Exposition

Two sections of huge Oregon pine, or Douglas fir, logs are headline attractions in the exhibit which the Independent Lumber Company has designed for Glendale's Industrial Exposition. Each of these logs approximate six feet in diameter. They were cut at the Independent Lumber Company's mill, near Aberdeen, Wash., expressly for exhibition purposes at the forthcoming civic event.

Avoiding the practice of soliciting sales at the exposition, E. F. Heisser, general manager, today announced his firm's intent that its exhibit is to be for educational purposes only.

"Persons visiting the exposition go there to look at the exhibits and enjoy themselves," he declared. "That is the principle upon which this firm has established its factor in the exhibition. There will be no over-eager salesmen pressing the crowd for orders in our booth."

In carrying out its educational purpose, the lumber company will have various grades and kinds of wood, showing climatic effects on each and the uses to which the woods can be applied in construction.

COMPANY USING EXTRA TRUCKMEN

Delivery Calls for Double Crews on Trucks to Handle Exhibits

The immensity of the Glendale Industrial Exposition was reflected today even in the lives of truckmen and handlers employed by the Glendale & Los Angeles Transportation Company. Due to the large amount of hauling occasioned in delivering exhibits to the show lot, the transportation company was forced to double its crew of employes, according to announcements. James H. Little, proprietor of the local agency, leaped into the emergency to drive his own trucks several times when regular drivers were unavailable.

The transportation company will experience the same rush of hauling when the exposition is concluded and the exhibitors return their displays to downtown establishments.

Eight Candidates in Race for Senate Seat

ST. PAUL, May 25.—Promise that the fight for the United States senatorship left open by the recent death of Knute Nelson would be brisk and many-sided, was made when the total of candidates filing reached eight. Others may file up until Tuesday.

The primary election will be on June 18. Lively contests are expected within the farmer-labor and Republican party ranks. On the Republican side the candidates thus far are Governor J. A. O. Preus, Congressman Sydney Anderson, Congressman Thomas Schall, Judge Oscar Hallam and former Congressman Ernest Lundeen. Preus, Anderson and Hallam represent the conservative wing.

Governor Approves Two Senate Measures

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—Governor Richardson Thursday started actively at work clearing up bills disposed of by the recent legislature, giving executive approval to two measures as follows:

S. B. 24, aimed at professional bond brokers, and tending to check the abuses of which they have been guilty.

S. B. 26, providing jury lists of Sacramento county shall be prepared by the judges of the superior court instead of the supervisors.

Into Yosemite
—In—HIGH GEAR

Never, in all the history of Yosemite, had it been done before! They said it couldn't be done. Yet the power and stamina of the Kissel has proved it possible.

Officially sealed in high gear by Marshall Huffman and Judge Bone of Merced, a standard Kissel 55 Phaeton driven by Carl Borgen of San Francisco, with Charles H. Holdson of Los Angeles as pilot and observer, last week made the entire climb from Merced via Mormon Bar, Elliott Ranch, Cedar Brook Inn, Miami Lodge, Wawona—to an elevation of 6250 feet at Chinquapin—and on into the Yosemite Valley. In spite of hairpin curves and long, gruelling 10% to 18% grades the Kissel won through.

Arriving in the valley the seal was officially inspected and broken by Superintendent Lewis of the Yosemite National Park. That the Kissel was equipped with standard gearing is attested to by the proprietor of the Gateway Garage of Merced.

Come in and inspect the new Kissel. Ask for a demonstration of Kissel stamina and power. Visit us at Booth 43, Industrial Exposition, May 25 to June 3.

FILM WILL SHOW HOME BUILDING

Progress From Forest to Bungalow Revealed in Pictures

What is expected to be one of the most interesting attractions at the Industrial Exposition is the presentation of a two-reel motion picture film under the auspices of the Low Building Company. This well known home-building concern has erected a special structure within the exhibition tent where the film is to be presented continuously during the hours of the show.

The presentation of the film will be in reality a preview as it is to be placed on permanent exhibition, beginning June 4, at the exhibition grounds of Pacific Ready-Cut Homes, Incorporated, Los Angeles.

The local distributors of ready-cut homes were fortunate in securing exhibition rights to the film during industrial show week and no initial charge will be made.

The film deals with every phase of home-building and has been produced under the direction of one of the Hollywood studios. It begins with the hewing of the huge redwoods in the northern forests and shows the many interesting operations required to convert the log into a finished home. More than 700 people were required to produce the film and most of the scenes were laid in the ready-cut firm's factory at Slauson and Boyle avenues, Los Angeles.

An added feature of interest will be a contest staged to secure a suitable title for the photoplay. The film is now nameless and prizes aggregating $100 cash are to be presented to lucky contestants submitting the most appropriate titles. Entry blanks are to be distributed at the Industrial Exposition by officials of the Low Building Company and anyone who is not affiliated with Pacific Ready-Cut Homes, Incorporated, or its distributing concerns, can enter titles. The contest is to close June 20 and prizes will be awarded as soon after that date as possible. The contest is to be open to the public at large and this is an opportunity for local contestants to try their talent in picking a suitable name for the film.

THRIFT IS URGED IN BANK DISPLAY

Work of Modern Financial Institution Shown By State Bank Staff

Checks for $1, subject to certain conditions, will be distributed in limited quantity at the Glendale Industrial Exposition by the Glendale State Bank, it was announced today by bank executives.

These checks will be presented at the bank's impressive booth, which is to be designed to demonstrate the work that goes on behind the scenes in the average modern banking institution.

The free checks will be signed by A. R. Eastman, president of the bank, who desires to encourage increased ideas of thrift among persons who visit the exposition. In order to insure that the checks will create a wave of sentiment against reckless spending, it is stipulated they may be cashed only after the bearer has opened and maintained a savings account of $10 or more for a period of six consecutive months.

Pencils, penholders and Southern California road maps will be distributed from the bank's booth. Circulars, showing that the bank, in its eighteen months of existence, has accumulated $1,089,118.49 in deposits, also will be given away.

Extreme care should be taken to see that nothing on the car scrapes the tires as they revolve.

Home Comforts Revealed in Selection Displayed By Russell-Pierce

All the comforts of home are shown in the exhibit of the Russell-Pierce Furniture Manufacturing Co., 1529-1533 South San Fernando Road, at the Glendale Industrial Exposition, and especial care has been taken in the selection and the arrangement of the bedroom suite that has been selected from the stocks that are manufactured in the firm's plant at the corner of Central and San Fernando.

Other lines that are included in the display include dining and living room furniture, overstuffed sets, day and night beds, that have been chosen with care and with a single eye to their adaptability to the needs of the present and future residents of Glendale.

An air of restful homeyness has been added to the exhibit by the arrangement of the rich rugs and shaded lamps and mirrors that are used to form the background of the exhibit, and an atmosphere that is clearly realized, in spite of the unobtrusive artistry with which it has been carried out, permeates the entire display.

The Russell-Pierce Furniture Manufacturing Co. is one of the live, progressive firms in Glendale and is steadily climbing from month to month to a leading place among the industrial concerns that are making a reputation for the sound worth of Glendale's products.

EGYPT, SPAIN, IN AWNING EXHIBIT

W. T. Gilliam Shows Variety Of Styles that Appeal By Sheer Beauty

The atmosphere of the booth that contains the awning exhibit of W. T. Gilliam of 210 East Broadway is redolent of ancient Egypt and of Spain, with the striking types that he is showing and that typify the styles of the warm and langourous east. In the same booth with the Gilliam exhibit is a display of linoleum that that been assembled by L. C. Davis, who shares with the former the premises on East Broadway.

Mr. Gilliam opened his place of business here in January, when the business took up very little more than desk space, but it has grown until now he employs a force of seven hands, all of them experts, and occupies a floor space of over 5000 feet, with business growing right along at a rate that confirms Mr. Gilliam's good judgment in picking Glendale as a business place in the first instance.

In all of the work that he is doing in Glendale Mr. Gilliam is developing many new and artistic ideas that are finding a ready welcome from local firms and individuals, and the beauty of his exhibit is a convincing proof of his intimate knowledge of the awning trade.

PHONOGRAPH IS VALUED AT $3000

Gem of Cheney Factory Is Center of Shuck Co.'s Music Display

Under a special dispensation from the Cheney factory, the Shuck Music Company, 211 North Brand boulevard, will have on display at the Glendale Industrial Exposition a plate glass Console model phonograph which is the supreme effort in the manufacture of phonographs today. The machine is valued at $3,000 and is heavily insured, especially when it is sent on a trip across the country as it has been sent now, and it was only by the exercise of powerful persuasion that Fred V. Shuck, the manager of the company, was able to secure it for the exposition. The phonograph is driven by an electric motor and embodies all the latest principles of instruments of this kind.

Mr. Shuck is showing a complete line of Cheney phonographs and of Vocalion records, made by the leading artists of the world, and the demonstrations that are to be given are certain to prove a powerful attraction to all the visitors to the exposition. Special models of the period Console phonographs have been grouped around the plate glass masterpiece, and the exhibit also includes player pianos and grand pianos of the leading makes that are handled here by the Shuck Music Company.

Will Show Films of Exposition Features

Joseph A. Eliason, producer for World Educational Films, featuring Baby Betty, has volunteered to make motion pictures of the young ladies in the queen contest, the fashion review and the exposition officials. These films will be immediately developed, printed and will be shown at the Low Building Company motion picture theatre in their booth in connection with the title contest that is being held during the exposition.

PLAN TO REVEAL FASHION'S TREND

Fanset Dye Works to Show Latest Creations in Summer Effects

Send your dress to the dyers. Then see it at the Glendale Industrial Exposition.

Persons who wish to enjoy this thrill may have their desire fulfilled if they patronize the Fanset Dye Works next week. The dye works plans to exhibit many of its accomplishments at the exposition, and these accomplishments will consist, it is said, of the goods which it has cleaned and dyed in its downtown shops.

The display will show in a measure, it was pointed out, what milady of Glendale is wearing this season. Dye works attendants declare that fancy organdies, dotted Swisses and other varieties of summer wear will be shown in a wealth of cool color effects, which have been found highly suitable.

Dye works people today were secretly chuckling over a comedy feature expected to be inserted in the exhibit. Just what this risible high light is to consist of, however, was maintained as a secret until the curtain raises on the exposition. Charles Talbott it was intimated, will be the principal laughter creator. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fanset will have charge of the display.

Hard Work to Secure Jury to Hear Trial

CHICAGO, May 28.—Attorneys in Judge McDonald's criminal court have been trying for three weeks to select a jury to hear the cases of Fred Lundin and twenty-one codefendants, charged with embezzling $1,000,000 of school board funds.

Ten days ago eight jurors were sworn and the task of selecting the other four continued. Today the eight were brought into court on the orders of the judge. As they filed into the jury box, an attorney for the state halted one of them.

"Yes," came the reply, "but I've grown a mustache since I last saw you."

"I hope you don't grow a gray beard before the trial is started," Attorney Charles E. Berstein of the defense commented.

The sixteenth venire was called today and exhausted before adjournment.

SHOW TWO TYPES OF KISSEL KARS

Local Agents Demonstrate Handsome Models of 1923 Vintage

Two latest model Kissel Kars, each as impressive as a Pullman sleeper, will be introduced at the Glendale Industrial Exposition through the medium of the booth of the local Kissel agency, operated by A. W. Nelson and H. W. Burr.

While the two recently arrived rolling palaces are to be held in the booth throughout the exposition period, other Kissel Kars will be available, it was announced, to convey admirers on demonstration trips.

The more pretentious of the two big motor vehicles is to be a custom brougham sedan, finished in midnight blue. The other car is a five passenger phaeton of Irish lake maroon.

Co-operating with Mr. Nelson and Mr. Burr in operating the auto booth will be N. L. Nelson, son of the Kissel representative, and J. E. Grant.

DRAPES TO SHOW BLEND OF COLOR

Interior Decorations Will Be Feature of Showing In Lyons Exhibit

Numerous innovations in draperies will be introduced at the Glendale Industrial Exposition through the medium of the George J. Lyons booth.

In this harmonious and colorful array of silks, nets and heavier goods, it is said, will be found the most recent patterns for interior hangings. King Tut styles are not to be omitted, say those who are preparing the booth.

To familiarize householders with strides made during the last few months in draperies, Mr. Lyons, Ralph Preston and Miss Irma Patterson will discuss this subject with all who show interest. Special window effects have been constructed to illustrate the methods recommended.

Sheerest of silk gauzes, cream and ivory Tuscan nets, filets, marquisettes, cretonnes, damask and sunfast silks are to be featured in the effective assemblage of drapes.

Japanese Plan Ruse To Foil U. S. Laws

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—Details of a clever "adoption" program whereby Japanese, taking advantage of a loophole in federal law, propose to land immigrants from Japan on American soil, in contravention to anti-alien legislation, were revealed today in the columns of Nichi Bei, a Japanese language newspaper circualted in Northern California.

Practically unlimited possibilities for importation of Orientals to America under this plan are foreseen by the Nipponese, who maintain, so the paper recites, that entrance must legally be granted to all "Yoshi" or adopted children of Japanese residing in this country.

In support of this attitude, the newspaper cites the case of Aki Yoshi, 18-year-old Japanese youth, who is said to have been admitted at Seattle last March on orders from Washington when his adoption was certified by a Japanese merchant of Montana.

Staging Exposition Reveals Faith in Future Held By Business Men

ern end, one comes to Daly's circus, an aggregation of dogs and ponies with a distinctly wild west flavor, and the circus is said to include some of the best and most daring riders and ropers that ever forked a cayuse or curbed the free will of a range steer. Opposite the circus tent is the tent devoted to Miss Westlake's collection of sideshows, where fifteen pits of freaks and reptiles await the inspection of those whose taste runs in this direction.

When one gets through with the circus and the sideshows and enters the main tent, the red lemonade and the crackerjack and the popcorn and the colored balloons await him, and the 950 foot sweep of the huge canvas exposition site lies ahead of him, with its remarkable showing of the variety of Glendale's business interests, and hours can be consumed here, listening to the lecturers at the booths, gathering literature dealing with everything under the sun collecting samples of all sorts of products that will be on display, and where the opportunity offers to place orders for everything from an army mess tin to a vineyard, from a gallon of ice cream to a ready-cut home.

Relics of Warfare

Sky Clark's collection of war relics, covering a period of fifty years and showing instruments of destruction that have been employed in the wars of the last half century, is bound to exercise a fascination for many in whose memories there still lingers the recollection of the last war, of the Spanish war of twenty-five years ago, and even the civil war.

North of the main top has been erected the tent and the cages for the Charles Gay lion farm exhibit, a group of lions born and raised in Los Angeles, and forming one of the most interesting collections of wild animals ever presented in one show.

The fashion show that is to be a daily feature on the big stage, under the direction of Miss Ruth Stokes, a former Follies actress, threatens to block the traffic through the tent during the time it is on display, for the creations that are to be shown are the last word in the adornment of the devotees of fashion, and, as such, they are bound to exercise an irresistible lure for the women who will attend, while the husbands, with visions of bankruptcy staring them in the face, are liable to use every effort to hustle their better halves away from that point as rapidly as possible, except those of them who happen to be taking in the exposition by themselves, and these men will, it is feared, collect around the platform in such numbers that the women will be crowded into the background and won't see much of anything.

Music will be furnished twice nightly by the Elks band of thirty pieces, and Harry Horne, "the man who sings with the band", will turn loose a flood of melody at regular intervals during the show. Mrs. James Townsend, Australia's greatest contralto, and a former member of the Williamson's Opera Company of Australia, has been secured as an additional attraction and will also contribute to the harmony of the occasion.

"When Do We Eat?"

A solution of the riddle of the universe, "When Do We Eat?" will be provided by St. Mark's Guild, whose members have a booth on the west side of the big tent where one can take on renewed strength without going home to cook a meal or chasing off down town to hunt up a resaurant. The funds raised by this booth will be devoted to church purposes, chiefly to the building fund which the church is raising to enlarge the present building. This booth has been donated to the women of the guild by Director H. L. Leavitt, who has also given a space to the War Mothers, who are raising funds for their association, while the students of the Glendale Union High school have also been granted a generous location where they can display work done in the manual training classes during the past year. The Boy Scouts, too, have been allotted a booth by the director general, and the various branches of scout work will be exhibited here.

During the course of the exposition a number of new amusement features will be added as some of those at present on the bill leave to fulfill engagements that have already been made, but the new numbers will be up to the highest standard it is possible for the management to secure.

Expense Is Heavy

The original scope of the exposition, as planned by Director General Leavitt, has grown until today, when the project is launched, it is something of which any city in the country could be proud, and the expense attendant on its conduct has reached figures that were never contemplated when the plan was first started.

Four Arrests Near in Sun Drug Co. Holdup

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Four more arrests were scheduled in connection with the robbery late Monday of $38,300 from David Antink, collector for the Sun Drug Company, when Elmer Dowd, known as the "Pajama Kid," and his pretty wife will be surrendered and two other men will give themselves up as soon as they are promised immunity from the theft charge. This announcement was made by S. S. Hahn, attorney for the suspects, late Thursday.

Sixteen thousand people may be seated in the armory at Louisville, Kentucky.

Genius Of Leavitt Is Factor In Success Of Glendale's Exposition

Harry L. Leavitt, Director General of Glendale Industrial Exposition and the man whose vision brought the project to the realm of successful accomplishment.

but the men behind it have never faltered and have gone ahead with their plans, adapting themselves to new conditions daily and working on the theory that nothing is too good or too big for Glendale.

Glendale's Industrial Exposition is "all set and ready to go," and when the crowds surge into the big tent tonight they will help to write a fresh chapter in the history of Glendale's commercial and civic progress, a progress that has become famed throughout America.

H. L. LEAVITT IS GENIUS OF SHOW

of him an expert in his chosen line of endeavor.

H. L. Leavitt has spent his entire life in the amusement business since he started at the tender ago of five years with the old Van Amberg circus back in New York, following in the footsteps of his ancestors, who had been associated with the life of the circus for several generations before he arrived on the scene. He was for some time with Washburn's Last Sensation, one of the first American wagon shows, and at eighteen years of age he was manager of John Burke's Mirror of Ireland, a panorama.

Ran L. A. Theatres

He ran the first two variety shows that were opened in Los Angeles, The Club and The Fountain, and he also managed the first variety theatres in El Paso, Texas, and in Tucson, Ariz., graduating into the John Cort organization of New York with its string of theatres stretching from coast to coast. He remained with Cort for fifteen years and was then with the Sullivan & Considine circuit for eleven years, helping in the management of its enterprises, so that his experience has covered every phase of the business from the old wagon shows that battled for a precarious livelihood in little New England villages to the modern theatres and the biggest circuses in the country.

Mr. Leavitt's activities have not been entirely confined to the life of the white tops, however. He is an enthusiastic joiner, and boasts of membership in nineteen fraternal orders, one of which is the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which he founded. He has advanced to the 32nd degree in the Masonic order and is a member of Mecca Temple of the Shrine.

Mr. Leavitt had ten shows of his own in the Midway at the San Francisco exposition in 1915, and three years ago he took the French band that was touring the United States and managed its tour for the Ellison-White Chautauqua Company of Portland, Ore.

Works Harmoniously

During the four months that he has been in Glendale preparing for the present exposition he has worked in complete harmony with the committees of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and the Glendale Credit Association, the sponsors of the project, and in this he has simply done as has been his habit when promoting and conducting any other amusement enterprise with which he has been connected, sacrificing at times what might seem to be a personal advantage for the benefit of the project on which he was working, in the interests of smooth and efficient adjustment of the problems that confronted him.

In staging the Glendale Industrial Exposition Mr. Leavitt has been fortunate in securing as his chief aids Joseph Geisler, another veteran of the circus, who has acted as auditor of the business, laid out the grounds, and in general has been an executive on whom Mr. Leavitt depended unquestioningly at all times.

Another old-time trouper and graduate of the tanbark who has been associated with Mr. Leavitt is George Dynan, who handled the sale of the space in the exposition and who is given credit for securing the wide variety of exhibits that are on display.

In the course of his travels with shows of various kinds, Mr. Leavitt has given performances in every penitentiary in the United States for the entertainment of the inmates, and the unfortunate creatures immured in the homes for feeble minded persons have also been gladdened by his generosity in giving them free performances with many of the aggregations with which he has been associated.

DECORATE BOOTH IN CREPE PAPER

Artistic Note Sounded in Color Scheme Used by Glendale Book Co.

Resplendent in brilliant hues, the Glendale Book Store's exhibit will show the various uses to which Dennison crepe paper can be applied. Personally in charge of this section of Glendale's Industrial exposition, will be Mrs. Daphne M. Lyons, skilled paper tearer and maker of paper lamp shades, party favors and other pretty interior decorations. Others, who will participate in presenting the book store's exhibit, will be C. H. Bott, proprietor of the store, Mrs. Bott and L. R. Osgood.

Set here and there amidst effective paper work displays will be landscape views and other pieces of art chosen from the stock of the book store. Throughout, the plan of Mr. Bott is that the exhibit shall be highly colorful and one of the most gorgeous under the big tent.

To add interest to the exhibition, Mrs. Lyons will construct paper decorative effects, permitting patrons of the exposition to witness her skilled fingers in operation. The secrets of her highly developed talent thus will be disclosed to onlookers, so that the same methods may be applied later in homes of Glendale.

Various sorts of paper roses and cleverly designed bits of the product are to be distributed from the booth as souvenirs of the exposition.

How About the Plumbing?

To see that your new home has proper sanitation and water facilities you need the advice and work of experts in that line. Years of endeavor and specializing have made us just the people you should deal with.

We have found that those who do not avail themselves of technical skill in the designing and supervision of their homes, as a rule not only get less convenient, less attractive, and less well built homes, but spend more money in getting them than if they had employed the most expert workmen.

This is particularly true of modern plumbing. Work of the right kind requires the highest plumbing skill and our workmen meet that requirement.

During the Industrial Exposition you will find at our display a practical demonstration of plumbing and plumbing fixtures of all kinds. Visit us, ask all the questions you like. We want you to learn how the plumber does more to keep the doctor away than any other single agency in the city.
